ANTIHOARDING BOND INTEREST IS 2 PER CENT

Treasury Finishes Plans for Unlimited Issue to Aid Trade.

$60,000,000 FREED TO SPEED BUSINESS

Baby Securities Denominations to Be $50, $100 and $500; Maturity, 1 Year.

(Associated Press.)

Pursuing the administration's plan for luring $1,500,000,000 out of hoarding, the Treasury Department yesterday completed the final details of an unlimited issue of small denomination bonds with an interest rate of 2 per cent.

Secretary Mills announced the definite interest rate late yesterday, after forecasting previously that it would be above 1½ per cent. Earlier he said the issue would be "without a roof," with the printing continuing as long as there was demand.

While the Treasury Secretary was transmitting these details by wire to Col. Frank Knox, chairman of the citizens' reconstruction organization, President Hoover also dispatched a telegram to the Chicagoan.

$60,000,000 Set Free.

The Chief Executive informed him that the antihoarding campaign, initiated on February 4, had been instrumental in returning to circulation approximately $60,000,000 previously hidden.

Meanwhile, on Capitol Hill, the Glass-Steagall bill to liberalize the Federal Reserve rediscounting rules and expand credit suffered a one-day delay. Lying over for this period, in accordance with the rules, after being reported out of a Senate and House conference, the measure will be considered today.

Secretary Mills, who conferred with Eugene Meyer, governor of the Federal Reserve Board, and President Hoover early yesterday, in the latter's office, outlined the full scope of the proposed "baby bond" issue.

Denomination of Bonds.

It will be offered on or about March 7, in denominations of $50, $100 and $500, with a maturity period of one year and redeemable on 60 days' notice by the holder. It will be handled through bankers throughout the country, with distribution left to Col. Knox's organization. The interest rate was set lower than the customary savings bank interest so as not to attract funds already in circulation.

Mr. Knox, in first announcing the issue, declared his only fear was that the issue would not be large enough to satisfy demand. Mr. Mills asserted yesterday, however, there would be no limit placed upon it.

An additional $20,603,140 in cash was drawn from the Treasury on Tuesday by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. The requisition brought the total spent by the cor-

Czechoslovakia To Admit Trotzky

Visit by Exiled Leader of Reds Allowed Due to His Inactivity.

Prague, Czechoslovakia, Feb. 25 (U. P.).—The government will permit Leon Trotzky, exiled leader of the Soviet Red army, to enter Czechoslovakia for three months, it was learned tonight.

Trotzky, who is now in Turkey, previously had been refused permission to visit almost every country in Europe, although he declared he desired only to visit health resorts and receive treatment by specialists. It was understood the Czechoslovakian government decided to permit the famous Communist exile and his family to visit the resorts of Pistyan or Trencan-Teplitz, if Turkey will promise to permit him to return there after three months.

The government's decision was made on the grounds that Trotzky, who was exiled from Russia because of his political struggle with Josef V. Stalin, is now politically inactive.

Mellon Rests in South Before Going to London

Augusta, Ga., Feb. 25 (A.P.).—Andrew Mellon arrived in Augusta today for a brief vacation before taking up his new duties as American Ambassador to Great Britain. The former Secretary of the Treasury was accompanied by Mrs. David Bruce, his daughter, and Mr. Bruce.

Mr. Mellon said he had few plans and that the length of his stay had not been determined. He added that he might play a little golf and rest in an effort to relieve a slight cough.

110 House Wets Sign Liquor Vote Petition

Remaining 35 Names Necessary to Bring Resolution for State Referendum to Floor Expected Today; Move Disconcerting to Drys.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

House wets yesterday moved to bring about a showdown vote on prohibition, one that would put all members on record and smoke out the straddlers.

In the greatest display of wet strength the Capitol has seen in the so-called dry era, the prohibition foes began signing a petition to force a record vote on the question of allowing the States to vote again on the liquor question.

The petition needs 145 signatures. Within three hours after the petition had been placed on Speaker Garner's desk yesterday, 110 representatives had marched forward to sign it. Wet leaders predicted that the 35 signatures still needed will be on the petition today.

When Representative Fiorella LaGuardia (Republican), of New York, had ascertained that the petition was on Garner's desk, he shouted:

"Come on, boys, let's go sign it!"

There was a rush forward, and 50 or more members piled into the well of the House at one time. Among those who responded to LaGuardia's shout to the "boys" were two feminine foes of prohibition—Representative Florence Kahn (Republican), of California, and Representative Ruth Pratt (Republican), of New York.

Representative John Q. Tilson, of Connecticut, erstwhile Republican leader, was another who signed.

The House drys, who have been riding roughshod over the wets lately, were thoroughly disgusted by the eagerness with which their rivals moved toward the petition yesterday.

Representative Earl Michener (Republican), of Michigan, objected to the "confusion" and asked Speaker Garner to demand order.

"You can't have order in this House, it's impossible," Garner replied.

The petition was prepared and laid on the Speaker's desk by Representative J. Charles Linthicum (Democrat), of Maryland, after the Judiciary committee, by a vote of 14 to

APPROVAL IS GIVEN GAS RATE REDUCTION

New Schedule to Be Made Public Today; Saving to Users Boosted.

The Public Utilities Commission yesterday agreed upon the new consumer rates of the Washington Gas Light Co., but declined to make them public until today. It was understood on good authority, however, that the domestic rate will be as follows: $1 for the first 1,000 cubic feet used a month, 90 cents per 1,000 for the next 2,000 feet, and 85 cents per 1,000 for all in excess of 3,000.

The new rates for domestic consumers will go into effect March 1, but the commercial schedules are not to be effective until April 1. The schedules approved by the commission provide for savings of approximately $33,000 more than the $211,000 offered by the gas company, and most of this difference goes to the domestic customer.

Riley E. Elgen, recently made a member of the commission, has done the actual work of drawing up the new schedules with the aid of Thomas R. Tate, valuation engineer.

The new domestic rates were one of the dozen alternate schedules offered as evidence by William A. Roberts, special assistant corporation counsel, at the recent public hearing. The company had proposed that there be four steps as follows: $1 for the first 1,000 feet, 90 cents per 1,000 for the next 4,000 feet, 85 cents for the next 45,000 feet, and 80 cents for each 1,000 feet in excess of 50,000 feet used monthly.

The present rate is $1 per 1,000 for the first 1,500 cubic feet and 90 cents

French Divers Recover 4 Kegs of Gold at Port

Cherbourg, France, Feb. 25 (A.P.). Four kegs of gold valued at $200,000, which fell overboard while they were being landed from the liner Berengaria Tuesday, were recovered by divers today.

They were part of a $24,000,000 shipment consigned to the Bank of France.

FOUR ARE CONVICTED IN MAYFLOWER CASE

Found Guilty in $1,000,000 Conspiracy of Using Mails to Defraud.

Special to The Washington Post.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Feb. 25.—Four officers of the American Bond & Mortgage Co. were found guilty of using the mails to defraud in a $1,000,000 conspiracy, in a verdict read in Federal Court this morning before Judge Nelson McVicar.

They are William J. Moore, president; Harold A. Moore, secretary and treasurer; Kenneth W. Moore, assistant treasurer, and Charles C. Moore, vice president, all of New York and Chicago.

A fifth defendant who went to trial, Charles B. Moore, was released on a directed verdict of not guilty.

The five were charged with issuance of more than $1,000,000 in second mortgage bonds of the Mayflower Hotel, Washington, D. C. Two others named in the indictment were not tried, Hayden W. Ward, New York, pleaded no defense, and Daniel J. O'Brien, hotel manager, of Washington, was granted a separate trial.

The jury verdict was returned sealed at midnight after twelve hours of deliberation that followed the two weeks' trial.

Earl P. Reed, defense counsel, said a motion for a new trial would be filed today or tomorrow. Hearing on the motion will be set for Monday, Judge McVicar indicated.

The jury held the four defendants guilty on eight counts charging mail fraud and one charging conspiracy. If motions for a new trial are overruled the maximum sentence is 42 years imprisonment and $18,000 fine, court attaches said.

Testimony showed the Mayflower Hotel was overbonded when built, and never made money for stockholders. Despite this fact, it was charged that additional second mortgage bonds were issued.

It is believed Pittsburgh district residents invested more than $70,000.

ARMS SESSION IN AGREEMENT ON YARDSTICK

To Use Draft Convention, but Actual Figures Are Lacking.

DRASTIC CUT SOUGHT BY SOVIET REJECTED

Tardieu Gains Victory on Plea for Commission on Security.

Geneva, Feb. 25 (A.P.).—The World Disarmament Conference unanimously selected a ruler today to measure armaments in its future negotiations, and turned down a Russian plan for general and total disarmament.

The rule is the draft convention of the preliminary disarmament commission, but the inch, caliber, ton and man-power marks carved in it in 1930 by the preconference negotiations are rather vague and dim.

The resolution to make the draft convention a basis of discussion was adopted on the motion of Sir John Simon, the British delegate, after Maxim Litvinoff, the Russian, had made a long but futile plea for his total armament scrapping plan.

Victory for Tardieu.

The day was not without a strategic victory for Andre Tardieu, the new French premier, who gained approval of his proposal to appoint a special political commission to deal with security and arming of the League of Nations.

Some observers held that the French international police force idea gained a dominant position in future deliberations through the appointment of the commission. It will deal with all political questions before the conference, but will return them to the general commission for final ratification. Ambassador Hugh Gibson, the American delegate, gave his approval when Tardieu made it clear that all states participating in the conference would also take part in the political commission.

Since Tardieu had no objection to the draft convention and also won his security point, critics appeared to agree that when he boarded a train for Paris tonight for a brief stay, he carried in his satchel a couple of documents that represented victory.

Provisions of Plan.

The preliminary draft convention approved as a conference yardstick represents the nearest approach to an agreement on disarmament in the preparatory commission.

It opens with an agreement on the part of each nation to limit and, as far as possible, reduce armaments. It provides limitation of peace time effectives and conscript army period.

It also provides indirect limitation of land material through limited expenditure, and direct limitation of naval materiel by tonnage and gun caliber. Naval expenditures are also limited, as well as the total number, horsepower and volume of dirigibles, and the total number and horsepower of airplanes.

Since there are substantial reservations to these and other provisions of the draft convention, it is in effect merely a skeleton framework without any actual figures of limitation inserted.

Californians to Urge Will Rogers for 1932

Sacramento, Calif., Feb. 25 (A.P.).—The Secretary of State's office was asked today for information on how to get the name of Will Rogers, humorist, on the Democratic party's May ballot as a presidential candidate. The request came from "the committee on candidacy for presidential nomination in the Democratic primaries for Will Rogers," an organization with headquarters in Los Angeles.

The office informed the committee it will be necessary to file the names of 48 electors and 1,670 signatures of voters between February 28 and March 24 to qualify Rogers.

FUND SHORTAGE IN ARLINGTON IS HELD GROWING

Missing Cash May Reach $300,000; Crisis Loan Is Rushed.

SCHOOL SUSPENSION POSSIBILITY FOUGHT

County Treasurer Ball Will Remain in Office While Audit Is Made.

Plans for floating a $100,000 loan to finance Arlington County until March 15 will be made at a special meeting of the county board today. Announcement of the meeting and plans to float the emergency loan came on the heels of revelations that the alleged shortage in the county treasurer's office would reach the full $300,000 for which he was bonded.

Two banks have offered to loan the county $100,000 to meet its pay roll and keep its schools going, and it is understood that five other banks which are depositories for the county, are ready to help.

A startling uptrend in the alleged shortages of County Treasurer E. Wade Ball was revealed yesterday by members of the county board and officials in Richmond. State Comptroller E. R. Combs declared that $24,472.64, representing collections of license taxes and capitation taxes, collected during January and due on January 31, have never been received by the State.

Total Amount in Doubt.

Mr. Combs said there is no way of determining the total amount of the alleged shortage of the Arlington County treasurer's office at the present time.

Another alleged shortage of $20,000 was revealed by members of the county board. This sum represents a warrant for the payment of a note ordered drawn by the former county board of supervisors at the last meeting of that group, December 30, 1931. The note was payable at an Alexandria bank.

Minutes of the board show that the note was executed September 15, 1931, for the use and benefit of the water fund. Bank officials say the note has never been paid.

Resources Put at $6,000.

The present balance of Ball's several official and personal bank accounts is only $6,000, Harry E. Fellows, chairman of the county board, said last night. He said that outstanding checks, presented for payment in the last two days had reduced the county's resources to this figure.

Previously members of the board said that missing funds included

Murray Bruised In Auto Accident

Highway Crash Delays His Speech in Indiana; 3 Others Hurt.

Indianapolis, Feb. 25 (A.P.).—Gov. William H. Murray, of Oklahoma, and three other persons in an automobile in which he was en route from Fort Wayne to Indianapolis were bruised and shaken up early tonight when the car left the road near Alexandria, Ind. The accident delayed the governor's arrival to address a political meeting here until 9 p. m. and kept a crowd of approximately 7,000 waiting.

In the automobile with Murray were Jack Edwards, mayor of Marion, Ind.; Edward Semans, Oklahoma City, manager of Murray's campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination, and the driver, Roy Collins, assistant chief of police at Marion.

The accident occurred two miles north of Alexandria when the Murray party attempted to pass another automobile, and faced a truck approaching without lights. Collins pulled the machine out of the truck's path, struck the rear of the car he was attempting to pass, swerved into a ditch and out of it, finally stopping the car against a fence.

CHINESE ARMY REGAINS MUCH OF LOST GROUND; AMMUNITION RUNS LOW

Stimson Called Ignorant of History of Parley in Washington.

NAVAL RATIO CITED BY TOKYO OFFICIAL

Says Japan Accepted Terms Before China Problem Was Taken Up.

Tokyo, Feb. 25 (A.P.).—Secretary of State Stimson displayed "ignorance of the history of the Washington conference" in his open letter yesterday to Senator Borah, in which he asserted that the whole fabric of international understanding in the Far East was threatened by the Sino-Japanese hostilities, a high foreign office official declared today.

After reading press dispatches quoting portions of the Secretary's letter, this official questioned the validity of Col Stimson's assumption that American naval concessions in the Washington treaty were predicated on guarantees embodied in the nine-power pact.

Japanese military authorities worked today at top-speed—and under the protection of censorship—to carry out the cabinet decision to double the army forces at Shanghai. There was supreme confidence that the army would be sufficiently strong to strike a decisive blow before the Chinese were able to reinforce their line.

Departing Troops Cheered.

Meanwhile residents of Tokyo had some direct contact with warlike preparations. Troop trains passed close to the city and there were other military measures which gave the public a chance to put on demonstrations for the departing soldiers.

Gen. Yoshinori Shirakawa, who has been mentioned as a probable high commander at Shanghai, was granted an audience by Emperor Hirohito. It was announced afterward that he had been named to "a certain important military post."

The foreign office official who commented on the Stimson letter said the naval agreement actually was completed at the Washington conference before the powers began a real consideration of the Chinese problem. Japan, this spokesman declared, had agreed to the naval terms and had left many problems of the utmost importance to her for settlement in the later stages of the conference.

Ratio of 60 Per Cent.

The spokesman said the Tokyo government had accepted a 60 per cent battleship ratio early in the conference, thereby leaving the Japanese delegation open to a charge of having laid down all trump cards early in the game. Had Japan wished to bargain with naval terms against matters embodied in the Nine-Power Treaty, he added, she certainly would have delayed agreement indefinitely.

"Mr. Stimson displays an ignorance of the history of the Washington conference," the official declared.

He asserted the views of Japan regarding the applicability of the Nine-Power Treaty to the Chinese situation were clearly presented in the following passages from a statement written for the Associated Press by Foreign Minister Kenkichi Yoshizawa on February 21:

"It would be equally impossible and undesirable to repudiate the Wash-

Chiang Kai-Shek to War On Japan in Manchuria

Nanking, Feb. 25 (A.P.).—Chiang Kai-Shek, China's principal military commander, soon will be assigned to conduct a campaign to recover Manchuria, it was understood today. Meanwhile, Gen. Feng Yu-Hsiang, formerly known as the Christian general, will be given command of the troops "resisting Japanese aggression at Shanghai."

Gen. Chiang's military forces are looked upon as the best-trained in China. Two of his divisions already have been reported in the line at the Shanghai front. Japanese government officials have shown much interest in whether Chiang himself would go to Shanghai to take command.

RASKOB SAYS HOOVER WOULD RUN AS WET

Avers Referendum Platform Acceptable to President if Created by G. O. P.

New York, Feb. 25 (A.P.).—John J. Raskob in an address tonight asserted "I have it on good information that President Hoover will run on a prohibition referendum platform if his party should adopt such a platform."

Mr. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee, made the statement in answer to a question put to him when he addressed the monthly dinner meeting of the New York Young Democratic Club.

Should Mr. Hoover come out on such a platform, Mr. Raskob continued, and the Democrats also adopt a prohibition referendum platform, many dry would vote the Democratic ticket because, he said, they would consider Mr. Hoover a "Judas" and would "vote for the devil before they vote for Hoover."

The question which prompted the assertion was as to the advisability of pushing the Raskob home rule plan as a solution of the prohibition problem in a year when the Democratic party has "unusual opportunities."

Mr. Raskob said he presented the plan to the national committee as a solution that would avoid giving the Democratic South "a slap in the face" and because he feared the Republicans would propose such a plan.

Earlier Mr. Raskob had answered another question by saying he had never discussed with former Gov.

Mississippi Republican Group Sets Parley Date

Jackson, Miss., Feb. 25 (A.P.).—The Mississippi "black and tan" Republican central committee today called a State convention for April 30 in Jackson to elect delegates to the Republican National Convention.

The committee, of which Perry W. Howard, Negro lawyer, is national committeeman, indorsed the administration of President Hoover "except as it pertains to his attitude toward the regular Republican organization in Mississippi as to which we are assured that the President has been misled."

Kiangwan Is Surrounded by Invaders, Tokyo Officers Say.

2 DEFENDING FLIERS SLAIN IN AIR BATTLE

Each Side Claims Enemy Has Suffered Big Losses; Chapei Ruins Fired.

(Copyright, 1932, by the Associated Press.)

Shanghai (Friday), Feb. 26.—Artillery punished first one side, then the other, as intense battle went on today in the Kiangwan sector and around Chapei between the Chinese army and the fighters of Japan.

Japanese Army officers said at noon they had surrounded Kiangwan by capturing Chinese positions immediately northwest of that village on the battlefront here, which opened the way for their encircling movements. Observers received the claims with reservations.

Japanese authorities said two Japanese airplanes bombed the Chinese airdrome at Hangchow, 100 miles southwest of Shanghai, and shot down two Chinese planes.

The Chinese fliers were killed and their planes wrecked, Japanese naval headquarters said.

Bomb Chinese Airdrome.

Japanese naval planes went to Hangchow this morning and bombed the Chinese airdrome, destroying, headquarters said, the building and numerous planes inside them.

Two Chinese planes managed to take off and engage the Japanese fliers in battle, the Japanese said. After the raid serious fire broke out at Hangchow from the bombardment, sending clouds of smoke rolling upward. The Japanese fliers returned to Shanghai without learning the extent of the fire.

Steadied by their success in recovering from a rout and gaining back by desperate fighting much of the ground that had been lost when the Japanese smashed the line north of Kiangwan, the Chinese turned a vicious artillery bombardment on the Japanese strongholds in Hongkew Park.

Japanese guns answered shell for shell. At dawn they were doing most of the firing, for Chinese ammunition was running low and gunners had orders to use it sparingly.

The two armies battled for hours without advantage to either side. Machine guns kept up an unbroken hubbub.

Heavy Casualties Claimed.

Each side said its fire was inflicting heavy casualties upon the enemy, while it was suffering slightly. The Japanese said they had suffered less than 100 casualties, but "inflicted thousands upon the Chinese." The Chinese said their losses were negli-

Campaign Expense Defaults Foretold

G. O. P. Treasurer Says Party Should Count on Spending Less.

(Copyright, 1932, by United Press.)

Cleveland, Ohio, Feb. 25 (U.P.).—A presidential campaign costs are going to be radically deflated this year. Politics will follow the example of business, labor and everything else that is back on prewar levels.

J. R. Nott, treasurer of the Republican national committee, in discussing this with the United Press today, said Republicans should count on spending less than half what they did to elect President Hoover in 1928.

He said the party should plan on keeping within a budget of $1,500,000. The Republican national committee spent $3,500,000 in 1928.

Fascists Heckle Bruening As Hitler Gains Citizenship

Chancellor Faces Defiant Reichstag and Launches Attack on Party and Leader Opposing Hindenburg; Session Is Suspended as Din Increases.

Berlin, Feb. 25 (U.P.).—The Fascist struggle to raise Adolph Hitler to the presidency of the Reich pushed forward another step today in the face of an eloquent, hard-hitting attack by Chancellor Heinrich Bruening, who reaffirmed to the Reichstag the inability of Germany to resume reparations payments.

The government of Brunswick made Hitler a German citizen when it appointed him to a state office. It was understood that the Fascist leader, who lost citizenship in his native Austria, due to political acts, would be attached to the Brunswick legation at Berlin. He will oppose President Paul von Hindenburg in the presidential election.

Bruening, in his speech to a turbulent, defiant Reichstag, disclosed recent negotiations envisaging participation of the Fascists in a coalition government. He blamed the Fascist demand for complete control for failure of the negotiations.

"I have repeatedly offered President Hindenburg my resignation," Bruening declared amid an outbrust of wild excitement, jeers and shouts in Parliament. "However, I am willing to leave my post only to clear the way for national recovery—not chaos. I did not resist the efforts to let the opposition share power, because I hoped a moderate leader would maintain discipline. I personally would be unwilling to participate in such a combination."

"We would never accept you," the Fascists shouted in reply.

The session became so rowdy that the Communists began singing the "Internationale" and Vice Speaker Siegfried von Kardorff suspended the sitting to restore order.

Suspected 'Brains' of Huge Kidnaping Band Arrested

Chicago, Feb. 25 (A.P.).—Charles "Buster" Brown of St. Louis, alleged "brains" of a Nation-wide kidnaping and extortionist syndicate, was arrested today in New York, according to word received tonight by Pat Roche, chief investigator for the State's attorney.

Brown, who is under indictment here along with Louie Alterie and several others for the kidnaping of Edward Dobkin, Chicago commission man, is suspected of engineering scores of other terroristic plots that netted the various allied gangs thousands of dollars. In an effort to halt depredations of the syndicate, officials of Missouri and Illinois today appealed to Federal authorities in Washington for intervention.

The arrest was brought about, Roche said, through detectives who trailed to New York a friend of Neil Montague, another alleged member of the band, who recently executed a daring jail break here. The man, instead of calling on Montague, led the police to Brown, who was preparing to flee to Europe.

Other alleged members of the gang under indictment here are John Pin-

Hoover Declares Against Any Cut in Education Funds

Reduction in Financial Support for Public Schools Would Be "Neither Economy Nor Good Government," He Tells Association Leader.

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover yesterday declared for undiminished financial support of public education regardless of reductions or adjustments necessary for national economy.

The President's stand was taken in a letter to Dr. Milton Chase Potter, of Milwaukee, new president of the Department of Superintendence of the National Association of Education. Congratulating the department upon its conference just closing here, the Chief Executive asserted "we can not afford to lose any ground in education" since "that is neither economy nor good government."

Dr. Potter called at the White House late yesterday afternoon and the President's letter put in writing the congratulations he himself had delivered orally.

The President's letter follows in full:

"I congratulate the Department of Superintendence of the National Education Association most cordially upon the success of its conference just closing in Washington; and the Nation upon the inspiration in the high service of education that flows out to the country from its deliberations.

"These serve again to remind our people that however the national economy may vary or whatever fiscal adjustments may need be made, the very first obligation upon the national resources is the undiminished financial support of the public schools. We can not afford to lose any ground in education. That is neither economy nor good government.

"Yours faithfully,

(Signed) "HERBERT HOOVER."

PINCHOT FAILS TO GAIN AID IN HOOVER FIGHT

ASKS INDEPENDENTS TO ASSIST IN DRIVE

But Borah and Johnson Are Reluctant; Backers Fight Garner "Boom."

(Associated Press.)

A "stopover" movement with Gifford Pinchot at its center became a possibility yesterday and meanwhile supporters of Speaker Garner for the Democratic presidential nomination made further efforts to curtail activities in his behalf.

Gov. Pinchot discussed with Senators Borah, Idaho; Johnson, California; Cutting, New Mexico, and Nye, North Dakota, all Republican independents, a campaign to prevent Mr. Hoover's renomination.

From these discussions came indications the Pennsylvania Republican was seriously considering entering the race. Both Borah and Johnson, who have been frequent opponents of Hoover policies, have been mentioned as possible candidates. It was indicated Pinchot also urged them to join the preconvention contest, but received no promises.

Incumbent's Advantage Cited.

It was believed neither Borah nor Johnson gave the Keystone State Governor much encouragement.

The great difficulty of defeating an incumbent Chief Executive for renomination is believed to have been placed rather strongly before the Pennsylvanian. Pinchot has differed with Hoover on Federal aid for unemployed, but heretofore has shown no indication of a desire to contest with him for the nomination.

On the Democratic side Representative Rayburn (Democrat), Texas, urged Nebraska Democrats to leave Garner's name out of the primary there, and indicated the same procedure would be followed in California, where a slate of delegates pledged to the Speaker is under consideration.

Rayburn already had sought unsuccessfully the withdrawal from the Georgia primary of Judge G. H. Howard, a Garner supporter. Roosevelt forces believe a substantial obstacle will be removed from the New Yorker's path if Rayburn's requests are carried out.

Not Active Candidate.

The Texas representative, a leader of the Garner forces, reiterated yesterday that the Speaker was not an active candidate, but said he would take the nomination if offered.

This was taken to mean that Garner would not personally consent to filing in any primaries, where consent was required, but would let the volunteer forces go ahead and place him in a strategic position in the event of a convention deadlock.

A lively contest has been contemplated in California between Garner and Roosevelt, and possibly Smith, but the new move by the Speaker's forces has, in the opinion of Roosevelt's friends, increased considerably the Empire State governor's chances on the Pacific Coast.

It was pointed out, however, that while the California law required consent of the candidate before his name is filed in the primary, Garner delegates could run pledged to no one and go to the convention uninstructed if victorious.

Roosevelt Wants Opponent.

However, the New Yorker tried his best yesterday to obtain an opponent in Georgia by asking election officials to permit Gov. Murray of Oklahoma to enter the primary list despite his late filing. The officials refused the request, deciding to abide by the rules. Murray has not given up his attempt to run there and charged "skullduggery."

Omaha, Feb. 25. (A.P.).—Members of the executive committee of the Nebraska Garner-for-President Club today decided to disregard a request that the House Speakers' name not be entered in the State's presidential primary. His name will be filed and submitted to popular vote.

Grenville P. North, of Omaha, president of the club, announced the decision after Representative Sam Rayburn (Democrat), Texas, wired the request that Garner's name not be filed.

Jacksonville, Fla., Feb. 25 (A.P.).—Dr. E. O. Heath, pastor of the First Methodist Church here, today wrote John N. Garner, Speaker of the House, asking if he would object to having his name entered in the Florida presidential preferential primary.

"Representative Rayburn (Democrat), Texas, says Garner will not file," Dr. Heath said. "That may be Mr. Rayburn's view. We want to hear from Speaker Garner himself."

Hosiery Criticism Causes 300 to Riot

New Orleans Mob Stones Residence of Man for His Remarks.

New Orleans, Feb. 25 (U.P.).—Three hundred men and women, armed with stones and clubs, bombarded the home of Ashley Stone, 56, here this afternoon because he had criticized women of the neighborhood for not wearing hose.

Doors of the Stone home were knocked down and windows were broken by the missiles as they were hurled toward the house on Magazine street.

Earlier in the afternoon half a dozen maids and matrons had put Stone "on the spot" because of the criticisms he is alleged to have made. "Going without hose is a matter of style, not one of morals," one of the women said.

"He thought he was king of the neighborhood," a chorus of the participants said, "so we put him on the spot and crowned him—with a hammer."

Remains of a Navy scout plane after it crashed near Oxon Hill, Md., when the pilot bailed out at 7,000 feet. Inset are the pilot, Lieut. Frederick M. Trapnell and his Irish wolfhound, "Wally." Trapnell greeted reporters by asking them if they had news of the dog, which strayed away Sunday. The plane, disabled by failure of the tail mechanism, crashed into the base of a tree, tearing it, root and all, from the ground. In the foreground is the hole made by the engine, the tree lying across it with its base 20 feet away.

LISTING ON BALLOTS UPSETS DEMOCRATS

New Hampshire Leaders Rap Arrangement of Names for Presidential Primary.

Concord, N. H., Feb. 25 (A.P.).—Democratic leaders of New Hampshire, faced with the task of selecting the first slate of delegates to the national convention, today were considerably upset on ballot arrangements for the presidential primary, March 8.

Samples of the first ballots arrived today and showed that names of candidates for delegates to the convention had not been arranged according to presidential preference slates as filed recently by supporters of Franklin D. Roosevelt and Alfred E. Smith.

Considering that such an arrangement should be made, Democratic leaders were considering making an appeal to the attorney general for a ruling on the matter. They claimed that the present arrangement would lead to confusion.

There are 17 candidates for eight delegate-at-large places, 8 pledged to Mr. Smith, 8 to Mr. Roosevelt, and 1 unpledged. On the ballot received today the names of Smith and Roosevelt candidates alternated.

While discussion of the ballots was on, word was received from Boston that Gov. Joseph B. Ely of Massachusetts would come into New Hampshire next Tuesday to give his support to the Smith forces.

The Roosevelt forces, headed by Robert Jackson, secretary of the Democratic national committee, were expected also to increase activity in the interest of the New York governor's candidacy.

Meanwhile, the Republican forces, which will send a Hoover-pledged slate to the national convention, met today and voted to send its delegation to Chicago along with groups from Maine and Vermont.

Former Gov. Huntley N. Spaulding told the meeting that President Hoover will be reelected. He said the President's efforts to break the present economic situation were "beginning to show results."

National Committeeman Albert Hislop announced he would be a candidate to succeed himself at the Republican convention. Mr. Hislop was elected four years ago at the Kansas City convention.

New York Central Recalls 125.

Bucyrus, Ohio, Feb. 25 (A.P.).—One hundred and twenty-five employes of the New York Central Railroad shops here were recalled to work today, effective March 1, bringing operations to full capacity. A similar number of men went to work two weeks ago.

Ethel Barrymore Plans Debut in Films Shortly

Pittsburgh, Feb. 25 (A.P.).—Ethel Barrymore, America's "first lady of the theater," will soon make her screen debut, she announced today, and added with a twinkle in her eye, "My only fear is the camera."

Miss Barrymore, here in a stage play, said her brothers, Lionel and John, will support her in her first silver screen production. "Nothing is definitely settled yet," Miss Barrymore said, but she disclosed contract negotiations are being completed.

FRANCE FORECASTS LEAD OVER HOOVER

Will Have 296 Delegates to None for President on March 8, Claim.

New York, Feb. 25 (A.P.).—Former Senator Joseph I. France, of Maryland, who is seeking the Republican nomination for President, announced today his name would be filed in every State having a presidential primary.

"On March 2," he said, "the line-up of delegates in primaary States will stand: France, 296; Hoover, 0. Hoover has no delegates in sight, so far as I can see. I don't know where he's going to get any.

"To summarize the situation we will get Maryland's 19 votes; 61 in Illinois (Mr. Hoover didn't file there and under Illinois law the votes automatically go to me); 13 in North Dakota, where I have no opposition except Coxey, of Coxey's Army fame; 13 in Oregon.

"We think we're going to get New Jersey's 37. South Dakota is anti-Hoover; it has not come out for me yet, but we'll get it. Also 19 in Nebraska.

"That's 175 we're practically sure of. In addition, we have controlling factors in three Southern States representing 42 delegates. I can't say what they are now.

"We will also file in other States where we will get 79 votes and will have no opposition. Thus, we will have in sight 296 votes by the eighth day of March.

"I think I'm going to get 51 in Ohio also.

"In the case of Ohio, I have already sent my papers there but there was a slight defect in the filing and I'm revising it. I've received communications from California saying the State is in revolt against Hoover, and that if I don't come in they'll put an uninstructed delegation in the field. I've wired Sacramento to send the necessary documents for filing."

SENATORIAL HEARING ON SHORT SALES SET

Group Meets Tomorrow to Consider Proposals for Protecting Public.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

Under pressure of a growing feeling that the New York Stock Exchange membership has not come firmly to grips with the speculative excesses of recent short selling raids, the Senate banking and currency committee has determined to begin hearings on proposals for legislative control of the practice. Under an agreement within the committee, open hearings will begin at 10:30 tomorrow morning on a resolution introduced by Senator Hastings (Republican), of Delaware, early last December. The language of the resolution specifically authorizes the Senate committee to launch a "thorough and complete investigation" into short selling, and to make whatever legislative recommendations it deems necessary to protect the public interest.

Another clause in the Hastings resolution empowers the committee to summon whatever books, papers and documents it may deem necessary to the prosecution of its inquiry. This clause would enable the committee to inquire into the daily operations of individual brokers and trading concerns, and thus to bring to light the names and dates of various price-controlling short commitments.

Have Delayed Action.

Both Republican and Democratic senators, who are sympathetic with the purposes of the Hastings resolution, have delayed action on the inquiry in response to the earnest pleas of stock exchange spokesmen that the market leaders themselves would take vigorous action to check the bear-raiding operations.

The testimony of Richard Whitney, president of the stock exchange, before the House judiciary committee on Wednesday, however, has left a decided feeling in the Senate that the exchange looks on the whole market technique solely from the standpoint of the exchange membership, without a proper regard for the interest of the country at large.

Regardless of the soundness of short selling in normal times, say advocates of the Senate inquiry, the failure of the stock exchange to take into account the distressing economic effects of artificial price depression in the present circumstances justifies an exhaustive examination of the whole question.

Precise Influence.

The preamble of the Hastings resolution sets forth that complaints from all quarters make the charge that short selling tends to depress security prices below their actual or normal value.

The first purpose of the prospective inquiry would be to determine the precise influence of short sales on specific prices, through tracing the time relationship between large-block short sales and price declines.

As news of the Senate inquiry developed yesterday, the financial community heard unconfirmed reports that the governing board of the New York Stock Exchange had been petitioned by a section of its membership to place an unequivocal ban on short sales for a period of six months. This report, however, lacked official confirmation last night.

Spring Fashions for Man To Be Like His Gay Nature

By JOHN J. DALY

THE well-dressed man this spring is going to be well dressed—and no mistake about it. That is, if the Retail Clothiers Association has any influence, and the association usually does have something to say about style.

Here is the dictum this year, from headquarters: "The time has come for the well dressed man to doff his decidedly somber clothes and, this spring, don an array of colors more in keeping with his nature. Man, essentially, is carefree and happy. His clothes have become a state of mind. It is time he asserted himself."

Time, indeed, that man snapped out of it. In order to get the male of the species out of his somber clothes, the retailers have decreed polka-dot step-ins with zippers, the complete ensemble to include pink garters, creamy white suits, pale green hats fitted with feathers, lavender ties and shirts of dazzling hues—vermilion, cerise, baby blue and colonial red, in honor of the Continental Army.

'TWILL be a splendid sight, indeed, to see the new fashion parade, when May-time comes around, milord prancing down the avenue in his new regalia, a gardenia in his button-hole, swinging a cane and wearing ultra-violet spats.

And why not? As the clothiers point out, man by his very nature is a gay dog. He was untrue to the male instincts when he foreswore resplendent colors and left behind the giddy waistcoats of old, like a peacock shedding his tail feathers.

A trip to the Zoological Gardens on any fine day shows Who's Zoo, and what's what. All the cages display the predominant stylishness of the male manner—from the magnificent mane of Leo, the lion, to the pontifical peak of the bald-headed eagle. Indeed, the aviary is resplendent with the preening plumage of the male of the species—any species, all species.

* * * *

UNDOUBTEDLY, the Bicentennial celebration has something to do with this return to the glories of man's sartorial raiment. The officers in Washington's army, when they were on dress parade, were resplendent, immaculate, variegated. After the Revolution things settled down, and men spent all their active time at work, making the country prosperous and comfortable for fair femininity. 'Twas then that the ladies ran away with the styles—gay adornments that rightfully belong to men, who were not meant to be incased in society's somber swallow-tail coats and the sack suits of the business world.

Now, man is about to regain his lost glory. If he has the nerve to parade in the flamboyant colors selected for him he may rightfully and permanently win back his premiere place in the social whirl.

There can be but one objection: Those polka-dot step-ins, with zippers. That is carrying style just a little bit too far.

NAVY AIRMAN LEAPS AS HIS PLANE FAILS

Lieut. Trapnell Drops 7,000 Feet With Parachute in Nearby Maryland.

When the tail structure of his Navy scouting plane failed yesterday at a height of 15,000 feet, Lieut. Frederick M. Trapnell, one of the Navy's "three flying fish," made a parachute jump just before the plane crashed into the base of an oak tree in the woods 3 miles southeast of Oxon Hill, Md.

The nose of the plane struck an oak tree 14 inches in diameter, just at the ground, and tore the tree and its roots from the earth. The base of the tree was thrown 20 feet by the force of the crash, and it fell across the burning remains of the plane. Blazing gasoline from the wreckage ignited the woods which burned for several hours.

Lieut. Trapnell landed in a field about a mile and a quarter east of the crash, and greeted newspapermen with an inquiry about his Irish wolfhound, which has been missing since Sunday. He was picked up by Enoch O'Neal, and brought to Oxon Hill in the latter's truck.

Plane Developed Defect.

According to Trapnell, he had been out in the Curtiss scout for about three-quarters of an hour, testing it. Diving from 20,000 feet, it developed a structural defect in the tail mechanism, but he brought it to a level. It was unmanageable, however, and after sticking with it to a height of 7,000 feet he jumped.

The plane dug a hole in the ground fully 12 feet in diameter, and several feet deep and spattered dirt on surrounding trees as high as 30 feet. It was completely demolished, the cylinders being spread over a radius of 10 feet. Smaller parts were found 150 yards away.

According to O'Neal, who says he saw the plane from the beginning of its trouble, it first rocked from side to side, then dived. It was pulled out of this first dive, but appeared unsteady, and the pilot jumped. The machine crashed on a farm owned by Mrs. Mary Upshaw, and apparently made a half-circle after Trapnell left it, as it was headed east when it struck and uprooted the tree.

Lost Dog Sunday in Park.

The dog, which caused so much concern to the aviator, who minimized a 7,000-foot jump, is Wally, whose right foot is bandaged, and who wears a collar and tag. He is 2 years old and has a shaggy, light tan coat. Lieut. Trapnell asks that any one who has seen the dog notify him at 1901 Wyoming avenue or at the Naval Air Station. He disappeared Sunday morning in Rock Creek Park, near the Taft Bridge.

Yesterday's parachute jump was Lieut. Trapnell's second, the first being made in 1929 in California, when his plane caught fire in the air. He was born in 1902 in Elizabeth, N. J., and graduated from the Naval Academy in 1923. He has been on duty with the flight test section at the Naval Air Station since 1930, but has been ordered to duty on the U. S. S. Akron, and will report at Lakehurst on July 1.

Democrats Made Dizzy By Hoover, Ohio Told

Wooster, Ohio, Feb. 25 (A.P.).—An assertion that President Hoover has provided so much leadership since Congress convened that the Democratic opposition is "just a little bit dizzy" was made tonight by Assistant Secretary Jahncke, of the Navy Department.

"The present Congress was opened with loud yells for leadership emanating from the Democratic side," Secretary Jahncke said in an address before the Wayne County Republican executive committee. "Business, banking and industry were vitally in need of stimulants. Democratic cries for guidance out of the wilderness reached a crescendo. Gentlemen, the President of the United States has provided so much leadership that our friends of the opposition are just a little bit dizzy," he said.

Man Pleads His Guilt In Song-Sheet Charge

Mac Hillman, alleged song-sheet vender, was ordered held under a $500 bond yesterday when he pleaded guilty in Police Court to a charge of violating the copyright laws.

Hillman was arrested when he offered for sale words of songs that had been copyrighted.

GIANT AKRON SAFE, HOUSE GROUP TOLD

Defenders Rap Critics After Adams and Moffett Express Confidence.

(Associated Press.)

Defenders of the mammoth airship, Akron, rose yesterday to rebuff critics with emphatic declarations that repairs will render her entirely safe and satisfactory.

Their testimony before the House naval committee was added to the weight of earlier expressions of confidence by Secretary Adams and Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the Navy Bureau of Aeronautics.

Commander R. D. Weyerbacher, of the Navy, was author of a statement saying an inspection Wednesday had shown that "after the repairs are completed, the ship will be safely and entirely satisfactory." It was presented by Representative Woodruff (Republican), Michigan.

Differs With Statement.

Also, Representative Delaney (Democrat), New York, differed with a statement by Representative McClintic (Democrat), Oklahoma, that in the accident at Lakehurst Monday the giant airship might have been "irreparably" damaged.

Finally, Chairman Vinson ordered that hearings before the committee be printed so a subgroup, headed by Mr. McClintic, can determine whether there were any faulty materials or workmanship in the Akron.

Mr. Vinson recalled that had been the subject of the investigation. He said he did not see how the mishap at Lakehurst could have any effect on the final report unless it could definitely show the accident resulted from a defect.

Declared to Be Safe.

Mr. Delaney held "unwarranted" any belief that the Akron was "unsafe." He added that unfortunately "many people may come to believe these scandalous statements before the ship has a chance to prove her air-worthiness."

The Akron did not, however, escape some additional criticism. Representative Boland (Democrat), Pennsylvania, was at Lakehurst with other members of the subcommitee waiting to take a trial flight on the Akron, when a mooring cable broke and her rudder fin bumped the ground.

He said yesterday that from the "jar that ship got when she hit the ground I can't believe the ship will ever be the same."

Board to Get Report.

Lakehurst, N. J., Feb. 25 (A.P.).—The report of Lieut. Comdr. C. E. Rosendahl, captain of the Akron, on the accident which crippled the lower vertical fin of the airship, is expected to be made to the naval board of inquiry tomorrow.

The board, composed of Commander Sydney M. Krause, in charge of the Naval Aircraft factory at the Philadelphia Navy Yard; Commander Alfred T. Clay, operations manager at Lakehurst, and Commander A. H. Dresel, formerly commanding officer of the Los Angeles, formally inspected the damaged ship today in the hangar where repairs are already being made.

A few witnesses were called to testify as to wind conditions on the field when the Akron was walked out on Monday in preparation for a flight to prove her airworthiness to a House naval affairs subcommittee. A gust of wind at that time snapped a restraining cable at the ship's stern and she was blown around in a quarter circle, smashing her lower fin.

Darrow Is "Very Likely" To Enter Honolulu Trial

New York, Feb. 25 (A.P.).—Clarence Darrow, noted lawyer, said tonight he "very likely" would go to Honolulu to help defend Mrs. Granville Fortescue and three others facing charges of second degree murder.

He added, however, that he had not decided definitely whether to join the defense counsel for Mrs. Fortescue, Lieut. Thomas H. Massie and two naval enlisted men charged with slaying an Hawaiian. He probably would be able to announce a final decision tomorrow, he said. Mr. Darrow said he was speaking for himself alone, and that the matter was not being considered jointly by him and Dudley Field Malone, international lawyer, also invited to join in Mrs. Fortescue's defense.

Plans Discussed By Al Smith Club

Group Revived at Meeting; Officers to Be Elected Next Week.

The Al Smith Club of the District of Columbia, dormant since the last presidential campaign, was revived last night at a meeting in the Arlington Hotel, where 200 adherents of the former New York Governor and 1928 Democratic candidate began plans to support their favorite in the forthcoming convention.

While officers were not selected, it was agreed that every effort should be made to elect delegates to the convention who would cast their ballots for Smith. Addresses extolling the New Yorker were made by Bert Walmsley, Washington newspaperman; H. B. Foulthrop, former candidates for Congress from Philadelphia; Daniel A. Costigan, Chicago attorney, and James Slaughter, Washington lawyer.

The meeting was presided over by Mrs. M. Gauzza. Sessions will be held every Thursday night. Officers will be elected next week.

Girl Found Guilty In Ticket Peddling

Sentence Postponed; Had Sold Transportation Without License.

A Police Court jury yesterday found Miss Ethel Clawans, of Newark, N. J., guilty of a charge of operating as a ticket broker without a license. Sentence was postponed pending the filing of a motion for a new trial.

Railroad operatives said that Miss Clawans had bought return stub tickets from persons riding on excursion trains. These stubs, the operatives said, were then sold to others who wished to travel only one way. The investigators testified to having bought tickets from Miss Clawans last summer.

In spite of the efforts of Judge Isaac Hitt to speed up the trial, three days were required to get in all the evidence. Late night sessions were held.

HOUSE GROUP HEARS KIDNAPING TERRORS

Men Fighting "Racket" in Middle West Make Plea for Federal Help.

(Associated Press.)

Kidnaping, as a "diabolic modern racket," Nation-wide in its scope, was described in drama yesterday before the House postoffice committee.

From Chicago and St. Louis particularly came the cry of police and citizenry for a Federal weapon against the "abduction racketeer" who threatens, taunts and makes rendezvous through the United States mails; who transports his victim across State line to evade justice.

The plea yesterday was before the postal group for a penalty on sending extortion, blackmail and threats-to-kidnap letters.

Today the Midwesterners who told of terrorism will go before the House judiciary committee to ask a Federal law against taking kidnaped persons from State to State.

Only Gangster Lacking.

They were a group so typical of the particular part each plays in combating the "racket" that they reminded of a drama with all the characters present but the gangster that they all so graphically described.

Tall and unobtrusive, Isham Randolph, head of Chicago's famed citizen vigilantes, "The Secret Six," played the role of the scientific type of crime combater, alert, convincing.

In a low, rather slow, very even voice, he presented kidnaping case histories, gathered from his two years' experience in Chicago's gangland. He read gangsters' letters to intended victims.

Rope Sent to Mother.

Calmly he told of traveling abroad with the doors of his car always locked and his gun in a position to shoot. His voice changed neither tone nor color as he took from a large envelope an ominous-looking loop of rope and said it was sent to a mother with the message that if she did not "come through" the sender would "strangle Dorothy."

His companion character was stocky Sergt. Leroy Steffers, crack police deetctive specializing on abduction cases.

Square of shoulder and snappy of manner, the sergeant stood erect as a soldier on parade throughout his testimony. His tale was of tortures and threats of tortures to the kidnapers' victims—starvings, beatings, throwing in lime banks, lowering in a diving bell.

"I could stand here all day and tell terrifying experiences," he said.

Peril to Business Men.

From the standpoint of the modern business man, menaced by a lurking danger, spoke Walter B. Welsburger, president of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce.

With charts and graphs and statistice he met the gangster enemy, displaying a kidnaping map of the United States, a map where arrows at great population centers showed where escape across State lines was possible within a hundred miles of the crime.

He described kidnaping as "a business interstate in its workings, Nation-wide in its scope, managed by the criminal brains of this country."

In solid black on his kidnaping map were the circles showing where the kidnapers had made good their threats and killed their victims. A check mark showed convictions.

Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of police here, testified that in recent years there had been no records of abductions for extortion in Washington, and he attributed it to "the power and fear of Federal law."

Third-Party Candidate For President Files

Austin, Tex., Feb. 25 (A.P.).—M. Raelis, of Flint, Mich., applied today for a place on Texas ballots as a candidate for President of the All-American Nationalist political party.

Texas does not hold a presidential preferential primary. Delegates to the national conventions of the two major political parties will be selected at State conventions May 24.

2 BROTHERS SLAIN IN CLEVELAND FEUD

Third Man Dead, Another Dying After Revenge Shooting on Street Corner.

Cleveland, Ohio, Feb. 25 (A.P.).—The East Side's "bloody corner" at Woodland avenue and East 110th street was turned into shambles again late today as a gangland execution squad mowed down four men in a renewal of the Porello-Lonardo corn sugar feud.

Raymond and Rosario Porello, members of the fast vanishing Porello clan which wrested its underworld barony from Big John and Big Joe Lonardo in 1927 in exactly the same manner, were killed outright, riddled with steel-jacketed bullets.

Dominic Mangino died a few minutes after he was struck by the wild fusillade, collapsing in the street where he had staggered mortally wounded. The fourth victim, Joseph Damonti, fell with bullet wounds in the head and is not expected to live.

The execution squad, numbering three, roared off down Woodland avenue in an automobile.

The grim counterpart of the execution of the Lonardo brothers three years ago took place in a cigar store, where the Porellos and their two friends were engaged in a card game.

As terrified onlookers scrambled for safety under tables and behind partitions, the three executioners drew automatic pistols from their coats and poured a hail of bullets into the four men. For a moment they stood awaiting any sign of life from their victims, then walked out at a gruff word from their leader.

The massacre leaves but three of the seven Porello brothers left of the once powerful Sicilian clan which ruled the corn sugar and liquor kingdom on the East Side.

In another card room, but a few doors away, one October night in 1927, Big Joe and Big John Lonardo were cut down in a withering gunfire, their place at the head of the underworld industry to be taken later by the Porellos.

AMBASSADOR WALTER E. EDGE.

THE life of Walter Evans Edge, one-time governor, senator and at present Ambassador of the United States to the Third Republic of France, could have been taken out of Plutarch. Just as one of the ancient heroes began as aedile, quaestor, praetor, and thence on up to the exalted office of senator and sometimes even legate of the Roman people, so also Walter Edge began his career as printer's devil and rose to the highest offices in the republic.

He is still far from the Psalmist's threescore and ten, having been born in 1874 and his golf score is par or sometimes a stroke or two above the Psalmist's span of life.

His earliest experiences in the printing industry enabled him to gain a fundamental knowledge of the oldest craft which he used to advantage in creating the first great international advertising agency.

He has been a newspaper owner and was one of the first far-sighted citizens to realize the resort possibilities of Atlantic City. However, politics has of late years become his paramount interest. His success in domestic politics was reflected in his reelection to the United States Senate in 1925 and his success in international politics can be gauged from the amicable and cordial relations existing between the United States and France.

In the ranks of present-day Republicans he stands high and his word whispered along the cables from the Avenue d'Iena can exert a magical influence on a party caucus or a political council chamber. As long as he remains in the arena of politics, New Jersey can be comfortably relied upon for the G. O. P.

110 WETS IN HOUSE SIGN PLEA FOR STATES BALLOT ON LIQUOR

9, had rejected and pigeonholed the Linthicum-Beck liquor resolution.

This resolution, which is modeled after the Anderson plan in the Wickersham Commission's report, provides for an amendment to the Constitution to permit States to decide for themselves whether they want to be wet or dry. The Federal Government would be pledged to guard against the shipment of liquor from wet States into dry States.

If 145 names are signed to the petition, the judiciary committee will be discharged from further consideration of the Linthicum-Beck resolution and the measure will automatically go to the House for a vote.

Drys Are in Majority.

Under the old House rules, the wets were never able to bring about a showdown on the prohibition question. Those rules, which were held in force by a powerful Republican majority, provided that a majority of the House members, or 218, had to sign a petition in order to force a bill out of a committee and bring it to a vote.

Even today, the wets, with new additions to their ranks, can not boast of a majority.

When the Democrats took over the House this time, however, the rules were liberalized so that only 145 names were needed on a discharge petition. As has been said, the wets are confident of lining up that many.

There is no hope of the Linthicum-Beck resolution being adopted. A two-thirds vote, or 290, is required for the adoption of a resolution submitting a constitutional amendment to the States. The Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, says the House lacks that many by 100 votes.

Wets Anxious for Showdown.

What the wets are anxious to do, however, is make the members get on record and then take their chances at the polls in the next election. They want to make them do something more than say that they are for "law enforcement."

Big John Schafer (Republican), of Wisconsin, the loudest and most vehement of the House wets, is convinced that such a showdown would result in many casualties in the next election. He likes to tell about two drys who were defeated because they refused to vote against the poisoning of alcohol.

Speaker Garner said yesterday that the names affixed to the new petition would not be made public until the necessary 145 were on it.

List of Yesterday's Signers.

An informal canvass revealed that the following had signed the petition when the gavel fell yesterday:

Republicans (53)—Amlie, Andrew, of Massachusetts; Arents, Bacharach, Bacon, Baldridge, of Nebraska; Bohn, of Michigan; Boileau, Bolton, Brumm, Burdick, Campbell, of Pennsylvania; Cavicchia, Clancy, Connolly, Darrow, De Priest, Dyer, Englebright, Erk, Estep, Goss, Granata, Hancock, Hartley, Hess, Hollister, Holmes, Horr, Kading, Kahn, Knutson, LaGuardia, Lehlbach, Maas, Millard, McLeod, Person, Pittinger, Pratt, Ramsley, Schafer, Stafford, Stokes, Tilson, Tinkham, Watson, Welch, of Calif., Whitley, Whithrow, Wolcott, Wolfenden, Woodruff.

Democrats (57)—Beam, Black, Bloom, Boland, Boylan, Brunner, Carley, of New York; Celler, Cochran, Cole, Condon, Connery, Corning, Crosser, Cullen, Delaney, Dickstein, Dietrich, Douglass, of Mass.; Evans, of Mont.; Fernandez, Flesinger, Fitzpatrick, Gavagan, Granfield, Hart, Hornor, Igoe, Jacobsen, Karch, Kelly, Kennedy, Lamneck, Lichtenwalner, Lindsay, Linthicum, Lonergan, McCormack, Martin, Mead, Maloney, O'Connor, Oliver, Palmisano, Parsons, Pettengill, Prall, Reilly, Rudd, Schuetz, Sirovich, Somers, Stewart, Sullivan, of New York; Sutphin, Sweeney, Tierney.

GAS RATE REDUCTION IS GIVEN APPROVAL

for each additional 1,000 feet. People's Counsel Richmond B. Keech had proposed a schedule of $1 per 1,000 for the first 1,500 cubic feet and 85 cents for each additional 1,000 feet.

On the basis of last year's consumption the new schedules will save Washington consumers $134,484, according to tabulations presented at the hearing. The gas company has allocated approximately $100,000 for domestic rate reduction.

The demand charge of Schedule B is also expected to be eliminated under the schedules to be made public today. A minimum charge of $4 or $5 is expected to be substituted in this house heating service, but it will be collectable only seven months of the year.

As there was little or no controversy over the commercial schedules proposed by the gas company, it is expected that the commission has left them very much as suggested.

Sue Carol Loses $1,252 Suit.

Los Angeles, Feb. 25 (A.P.).—Sue Carol and her husband, Nick Stuart, film players, must pay William Lohlker, a contractor, $1,252 for decorating their home here. Lohlker obtained a judgment against them for that amount in municipal court today. They contended in a deposition given in Akron, Ohio, that another contractor had been employed to do the work and they had paid him in full.

SENATE CONDEMNS "YELLOW DOG" PACT

But Legality of Outlawing Labor Contract Is Held as Doubtful.

(Associated Press.)

A general agreement on the desirability of outlawing the much-condemned "yellow dog" labor contract developed during the Senate debate over anti-injunction legislation yesterday, but there was a sharp difference of opinion on the legality of such action.

The conflict arose from a clause in the Norris bill to restrict the use of injunctions in labor disputes. The provision in question would make the "yellow dog" contract, which forbids membership in labor unions, unenforceable in Federal courts.

The constitutionality of the clause was questioned by Senator Hebert (Republican), Rhode Island, who presented a substitute bill declaring such contracts against public policy and preventing the issuance of injunctions based upon them, but not attempting to make the contracts illegal.

View Draws Opposition.

Senators Borah (Republican), Idaho; Walsh (Democrat), Montana; Robinson (Democrat), Arkansas, and Norris (Republican), Nebraska, author of the bill, took issue with Hebert.

Other issues presented by the measure were shoved into the background while the lawyer members of the Senate argued over the validity of legislation against the contracts.

Hebert said the contract deprived employes by coercion "of the right of free association with their fellows and takes away from them the opportunity to deal on a basis of equality with those by whom they are employed." He contended, however, the Supreme Court had held there was no legislative power to outlaw them.

"There is serious doubt in my mind about the power of Congress to legislate upon contracts," he said. "The right of contract is inviolate under the Constitution, and the Supreme Court has repeatedly said that this contract is a valid exercise of that right."

Court Decisions Stressed.

"In the absence of a statute defining contrary public policy," Senator Robinson interjected, adding that the court had never denied the right of Congress to declare a public policy.

Hebert contended the court had taken public policy into consideration in making its decisions.

Borah, however, insisted that the question of public policy had never been before the court and said liberty of contract was not an unlimited right but could be controlled by considerations of public policy.

Before the House judiciary committee both sides of the anti-injunction controversy yesterday argued their case. The committee set the all-day session for oral arguments before beginning detailed study of the LaGuardia bill, which is identical with the Norris measure.

Speak for Employes.

Donald R. Richberg, of the Association of Railroad Labor Executives, and James S. Easby-Smith, counsel for the American Federal Convention of Labor, spoke for organized employes. Arguments for the employers were presented by Alfred P. Thom, of the American Railway Executives Association; James A. Emery, of the National Association of Manufacturers, and Walter Gordon Merritt, of the League for Industrial Rights.

Emery said the yellow dog contract "which Congress is asked to outlaw in section three of this bill is identical with the agreement which Congress has required from its own police and firemen as a condition of entering public employment in the District of Columbia."

He argued that the bill "seriously impairs the authority of the Government of the United States to enter its own courts or to secure their aid for the exercise of its powers and enforcement of the law, not only in labor cases but many others."

$13,972,886 Is Latest Walters Estate Estimate

Baltimore, Feb. 25 (A.P.).—An inventory, increasing by $11,319,518 the estate of Henry Walters, was filed in orphans court today, supplementing one of $2,000,000 filed some time ago and including only Liberty bonds and another inventory of $653,368. The combined inventories now list the estate at $13,972,886, but include none of the real estate.

The supplementary inventory filed today places a value of $300,000 on the Walters art collection, bequeathed to the city. The valuation was explained as representing only the tax valuation of the collection. Art critics of New York have said the value runs into the millions. Today's inventory also includes stocks, bonds and household property, including furniture.

Maryland Will Be Asked To Remedy Death-Trap

Representative Stephen W. Gambrill (Democrat), Maryland, will ask the Maryland State Roads Commission to remedy the so-called death trap at a point where Rhode Island avenue crosses the District line, near Mount Rainier, Md.

Here Joseph Sharbaugh, Baltimore newspaperman, on January 29 suffered the injuries which cost his life. There is no paving between the car tracks beyond the District line. Representative Gambrill thinks the State Roads Commission, and not the street railway company, should take steps to remedy the situation.

Pershing Awaits Authority To Accept Foreign Sword

(Associated Press.)

A sword and other gifts presented to Gen. Pershing in 1925 by President Gomez of Venezuela are being kept at the State Department until the commander of the A. E. F. is authorized to accept them.

This was explained yesterday after Gen. Rafael de Nogales, of Venezuela, had appealed to the department to return the sword to his country's national museum.

Gen. Nogales, explaining he was an avowed enemy of President Gomez, said the sword was "a priceless treasure belonging to the country and sacred to all South America." It was once owned by the Venezuelan patriot, Paez.

In official quarters it was suggested that if a desecration of the nation's historical archives was involved in President Gomez's gift, Gen. Nogales should ask the Venezuelan Legislature to take the necessary action.

The sword, a decoration of the Order of the Liberator, and an album of photographs taken during a visit by Gen. Pershing to Venezuela were presented him through that country's minister here. An act of Congress is necessary before an officer can accept gifts from foreign countries.

The GIRL About Town

AS ATTENTION is being focused at this time on the surroundings of Washington's youth and scenes familiar to him throughout his life an appropriate event is the resume, illustrated with colored slides, on historic Virginia gardens to be given at the Mayflower on March 7, by Mrs. Arthur Lloyd, a foremost authority on that subject. Among the patronesses who are thoroughly conversant with the history of these gardens through family traditions and long association with that region are Mmes. Harry St. George Tucker, Fairfax Harrison, William Beverly Mason and Hugh Cumming. Mrs. C. P. G. Bratenahl, also a patroness, has been the moving spirit in laying out and planting the Cathedral Gardens with much of the old boxwood from this same historic section.

The horseback trails along Rock Creek Park, Potomac Park and at Fort Myer are attracting lovers of the equestian sport as longer days and milder weather herald spring. The Cabinet personnel is frequently represented at Fort Myer by Mrs. Hurley who rides with her children. Another outstanding figure is Admiral McCormick, also a lover of horses, whom I often see cantering along Rock Creek trails.

Is she or is she not? The question refers to Rose Page, one of the popular debutantes of the season, whether or not she is engaged to a young naval officer is a much disputed point. Rose denies it persistently, leaving me in a sea of doubt.

* * * *

WOULD that I had had sufficient wherewithal to rent me a perruque and costume and hie me to the Bicentennial ball, which I hear was most colorful and well carried out. It was not so exclusive, however, as the ball at Gadsby's Tavern in Alexandria, where Virginia aristocracy was represented by direct descendants of those who had danced at the birthnight ball in honor of George Washington. In many instances the participants wore the original costumes donned by their ancestors. I understand that the gown worn by Sally Fairfax Harrison belonged to her ancestor, Sally Cary, for whom, even after she became Mrs. George William Fairfax, of Belvoir, Col. Washington cherished the greatest affection.

* * * *

Now that the peak of gayety is past, the debutantes are seeking more serious occupations. Business courses have found favor with Jane Thorpe and Betty Shouse, while Isabel Perry, Sidney Thompson, Kitty Poe Leslie Wright and Marbury Beall, in addition to a number of others, are zealously attending Red Cross lectures. Betsy Berrien, before she left for sunny climes, was taking an art course, as is Olga Craven.

Mrs. Hoover Taking Vacation in South

Stops in Charleston and Then Boards Ship for Florida Waters.

Charleston, S. C., Feb. 25 (A.P.).—Mrs. Herbert Hoover made Trumbull's famous portrait of George Washington in the city hall the first stop of a sight-seeing trip today upon her arrival here on a vacation trip to the South. John Trumbull, one of the most famous American painters, painted the portrait in appreciation of Washington's visit here in 1791. The priceless painting is owned by the city.

After the visit to the city hall, Mrs. Hoover left for Magnolia and Middleton Place Gardens. In her party are Mrs. Edgar Rickard, of New York; Mrs. Stark McMillan, of California; Mrs. Mark Sullivan, of Washington; Capt. Joel T. Boone, the White House physician, and Mrs. Boone. At noon Mrs. Hoover and her party boarded the Sequioa, Department of Commerce motorship, and left for Miami, Fla.

Beaufort, S. C., Feb. 25 (A.P.).—The motorship, Sequoia, in which Mrs. Herbert Hoover and a group of friends are cruising down the Atlantic Coast, tied up at a dock here at 8:15 p. m. to spend the night.

47 U. S. Publications Now Printed in Canada

Ottawa, Ontario, Feb. 25 (A.P.).—Forty-seven fiction publications formerly printed exclusively in the United States, the House of Commons was told today, are now being printed, for their Canadian distribution, in Canada.

C. H. Cahan, secretary of state, said the estimated gain in revenue from September, 1931, to December, 1931, inclusive, is $17,500 on these publications. The import duties on United States publications entering Canada from September 1, 1931, to January 31, 1932, was $206,806.

Disabled Destroyers Being Recommissioned

Philadelphia, Feb. 25 (A.P.).—Fifteen decommissioned destroyers at the Philadelphia Navy Yard are being overhauled and outfitted to replace craft that come in for repairs, Capt. Roscoe Macfall, in charge of the operations, said today. The work is giving employment to 1,200 men.

It was stated 35 Marines will be assigned to each boat, with about 60 officers assigned to the squadron. The first of the ships will be in shape by May and others will be ready for use in July.

COMMITTEE REBUFF IS DENIED BY HURLEY

War Secretary Asserts He Offered to Testify if Senators Desired.

(Associated Press.)

Charges that he had declined to appear before a House committee considering two governmental reorganization bills were countered last night by Secretary Hurley with an assertion he would be glad to testify and otherwise cooperate.

Mr. Hurley, who recently walked out of a Senate committee room after referring to "star chamber proceedings," was assailed by Chairman Cochran for failing to appear yesterday before the House expenditures committee.

The Secretary of War said last night he had not interpreted a letter from Mr. Cochran as a direct and personal invitation to give the committee his views on the two measures. He said that in his reply, which the committee interpreted as a refusal to testify, he had informed Mr. Cochran, "I would be pleased to send any one before the committee that it desires to hear, including myself."

Explains His Attitude.

Mr. Hurley explained that he thought, after a thorough study of the pending measures to establish an administration of public works, the recommendations sent to Congress by the President in a special message "are far superior to the two bills under consideration" by the committee.

The Secretary said he understood Mr. Cochran's letter as asking for a statement and not for his personal appearance and that in view of the fact that he opposed the bills he believed it "unnecessary to submit any further statement * * * or to present any further witnesses to represent the War Department before the committee."

In his letter, Mr. Hurley added:

"However, if the committee in the course of its hearings should desire the presence of any one specially, the Secretary of War will be pleased to send such witness at such time as the committee may designate."

Schafer Seeks Hurley's Presence.

When Mr. Cochran read Mr. Hurley's letter to the committee, Representative Schafer (Republican), Wisconsin, immediately made a motion "that we request the Secretary of War to come up here himself."

Instead, however, of accepting the Schafer motion—and a later one he put which would have asked President Hoover to explain his objections to the bills as they now stand—the committee decided to ask heads of the Government departments to send up to Capitol Hill their assistants whose work would be most directly affected by the proposal to consolidate all public works.

Mr. Cochran held the Hurley refusal to testify was "just an indication of what we will find if we invite all Cabinet officers." He added:

"President Hoover thanks us for cooperating in his consolidation plan and then Secretary Hurley refuses to come up here. I think we should go ahead without reference to the desires of Cabinet officers.

Oppose Every Consolidation.

"Why, some of them oppose every consolidation plan suggested. They all want to keep what they have, and some of them want more."

Riffling a stack of letters on the committee table, he said:

"I have here a bunch of letters protesting against the very thing the President seems to want. Here's one from the Secretary of the Interior; here's one from the Secretary of the Navy, and there are others, too."

Secretary Hurley walked out of the Senate territories committee recently after differing with Senator King (Democrat), Utah, on Philippine independence.

Before the expenditures committee stopped work, Representative Martin, an Oregon Democrat, referred to an earlier announcement by Mr. Cochran that the Army-Navy merger bill would be brought up tomorrow by a subcommittee.

"If this committee is ribbed up to report the bill out, why wait until Saturday?" Mr. Martin asked. "I hate to waste the time to come up here for a vote Saturday if the bill is going to be railroaded."

Byrns Disavows Politics.

Disavowing political motives in proposing consolidation of the War and Navy Departments, Chairman Byrns, of the House appropriations committee, told the House yesterday that "if we are going to consider a bill of this sort we must do so independent of the Cabinet officials to be affected."

The Tennessean said Secretary Hurley was "absolutely incorrect" in calling his consolidation proposal a political matter.

Mr. Byrns told the House the proposed consolidation of the Army and Navy had been suggested by President Harding "on his own initiative."

"I want to assure the Secretary of War there is no intention to make this a political issue," he said. "There are Republican members of the expenditures committee who are standing shoulder to shoulder in favor of this bill."

Mr. Byrns said Cabinet officials were justified in objecting to legislation pending before congressional committees, but opposed further activities by them in opposition to pending measures.

Se said Secretary Wilbur of the Interior Department was protesting against cuts in his department's appropriations through appeals to the press.

"Talk about lobbying," the Tennessean said. "Why, if I wanted to I could give you the names of officials who have been button-holing members in this Capitol."

Barbour to Take Place Of Hastings as Trustee

Vice President Curtis yesterday named Senator W. Warren Barbour, of New Jersey, to succeed Senator Daniel O. Hastings (Republican), Delaware, as a consulting trustee of the National Training School for Boys here. Senator Hastings resigned at the close of his three-year term.

A trustee must also be named by the House, which has yet to designate its choice. Associated with the Boy Scouts of America as regional director for the district embracing New Jersey and New York, Senator Barbour has long been interested in boys' activities.

Food Will Be Rushed To Snowbound Town

Denver, Feb. 25 (A.P.).—Pack mules, dogsleds and resources of a railroad have been united in a plan for bearing supplies to citizens of the snowbound mountain town of Silverton.

Fear of an acute food shortage there vanished today with the announcement of the Denver & Rio Grande Western Railroad that it would rip away the giant drifts in Animas Canyon to within 16 miles of Silverton. Work starts tomorrow at Durango, Colo. Railroad men estimated the job of eliminating the 20-foot drifts over a stretch of almost 30 miles would be completed by March 7 at latest. Sleds and pack mules will take the foodstuffs and fuel from there to Silverton.

Flames Menace Entire Waterfront at Buffalo

Buffalo, N. Y., Feb. 25 (A.P.).—Fire in the heart of Buffalo's harbor, mill and granary district today threatened the entire waterfront before it was brought under control and confined to a rambling one-story structure of the Cleveland & Buffalo Transit Co. warehouses.

The blaze originated in the warehouse and the flames were fed by large bundles of waste paper stored there by the Great Lakes Paper Co. Available downtown apparatus united in battling the flames. Several adjoining grain elevators were in danger for a time. No official estimate of the damage was given out immediately.

ELY SEES JAPANESE KIANGWAN VICTORS

Continued Bombing From Air Should Reduce Chinese, U.S. Strategist Says.

Editor's note—Following is another of a series of nightly articles written for the United Press by Maj. Gen. Hanson E. Ely, U. S. A., retired, one of America's foremost military strategists, on the Sino-Japanese conflict. Gen. Ely has been retained by the United Press to analyze developments in the Japanese campaign. His articles are based upon the latest press dispatches from the Orient.

By MAJ. GEN. HANSON E. ELY, U. S. A., RETIRED.

(Copyright, 1932, by United Press.)

The renewed attack by the Japanese infantry supported by 20 whippet tanks in the last 24 hours in the vicinity of Tazang on the north flank and the renewed air bombing of Kiangwan with some 40 air bombers is reported. An advance of about 1,000 yards was reported by the Japanese on their north flank.

A battle is made up of a large number of local combats, often fluctuating. There were commanders in the Boer War and also in the World War who withdrew their troops when not half of them had participated in battle because the commander, instead of having knowledge of the whole action, accepted his own view of some local combat where his troop were worsted as being the general situation.

MAJ. GEN. ELY.

Likewise unskilled observers may easily be misled by the fluctuations of local combat.

When material gains are made you may look for the movement forward of artillery and posts of command. The echeloning to the north and west in the last 24 hours of Japanese artillery would seem to indicate that they had made a certain amount of what they consider to be real gain.

The 20 whippet tanks reported as used in the attack is a comparatively small number. In the World War often 35 or 40 were used with a single brigade. These tanks are valuable in reducing strong points and barbed wire, but at Shanghai the swampy ground cut up by streams and canals is very unfavorable to their use.

In addition to tanks, the principal superiority of the Japanese is their air service. Reports show that while the Chinese have only about fifteen planes available, the Japanese have more than 120 planes at Shanghai, with bombers capable of carrying as much as 2,200 pounds of explosives. The largest air bombs used to date have been reported as 250 pounds.

The continued air bombing with the large bombs up to 250 pounds should eventually reduce most of the machine-gun nests and dugouts of the Chinese in both Kiangwan and Tazang. These are undoubtedly hastily constructed and probably are near the surface as the Chinese can hardly dig down more than a few feet, some 10 or less, due to water under the surface.

CHINESE DEFENDERS REGAIN LOST GROUND

gible and the Japanese were "trying to hide their casualties," estimated by the Chinese at 700 dead and wounded.

A reliable count of the casualties was lacking, but it seemed today under the apparently everlasting hail of shells and bullets that both were suffering sharply.

The Japanese managed to cling to most of their gains of yesterday excepting Miaochungchen, despite the Chinese counterattack. As a result of their advance the mikado's men said they held the village of Kingchiaosa, a mile northwest of Kiangwan.

Chinese Claim Recapture.

Occupation of Miaochungchen, which had been disputed for several days, was completed late yesterday by the Japanese when they broke the line, but the Chinese announced early today they had succeeded in clearing the last Japanese out of that village.

The Japanese left flank between Kiangwan and Chapei launched an offensive which resulted in slight gains.

The ammunition problem was beginning to worry Gen. Tsai Ting-Kai, commander of the Chinese Nineteenth Route army, who told friends that he had less than a fortnight's supply on hand. He urged that pressure be exerted on the Nanking government to rush men and ammunition in view of the impending arrival of Japanese reinforcements. The Chinese were depending chiefly on machine guns.

Lull in Fighting.

After several hours of fighting a startling quiet came over the Kiangwan front at 9:50 a. m. today. The Japanese heavy artillery ceased to function, while the machine gunners on both sides allowed their weapons to cool.

What began as another day of strenuous hostilities thus suddenly switched into one of comparative calm. Both sides apparently were licking the wounds from the past 24 hours of unceasing conflict.

As the hostilities slackened the Japanese appeared to have achieved an advance northwest of Kiangwan, but they had failed to rout the Chinese and more fighting seemed inevitable. The belief grew that the Japanese were stalling for time while awaiting reinforcements which were thought to be near, although the secrecy surrounding their movements continued impenetrable.

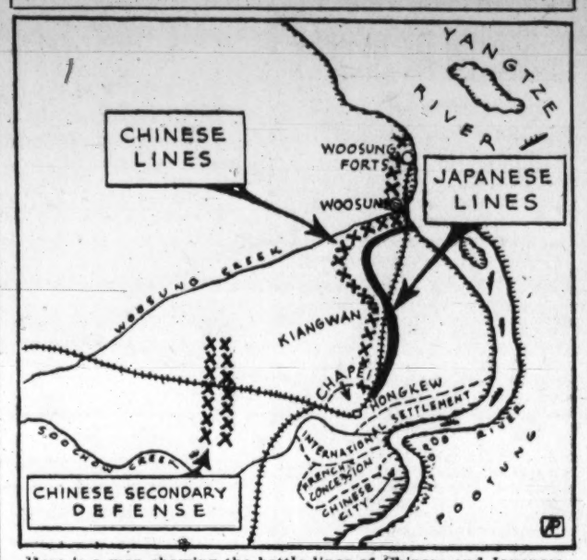
More Troops Report Denied.

That Japanese reinforcements were likely to land at any moment was denied aboard the flagship Idzumo in midmorning. A spokesman said no additional troops were coming today. What would happen tomorrow he declined to say. But certainly there were no troops coming in along the Whangpoo River from Shanghai to Woosung this morning. The waterfront at Woosung was deserted.

A few Japanese airplanes continued to reconnoiter over the Kiangwan and Chenju areas, the latter the seat of Chinese headquarters, but did little bombing. Other Japanese fliers were active somewhere. A large number of planes left the air field and disappeared in the morning mists. There was no sign as to where they were going or what they were doing.

The Japanese fire was concentrated on the enemy positions in the ruins of Chapei, and the sky was alight with the flames of new fires started by the bombardment.

WHERE GUNS ROAR IN CHINA



Here is a map showing the battle lines of Chinese and Japanese forces where the Japanese are pounding away at Kiangwan.

31st U. S. Infantry Leaves Positions in Zone for Rest

300 Members Quit Most Dangerous Section in Shanghai Settlement Line and Immediately Begin Shaving and Bathing Operation.

Shanghai, Feb. 25 (A.P.).—Three hundred dead-tired members of the Thirty-first United States Infantry, who have been dodging machine gun bullets and occasional shrapnel shells for the last fifteen days in positions along the International Settlement boundary, came out of the line today and launched a major bathing and shaving operation.

The boys will be allowed a few days rest before taking up their "squads right" routine.

They came from the most dangerous position in the settlement line, and their eyes were bloodshot and swollen from lack of sleep.

Units of the Scottish Argyle and Sutherland "ladies from hell" barelegged and kilted, took their places. The position has been a hot one because the Chinese faced them and the Japanese were on their right.

From these front row seats the Thirty-first had an excellent opportunity to watch the heavy shelling that has been going on during the last few weeks. Their sector frequently was peppered by machine gun bullets, and numerous shells from Chinese batteries west of Chapei ripped overhead toward the Japanese strongholds in Hongkew Park.

When the Thirty-first came up from Manila for Shanghai duty they were accustomed to tropical weather and some units were not fully equipped with winter uniforms. Many of the boys got their heavy underwear and olive drab overcoats while they were in the lines.

They had plenty of work to do piling sand bags on sand bags and putting up barbed wire barricades, but they retained their enthusiasm when they came out of the lines.

American officials tried to start a movement of United States nationals out of the Astor House, one of Shanghai's best known hotels, which faces Sochow Creek and is in the zone of danger, but most of the hotel residents decided to stay where they were.

Numerous Chinese shells fell in the vicinity of the Astor House last night. The projectiles apparently were aimed at the Japanese flagship Idzumo moored in the Whangpoo.

American officials announced they would publish a plan for general evacuation of Shanghai by United States citizens in case an emergency developed.

Americans would be assigned to assembly points, it was said, so that they might easily be picked up. Inquiries already have been made to determine whether there are facilities to take care of United States residents of Shanghai in Manila.

Japanese officials aboard the flagship Idzumo said they did not intend to move in spite of the Chinese warning that the Whangpoo was a dangerous place for vessels. American, British and Italian naval officers on warships near by took a similar attitude.

STIMSON DECLARED IGNORANT OF WASHINGTON CONFERENCE

ington Nine-Power Treaty which is a great beacon standing alone in the mazes of Chinese international relations.

"We can not pretend, however, that this succinct treaty furnished anything like a complete guide to international dealings with China. Had China since the fall of the Manchu dynasty, ever presented a coherent, responsible front to the world, things might have been different.

"It is the settled policy of Japan to deal with each case as it arises by the simple method of direct negotiations with China.

"When the interests of other countries are involved Japan heartily welcomes their close cooperation, but it is feared that any attempt to frame rules for the multifarious and confusing affairs in China would be an undertaking whose magnitude would be out of proportion to its effective results.

"For the same reason I do not think there would be much advantage in further definition of the terms employed in the nine-power treaty. The existing terms seemed adequate when the treaty was framed and terms seemifig adequate today may be wholly inappropriate six months hence. What is wanted rather is a frank recognition of the facts.

Claims False Vision.

"The defect in the Washington treaty, it seems to me, is that it envisaged China not as it was, but as the powers thought it ought to be. This has deprived that instrument of much of its value. To face the facts is the first requisite of statesmanship."

The foreign office spokesman recalled that in 1927 American and British warships bombarded Nanking despite the nine-power pact. The Chinese Nationalist troops were causing disturbances in Nanking at the time. Japan is doing essentially the same thing at Shanghai, the spokesman added, the only difference being the scale of the operations.

As the war department pressed ahead with its troop movements in Shanghai, it was apparent that the great majority of Japanese officials and laymen alike were convinced the only solution to the grave situation there was the vigorous use of irresistible force as quickly as possible.

Military authorities admitted they had been mistaken in their estimates of the armed strength required to destroy the Chinese Nineteenth Route Army, and asserted that those errors soon would be corrected.

Paris, Feb. 25 (U.P.).—The French foreign office tonight expressed agreement with the United States viewpoint as expressed in the declaration of Secretary Henry L. Stimson on the Shanghai crisis.

The foreign office considers that the United States materially reduced its strength in the Pacific Ocean in accordance with the nine-power treaty and, therefore, Washington is entitled to point out this fact to Japan.

It was reiterated that France has no secret treaty with Japan. France recalled that the nine-power treaty was aimed to permit development of Chinese democracy and that the powers agreed to respect Chinese sovereignty.

Held Grave Warning.

The press regarded the Stimson declaration as a grave warning to Japan.

Geneva, Feb. 25 (A.P.).—The League of Nations leaders expressed gratification today at the declaration of Secretary Stimson on the Chinese situation. They described the statement as equivalent to the United States participating in the forthcoming league general assembly on the Shanghai warfare, inasmuch as the American attitude is now clearly defined and furnishes an excellent guide to the assembly.

It was definitely decided not to invite the United States to participate in the assembly meeting. Unofficial suggestions were made that the signatories of the Kellogg Pact and the nine-power treaty meet concurrently to discuss the Chinese-Japanese conflict.

London Opinion Divided.

London (Friday), Feb. 26 (U.P.).—Editorial opinion was divided in two of London's important newspapers today as to the merits of Secretary Stimson's latest delineation of the United States' position regarding the Sino-Japanese troubles.

The Liberal News-Chronicle opined that the reception of Stimson's declaration here might bear importantly upon future Anglo-American relations, and the Conservative Daily Telegraph said that Stimson had overlooked some important aspects of the situation.

The Daily Telegraph said in part: "Stimson's omissions, such as drawing no distinction between China proper and Manuchuria, and the special privileges of Japan in the latter, also the fact that in the past decade successive Chinese governments have not made a serious effort to set their house in order and loyally abide by treaty obligations, make it impossible for Britain to subscribe, without careful qualifications, to Stimson's case, although Britain no less heartily desires maintenance of the 'open door' policy."

(Associated Press.)

State Department officials yesterday expressed pleasure at the favorable reception American newspapers gave the restatement of American policy in China set forth in a letter from Secretary Stimson to Senator Borah.

The opinion prevailed in State Department circles that it had clarified at atmosphere and made the United States' position so plain that there will be little reason for additional statements of policy in the near future.

Secretary Stimson refused yesterday to discuss the Borah letter as he felt it was so comprehensive there could be no doubt as to where the United States stands on the Far Eastern troubles.

Japan Votes More Cash For Forces in Shanghai

Tokyo, Friday, Feb. 26 (A.P.).—The cabinet approved an extraordinary appropriation of 22,000,000 yen (currently $7,040,000) today to meet additional military expenses in connection with the Japanese expedition to Shanghai.

The appropriation was divided, with the army receiving 20,000,000 yen and the navy 2,000,000. With 34,000,000 yen voted on February 9, the cost of the Shanghai expedition thus became 56,000,000 yen to the end of the fiscal year next March 31. (The yen has a par value of about 50 cents, but has depreciated, and is currently quoted at about 32 cents.) The money is expected to be raised by domestic bond issues.

REDS ACCUSE JAPAN OF PLOT ON SIBERIA

Declare That Organization of White Russians Is Well Under Way.

Moscow, Feb. 25 (U.P.).—The Soviet press tomorrow will publish a dispatch from Peiping charging that a White Russian (czarist) army is being formed in Manchuria, under direction of Japanese, to attack the Russian maritime provinces, including Vladivostok.

The Soviet maritime region, in Siberia, is chiefly the province of Primorskaya, bordering on Manchuria and on the Japan Sea. Vladivostok, at the terminus of the Trans-Siberian Railroad, is a short distance from the Manchurian frontier, at Possiet Bay.

The dispatch purports to describe the White Russian activities, under official Japanese direction, in detail and the official Soviet News Agency declares that it has complete confidence in the source from which the information was obtained.

The dispatch says that Japanese instructed the White Russian general, Kosmin, one of the emigree foes of the bolshevik regime in Moscow, to organize secretly a regiment. In mid-January the organization of the regiment was well under way, the dispatch says.

Extent Is Uncertain.

Enlistments were covered by statements that unemployed persons were being registered with Russian newspapers (which are anti-Soviet) at Harbin, chiefly the Harbin Times, the dispatch says. The extent of registration was uncertain, but in mid-January several groups of from 50 to 100 proceeded from Harbin to Mukden.

The dispatch says that the first two brigades of White Russians will be headed by Gen. Mandriken and Gen. Modestov.

It was considered by Soviet officials that the dispatch substantiated recent charges by War Commissar Klementi Voroshilov that the White Russians are plotting to attach the Communist state in the Far East. It was recalled that Voroshilov last Sunday issued a call to the Red army to be prepared to defend Soviet territory, and said that there were plots under way to launch an attack on Russia from the Far East.

Causes Wide Speculation.

The Japanese occupation of Harbin, most important city on the Chinese Eastern Railroad, caused wide speculation here, and in the last few days the Japanese have planned to send troops eastward from Harbin toward the Siberian frontier to suppress Chinese outbreaks.

The White Russians, many thousands of whom are in Manchuria, fled there after the Bolshevik revolution. The government recently has regrouped its garrisons on the Manchurians border to guard against possible czarist activities.

The dispatch charged that the White Russians attack on the maritime provinces was scheduled to coincide with a Japanese military movement in the direction of the Russian province of Transbaikal, on the western border of Manchuria, thereby opening "concerted aggression" at two points.

Mukden, Manchuria, Feb. 25 (A.P.). Several thousand Soviet Russian soldiers are moving down toward the Manchurian frontier, presumably because of Moscow's apprehension over Japanese troop movements in northeastern Manchuria, the Rengo (Japanese) News Agency reported from Harbin today.

Meanwhile, the Japanese expedition, headed by Gen. Iro Tamon, and aimed at Chinese rebels in the vicinity of Imienpo, was held up. Difficulties developed in getting permission to transport troops over the Chinese Eastern Railway, which is jointly owned by Russia and China.

Alabama Dry Enters Race Against Black

Montgomery, Ala., Feb. 25 (A.P.). Announcement of his candidacy for the Democratic senatorial nomination in opposition to United States Senator Hugo Black was made here today by H. L. Anderton.

He described himself as "personally and politically dry," and said he "will fight the battles of prohibition without compromise."

RASKOB SAYS HOOVER WOULD RUN AS WET

Alfred E. Smith the subject of presidential candidacies. He declared he had no advance information as to the nature of the public statement Mr. Smith, the 1928 presidential candidate, issued recently saying he would "if nominated" lead the party in the 1932 campaign.

"It is very important that the national committee interfere in no way with the selection of a candidate," Mr. Raskob said in an informal discussion of problems and possibilities facing the Democratic party.

Asked by a member of his audience who would be the best Democratic candidate for President this year, Mr. Raskob said simply: "That is the business of the national convention."

In disclaiming any discussion with former Gov. Smith with respect to candidates, Mr. Raskob said:

"A great many people feel that because Smith nominated me for the office I hold, and because we are both Catholics, that we are working hand-in-glove. I say sincerely that I have never discussed candidates with him or he with me."

Mr. Raskob warned Democrats against the formation of "little oligarchies" in the party, "as the Republicans have done," or the exercise of party power in small groups behind closed doors. If the Democratic party is to be victorious, he said, "it must be a party of the people—they must decide."

Mr. Raskob appealed for Democratic cooperation in the drive for a successful campaign for the party. He advocated again his plan for an amendment to the Constitution giving the States rights in the matter of prohibition.

He denied he had ever tried to control the votes of any national committeeman on his home rule plan for liquor control or anything else. Such charges he characterized as the work of the Republican party and "the Republican press."

"They will say anything to create friction in our ranks," he added, charging that the Republicans "are trying to divide the party now by sectional appeals." In discounting sectionalism, he declared that religious prejudice defeated Smith in the last campaign and that this prejudice was as evident in New York State as in the South.

MRS. T. F. WALSH, SOCIAL LEADER, DIES

Widow of Capitalist and Hostess to Royalty Is Claimed by Illness.

Mrs. Thomas F. Walsh, widow of Thomas F. Walsh, mining capitalist, who for 35 years was one of the outstanding social figures of the Capital and prominent as well in the civic life of Washington, died in her apartment at the Mayflower Hotel early yesteray after a brief illness. Her daughter, Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean, was with her when she died.

Mrs. Walsh is survived by her daughter, Mrs. McLean; three grandchildren, John R. McLean 2d, Edward Beale McLean, jr., and Miss Emily Beale McLean, and a nephew, Monroe Lee, of California. Private funeral services for Mrs. Walsh will be held at the residence of Mrs. McLean, 2020 Massachusetts avenue northwest, tomorrow, conducted by the Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Bishop of Washington. Interment will be in Rock Creek Cemetery.

When the passing of Mrs. Walsh became known throughout official and social Washington yesterday there was universal regret voiced at the death of one who had so endeared herself through her gracious personality, her philanthropic activities and her wholesouled hospitality in this city for more than a quarter of a century. Official and social notables of the Capital called at her former residence to express their condolences.

Was Married in Late 70s.

Mrs. Walsh, before her marriage to Thomas F. Walsh, at Leadville, Colo., in 1879, was Miss Carrie Bell Reed, a native of Wisconsin. At that time Mr. Walsh was a mining prospector. Their romance began when Miss Reed, accompanied by her mother, visited the mining camp. Within the year they were married and Mr. Walsh often attributed his success in life to the helpful inspiration of his wife.

Two children were born of the union, Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean and an only son, Vinson Walsh, who died in 1905.

As Mr. Walsh's mining ventures prospered, the Walshes became prominent in the social and civic life of Colorado. It was due to Mr. Walsh's efforts that the national irrigation movement took root, which resulted in reclaiming the arid desert places in the West and turning them into homes for American citizens.

In the late nineties, upon the advice of physicians who counseled a lower altitude for Mrs. Walsh, Mr. and Mrs. Walsh came to Washington. Their home here was first in the Jenness Miller house on LeRoy place. About 1900 the handsome mansion at 2020 Massachusetts avenue northwest, regarded as one of the show places of the Capital, was built. This house was a treasure house of art with its world-famous tapestries and rare old paintings. It became one of the exclusive social centers here and distinguished for the dignified entertainments given there at which many visiting notables were guests.

Friend of King Leopold.

Mr. Walsh was sent as United States Commissioner to the Paris Exposition in 1899 and Mrs. Walsh accompanied him. In Paris they met the late King Leopold of Belgium, who became greatly attached to them. A friendship was formed which lasted until the king's death.

After the death of Mr. Walsh on April 9, 1910, Mrs. Walsh became more and more interested in philanthropic activities and in civic undertakings of various kinds. She was foremost in the child welfare movement in the city and in Red Cross work. Fond of travel, she passed much time in this occupation.

With the coming of the Wilson administration Mrs. Walsh grew interested in the political life of the Capital, due to her friendship for Mrs. Thomas R. Marshall, wife of the then Vice President of the United States.

Aided World War Work.

When the World War broke out Mrs. Walsh turned over the beautiful Massachusetts avenue home for war work. The stately rooms, which had witnessed so many brilliant social functions, were filled with society women eager to do their bit of war work in the workrooms, making refugee and hospital garments for the allies. There Mrs. Walsh herself cut out garments on patterns furnished by the Red Cross and originated a system of renovating clothing from discarded garments which made possible the shipping of thousands of items of clothing for the needy Belgians and other war sufferers.

The renovation or reconstruction system evolved by Mrs. Walsh during the war was afterward adopted by the American Red Cross as a model for such work in making children's clothing and refugee garments.

It was a pleasing coincidence that when King Albert I of Belgium and his consort, Queen Elizabeth, came to the United States in 1919 to express personally their thanks for the aid of this country in the war he should bestow a decoration on Mrs. Walsh, in one of the very rooms where she had organized this service for his needy compatriots, as a token of his gratitude and that of his people for her splendid work.

Entertained Visiting Royalty.

King Albert and Queen Elizabeth were entertained at a brilliant dinner during their stay at Mrs. Walsh's home by the Vice President and Mrs. Marshall, who were hosts with Mrs. Walsh of the visiting royalties. It was at this same house also that the Prince of Wales was entertained at dinner during his last visit to this country.

Mrs. Walsh was greatly interested in the welfare of the Police and Fire Department personnel of the city. The members of this branch of the city government were visibly affected yesterday by her passing.

An untiring reader, Mrs. Walsh kept abreast of current events and the march of history, making happenings across the pages of Washington annals. Devoted to music and the theater, she was a patron of the fine arts and was frequently seen at concerts and first nights.

For the last few years Mrs. Walsh had maintained an apartment at the Mayflower, her country home being Far View, near Bethesda, Md., which she built some time ago. Horticulture was another of her abiding interests, and she had taken a personal share in planning the gardens at her home.

NEW REVENUE BILL NEARS COMPLETION

House Committee Is Agreed on Tax Increases; Sales Levy Considered.

(Associated Press.)

The new revenue bill, designed to balance the Federal budget of 1933 and impose a limited sales tax, is to be completed and ready for House action within a fortnight.

The plans of the Democratic-controlled ways and means committee to finish drafting the bill within a week or ten days were made known yesterday by Speaker Garner.

Although the committee has not formally approved the sales tax plan, he said, it has gone over the potential sources of revenue "with a fine-tooth comb" and found that a levy of this sort is the only means of obtaining all the money the Treasury needs.

Tax Boosts Agreed On.

Secretary Mills estimated that $1,241,000,000 more than the present law will yield would be needed in the next fiscal year to operate the Government on a nonborrowing basis. The committee has agreed on increases in individual and corporate income, inheritance and other taxes to raise about $450,000,000.

Garner said that $800,000,000 was needed instead of the $400,000,000 expected to be raised through excise taxes originally recommended by the Treasury. The committee, he explained, is convinced the sales tax is the best means of raising so large a sum.

Meanwhile, Secretary Mills submitted a draft of a sales tax bill to a subcommittee. He explained it was acceptable to but not sponsored by the Treasury. It is estimated that a 2 per cent tax on selected manufactured products would yield $600,000,000.

Earlier the full committee decided upon the second of three administrative policies. It voted down a proposal to dispense with foreign tax credits because of the harmful effect such a move might have on American export trade. Walter H. Jaeger, Commerce Department expert, advised the committee that the proposition would have an injurious effect on foreign trade.

Government Cost Stressed.

The committee approved a plan to stop up loopholes in this provision, to prevent American concerns with subsidiaries abroad from mading reductions in their corporate tax payments on losses in foreign countries. The Treasury experts estimated this would bring in about $6,000,000 annually.

Today the group will consider modification of the capital gains and loss provision of the income tax.

Representative Snell, of New York, the Republican leader, said that when the new tax bill was completed the cost of maintaining the "luxury of modern government" would be firmly impressed on the Nation.

"In order to get money enough to balance the budget and operate the Government on a sound financial basis," he said, "every man and practically every known product will have to be taxed."

Acting Chairman Crisp of the ways and means committee last night said the new revenue bill probably would be ready for House consideration in six or eight days.

Sees Sales Tax Approval.

"I think we have made considerable progress," he said after a meeting with Treasury experts who submitted a tentative draft of a sales tax bill.

"In my judgment the sales tax subcommittee will recommend to the full committee adoption of a manufacturers' sales tax that will prevent the pyramiding of the tax. I do not know what action the full committee may take."

Crisp declined to discuss rates, but Representative Rainey, the Democratic leader, was of the opinion the subcommittee will recommend a 2 per cent tax on all manufactures exclusive of necessities.

Legislation to impose a tariff or an excise tax on importations of petroleum and its refined products was urged in the House yesterday by Representative Hastings (Democrat), Oklahoma.

He said a tariff would produce an annual revenue of $118,000,000 and an excise tax might provide $102,000,000 to aid in solving part of the Nation's tax problem.

FRANK W. HALSEY FUNERAL

Services for Native of New Jersey Will be Held Today.

Funeral services for Frank W. Halsey, 72, who died suddenly last Tuesday in Roanoke, Va., while on a visit to his son, Robert V. Halsey, will be held today at 3 p. m. at Wardman Park Hotel, where he lived.

Mr. Halsey, born in Dover, N. J., for many years was affiliated with a mining company in Calumet, Mich., and had lived in Washington for the last three years. He was a member of the Blue Lodge, No. 271.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Helen C. Halsey, and the son.

Crowd Attends Wallace Funeral.

Little Marlow, England, Feb. 25 (A.P.).—The greatest crowd this village has seen in many years gathered today for the funeral of Edgar Wallace, prolific author of thrillers, who died in Beverly Hills, Calif., recently. The solid bronze coffin was borne by eight men and the Rev. G. B. Mildred, vicar of Little Marlow, officiated.

VETERANS SURVIVE IN BRIDGE TOURNEY

32 Pairs of Ranking Players Remain in Trophy Match; Mrs. Culbertson Ahead.

New York, Feb. 25 (A.P.).—Another battle of contract bridge stars got under way today in the Eastern bridge championships at the Hotel Roosevelt as mixed teams of experts began battling for the Wilbur C. Whitehead memorial trophy.

All of the ranking players weathered the first eliminations, and most of them will go into the final match point play tomorrow with substantial leads. Fourteen teams—ten men and two women each—are left.

Meanwhile, with the spectacular semifinals for the Curt H. Reisinger team-of-four trophy deferred until Saturday, the spotlight tonight was on the semifinals for the Julian Goldman cup for a championship pair.

32 Pairs Remain.

Thirty-two pairs still remained in the running of the 162 who entered, but half of them will have faded into the discard tonight before the winners are crowned tomorrow night.

A recheck of scores today revealed that the Knickerbocker Whist Club, instead of winning from the Women's Whist Club in one bracket of the Reisinger trophy play, had actually lost by a score of 405, the total originally credited to the Knickerbocker.

The Women's Club, therefore, will be pitted against the Des Chapelles Club team headed by Mrs. Ely Culbertson here on Saturday, while P. Hal Sims' "Horsemen" play in Deal, N. J., against the veteran team of the Cavendish Club. The winners of the contests will meet in the finals here Sunday.

An unofficial rating in the pairs in the Goldman Cup competition gave Howard Schenken and David Burnstine the honor of being the most feared opponents, while P. Hal Sims and Oswald Jacoby were next in line, followed by Waldemar Von Zedtwitz and Willcard C. Karn.

Mrs. Culbertson Leading.

Shrewd use of her husband's "approach-forcing" system enabled Mrs. Ely Culbertson and her partner, Theodore A. Lightner, to reach a safe four-spade bid, which was made, while inaccurate bidding at the opposing table carried North and South to six diamonds, set one.

The hand:

The bidding: Lightner (dealer), one spade; west, pass; Mrs. Culbertson, two clubs; east, pass; Lightner, four spades; all pass. Lightner's immediate jump to game was daring but safe. His partner had to have one and one-half tricks for her bid, and, however distributed, he knew he had game.

At the other table the bidding went as follows: South, one spade; west, two hearts (a psychic by Jacoby); north, two notrump; east, three diamonds (a psychic or something); south, four diamonds; north, six diamonds.

Catholic Services to Resume.

Mexico City, Feb. 25 (A.P.).—The offices of the Catholic hierarchy announced that services which have been suspended for nearly two months will be resumed tomorrow in the cathedral, the Basilica of Guadalupe and six other churches, and that the remainder of the 25 churches permitted under the new religious law will resume services before Sunday.

George Washington Essay Contest News

Commissioner of Naturalization Crist Points Out That First President Was Born as British Subject; Lauds Post's Plan for Student Theses.

The Washington Post can not be too highly commended for the patriotic stimulus given by the Washington Essay Contest for the school children of the National Capital and nearby counties of Maryland and Virginia, Raymond F. Crist, U. S. Commissioner of Naturalization declared yesterday in a letter to The Post praising the project.

"There is a portion of the population of the District of Columbia whose birth places are in lands throughout the world. Some of their children have been born in lands strange and foreign to us," Mr. Crist said.

"It may be that something can be said that will stimulate the school children of foreign birth to undertake participation in this essay contest.

"George Washington, the subject of the essays, was born a British subject and not a citizen of the United States. From the date of the declaration of his independence, on July 4, 1776, to the time when he won freedom of his allegiance from the British crown, seven years of hard, painful suffering and warfare were his lot. Curiously enough, Congress has given seven years of life to a declaration of intention, which a foreign-born friend of this country may make, to become a citizen of the United States. During that seven years the best protection and opportunity that the world affords to human beings are open to the seeker after the prize of American citizenship.

"The public school children born abroad can therefore find themselves in somewhat the same relationship to our government as that which confronted George Washington when he solemnly declared his intention to become a citizen of this newly formed country of free men. They can view citizenship from a different angle from that possible to native school children. They should be able to go forward in this contest and win rich laurels to themselves. The Washington Post can not be too highly commended for this patriotic stimulus.

"All contests, especially mental contests, are productive of nothing but excellent results. They necessitate study, research, thought, and the bringing together of the results of such activities in the form of organized expression on the part of the contestants, and generally along the lines of the highest ideals.

"The discussion of such subjects leaves its lasting impression upon those who yield to the inspiration of the occasion. These results will be found lasting throughout one's lifetime, and of benefit and advantage in contribution toward one's successes in life in most material forms.

"This country is rich in the lives of those who have represented ideals and who are outstanding figures in world history as exponents of the highest of ideals. These lives are but the natural consequence of the country conceived and brought forth upon the proposition that all men are created equal, and the country is the product of those spirits and lives who braved the dangers of the uncharted and unknown seas, and fronted the wilds and new dangers in the unknown land. It was their descendants who were imbued with the highest of ideals in life and declared themselves free and independent States because their unalienable rights to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness had been encroached upon. They declared themselves determined to take that separate and equal station to which the laws of nature and nature's God entitled them.

"The Nation which they brought forth was made possible only by leadership; that leadership devolved upon George Washington, who is reverently referred to as the Father of His Country. The selection of this man of marvelous ideals as the subject for essays by the school children of Washington has been a most happy undertaking, Mr. Crist said.

Oil Station Operators Band To Fight Truck Competition

A large delegation of gasoline station operators, representing the 500 gasoline stations in Washington, met at the Merchants and Manufacturers Association yesterday to consider the problem which is facing all gasoline stations in this city due to the growing practice of selling gasoline on the streets of Washington by tank wagons. It was decided to form an organization of gasoline station operators. L. S. Scott was elected chairman.

It was pointed out at the meeting that Washington is the only city in the United States where gasoline tank trucks are permitted to park along the streets and dispense gasoline. "Such a practice is a serious fire hazard and public menace, and these unsightly vehicles are marring the beauty of the Capital City," Mr. Scott stated.

"The operators of gasoline stations have gone to great expense to build attractive gasoline stations, which are equipped to provide all manner of service to operators of automobiles, and have included the most modern safety devices and are paying heavy taxes to the District and Federal governments, whereas trucks give no service to the public, operate without paying any rent, and but a nominal license fee."

It was decided to protest vigorously to the Commissioners of the District of Columbia, and if necessary to have a bill introduced in Congress, if the Commissioners have no power to stop the rapidly increasing peddling of all sorts of merchandise on the streets of the city.

"Washington during the past year has become the mecca of all sorts of schemes for selling of every conceivable kind of merchandise, from ice cream to furs, and from flowers to fruits, vegetables and song sheets to gasoline and oil, and it is time that something was done to clean up the city," Mr. Scott stated.

Budget Measure Passed by House

Reduced Supply Bill for Four U. S. Departments Is Approved.

(Associated Press.)

The House yesterday passed the State, Justice, Commerce and Labor Departments supply bill making appropriations of $124,215,999 for the next fiscal year. It now goes to the Senate.

The appropriations committee reduced budget estimates for the four departments from $129,784,136 to $124,401,318. Further reductions were made on the House floor.

The House rejected a motion to recommit the bill to increase the allotment for the Springfield, Mo., hospital for defective delinquents from $775,000 to $1,050,000.

Action Is Delayed On Byrd Road Plan

Former Governor Appears Before Committee on Land Tax Relief.

Richmond, Va., Feb. 25 (A.P.).—Definite action on the Byrd plan for taking over all county roads was deferred tonight by the Senate roads committee, after a two-hour public hearing, until 3 o'clock tomorrow.

Former Gov. Harry F. Byrd came before the committee "as a citizen" to advocate the suggestions he made for land tax relief when his views were requested by the advocates of highway fund diversion. These suggestions were before the committee in a bill by Senator Samuel L. Ferguson, of Appomattox, chairman of the committee.

F. S. McCandless, of Fairfax, asked that the amount to be apportioned to counties from the gasoline tax under the act not be held on the basis of 1931 gasoline, but changed to allow the counties to share in any general increase in the tax.

Aspirin Gargle in Sore Throat or Tonsilitis

Prepare a harmless and effective gargle by dissolving three to five Bayer Aspirin tablets in one-third glassful of water. Gargle thoroughly, allowing a little to trickle down throat. Repeat in two hours as necessary.

THE SHORT SELLING INQUIRY.

The Senate committee on banking on Saturday will consider Senator Hastings' resolution calling for an investigation of short selling on the New York Stock Exchange. This resolution should be adopted by the Senate and the investigation begun without delay.

Whether the process of short selling is technically proper and necessary or not, public opinion is convinced that the process has been abused in practice by bear raiders who have not hesitated to spread alarming rumors for the purpose of smashing stock prices. Time after time this has been done, greatly to the detriment of all Government plans to restore public confidence. The raiders guilty of this practice are mere pirates who grasp dishonest profits at the expense of the public.

Several warnings have been given to the New York Stock Exchange officials, to the effect that legislative action might result from abuse of the short-selling privilege. Some modification of the rules has been made, but apparently it is still within the power of strong interests to tear down public confidence as fast as the President and Congress build it up by reconstruction legislation.

An impartial inquiry by the Senate committee ought to bring out the facts upon which the public and Congress can pass judgment upon the practice of short selling, and whether it is advisable to regulate it by legislation. The committee should be empowered to call witnesses and compel them to submit papers which will throw light upon actual transactions. If those who have indulged in short selling are not in fact public enemies, but well within their rights as legitimate traders, they have nothing to fear from the inquiry, and perhaps their testimony will prove that short selling is not only necessary, but is so safeguarded that it can not be employed to the injury of the public.

JAPAN'S FATAL MOVE.

Japan has moved from one blunder to another in China. The Japanese army at Shanghai is unable to rout the Chinese from their intrenched position, and every day of fighting adds another blow to Japanese prestige. Japan has aroused resentment in every nation. The very nature of the fight casts the sympathies of neutral countries on the side of China.

It is reported that Japan is sending 60,000 more men to aid in the Shanghai conquest. If that is true, Japan will have 85,000 men on the 18-mile battle front from Shanghai to Woosung. Four weeks ago Japan thought Shanghai could be subdued by 1,500 marines. Without any intention of being charitable, Japan gave China every opportunity to assemble troops and to intrench them. Every fresh victory gained by the Chinese has had an electrifying effect upon that disunited country. National spirit has been fanned into a sweeping flame. Japan set out to smash the economic boycott against her goods, and by a series of blunders has aroused all China to a war spirit.

Hostilities are breaking out again in Manchuria in spite of the new "independent" government set up under Japan's tutelage. Gen. Mah Chen-Shan, who fought the Japanese at the Nonni River and Tsitsihar, is reported to have been assassinated as a result of his later betrayal of the Chinese cause. Bandits are again busy, and reports indicate that an organized drive may be made against the invaders.

Japanese trade in China is being rapidly destroyed. Instead of stopping the economic boycott, the campaign against Shanghai is resulting in economic reprisals throughout China. Japan has learned that good will and commercial understanding can not be stimulated by bombing and machine gun fire. Every objective that Japan sought in the Shanghai invasion has been defeated, and that country is conducting a costly war to save face.

The policy of the American Government in not recognizing any gains that Japan might make as a result of this assault upon China may render the whole project of Japan null and void. If this stand is approved by world opinion and backed up by other powers, Japan will not only lose the spoils of war, but will be put to great expense for nothing but a loss of prestige.

There are indications that Japan would like to escape from the mess in which her officials at Tokyo have involved her. Each new effort to wrest Shanghai from the Chinese will merely add fuel to the spreading fire of Chinese national spirit. If Japan sends enough troops to drive the Chinese back beyond the limits of Shanghai she will have accomplished nothing. The Chinese will not quit fighting until the invaders are out of the country. Having had a taste of victory it is doubtful whether they will agree to peace on any other terms than complete evacuation.

Apparently the authorities in Tokyo are determined to blunder through in spite of this situation. The only tactics they know for covering up one mistake is to push further into the labyrinth of war. But each new step makes it harder for Japan to withdraw without humiliation. By sending more troops to Shanghai and trying to bluff through the international complications by absurd interpretations of treaties Japan is gambling with its future as a great world power.

BUSINESS IMPROVEMENT.

In addition to the notable change in business sentiment throughout the country, two fundamental improvements contribute to the growing assurance that the worst effects of the depression have been overcome. They are the stronger position of the Nation's credit structure, and the fact that wholesale prices have turned upward. With the expansion of credit and with commodities gradually attaining higher values, financial and economic troubles are attacked from both sides.

Such benefits as have already come from the relief measures naturally are due to confidence in the prospect of receiving future benefits, or the security which comes from the knowledge that help will be available if needed. The natural result is a lessening of business tension, an immediate release from the excessive caution which appears when confidence is lacking.

Another factor that has helped the situation is the decisive action of Congress in squelching the attempt to set up a Federal dole. With the exception of a few communities the Nation has shown its understanding of the basic necessity of meeting unemployment conditions by local self-reliance.

The Reconstruction Corporation has just begun to function, and the broadening of the Federal Reserve's credit facilities is not yet effective, but already there has been a decrease in bank failures, since it is known that any solvent institution can obtain assistance if necessary. Confidence is extending to the patrons of banks as the steps being taken to safeguard them is more generally understood. There has been a slowing down in the rate of deposit contraction, while in the few days that the antihoarding campaign has been active some $60,000,000 has been returned to circulation.

With the launching of the campaign early next month to bring hoarded money from its hiding places another important addition will be made to loanable bank funds, since it will be the policy of the Treasury to allow the receipts from small bonds to remain in the banks making the sales. The latest action of the New York Federal Reserve Bank in lowering the rediscount rate to 3 per cent will add many millions to funds available through member banks for commercial and industrial use.

THE ARMY AND NAVY.

Consolidation of the Army and Navy into a department of national defense—a pet project of the Democratic leaders in the House—has struck a snag. Last week it was reported that Speaker Garner had ordered the committee on expenditures to report the bill favorably on Saturday. Instead, the committee met in executive session and appointed a subcommittee to look into the question further.

Democratic leaders of the House are especially anxious to rush this measure through the legislitive process as a cynical answer to President Hoover's plea for coordination of Government agencies and functions. The President asked for economy and efficiency in the executive departments. They plan to offer him a monstrosity that could only weaken the national defense. Desperate efforts have been made to whip into line Democrats who are opposed to this measure. But apparently the Democratic organization is not functioning as smoothly as it did a few weeks ago.

This is a poor time to weaken the defense forces of the Nation. The movement proceeds under the banner of economy, but experts say that no saving would result unless the efficiency of the two branches of defense were impaired. In reality the Byrnes bill would subordinate the agencies of national defense and put the United States at a disadvantage in coping with the armed forces of other great powers.

While the general function of the Army and Navy is the same, their structure and specific duties are entirely different. Advocates of consolidation argue that their broad general policy should be coordinated. That is why the President is commander in chief of all the armed forces under the American flag. The Army and Navy are already coordinated in the President. Why should Congress create a sort of sub-President to bestride the gap that must always separate these two distinct fighting forces?

Talk of actually merging the Army and Navy into a unified force is childish. At its very beginning the Government made an unsuccessful attempt to administer the sea and land forces under a single department. Congress soon recognized its mistake and corrected it in 1798. In doing so, says Gen. Douglas MacArthur, chief of staff of the Army, this country "was but conforming to the lessons of history, to the accumulated experience of civilized peoples and to the dictates of logic." "The nations of the world," he added, "have not all been wrong all the time."

Combat on land has almost nothing in common with fighting on the sea. Organization, training, supply arrangements, etc., must be wholly different. Even if that were not true, the separate existence of the Army and the Navy for a century and a quarter would make it extremely difficult to harmonize their traditions and methods. Friction, confusion and inefficiency would be inevitable results of the proposed amalgamation.

The move to merge the Army and Navy Departments is a blow at the defense machinery of the United States, which is already reduced to minimum strength. If the House committee on expenditures is wise, it will bury the Byrnes bill and give its attention to uprooting real bureaucracy.

DECENTRALIZED EDUCATION.

A notable feature of the superintendents' convention of the National Education Association has been the lack of a concerted demand for a department of education in the Federal Government. Secretary Wilbur deplored the tendency toward overcentralization of government in Washington. Dr. Robert M. Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago, declared that "the great task of educational administration in America is to take the organization above off the neck of the organization below."

Secretary Wilbur apparently has discarded the recommendations of the national advisory committee on education that a secretary of education be added to the President's Cabinet. That committee was appointed to work out a comprehensive policy for the Federal Government in the educational field. In one part of its report it built up a strong case against centralization of control over the schools. Repeal of those laws that tend to give the Government power to interfere with the educational policies of the States was urged.

But in order to carry out the laudable aim of decentralization the committee recommended the creation of a Federal department of education. This section of the report was so inconsistent with the avowed aims of the committee that its entire work was put under a cloud of absurdity. By advocating a department of education in such circumstances the committee struck an effective blow at its own pet project, from which it has not yet revived.

In his address Secretary Wilbur called for decentralization of the schools without asking for a Federal bureau to keep the Government from meddling with education. "In this era of too rapid growth, of amalgamation, of centralized power," he said, "we must fight for safety through effective local government and local control."

President Hoover has also ignored the conclusions of the advisory committee. If educators themselves are disposed to take a realistic view of the situation the demand that the Federal Government assume responsibility for educating people who control their own State and local governments may be expected to subside.

The charge is made that Congress is "not an ideal board of directors for a hospital system." Possibly the observer has seen too many operations.

In biblical days the fatted calf was killed when the prodigal son came home. Nowadays the whole family applies for relief.

Germany has delivered an ultimatum to the Geneva conference. It is getting harder every day to decide who won the war.

The House is trying to find means of raising new revenue, and the Senate is trying to decide the quickest way to spend it.

The principal objection to the President's plan for reorganizing Federal bureaus seems to be that it is un-Democratic.

The Japanese war party won 301 seats in the Diet. Our war machine is on a diet, too.

ROOMS MUST MATCH

From the Providence Journal.

It is with some spiritual pain that we read the statement of a past president of the International Society of Master Painters and Decorators that the room of a man (we assume, of course, that he means bedroom) should reflect and harmonize with the psychic complexion of the occupant. The society has just been holding its annual convention in Los Angeles, and some of the time, naturally, as is almost invariably the case with such assemblies, was devoted to spreading the gospel of trade ideas. There are some outspoken persons who would call it propaganda.

"Homes, like people," said the past president, "must have souls these days." And so he went on to elaborate the idea that rooms ought to match the personalities of their occupants. Strong rooms for strong men, delicate rooms for the more fastidious men. The big, strong, silent men who sleep in rooms dominated by the effete influence of pink and baby-blue color schemes are violating all the precepts of the cosmic law. All the time their souls are crying out mutely for a solid and even stolid environment.

There are all kinds of rooms, and it is possible to devise even a sort of proud room to fit the proud and arrogant type of individual. It gives a sadness to reflect on the vast numbers of men who, through ignorance, neglect or sheer helplessness, must be going through the years passing all their hours of slumber amid surroundings that are in some subtle fashion corroding their souls. Their style is insidiously cramped, even though they remain in ignorance of the fact. Think of the proud and arrogant gentleman, for instance, who is bound to one of these pink bedrooms, or one so inadequately done up as to provide a flavor of unassertive meekness. What he needs is a decorative scheme based on a Louis the Quince model, with an arrogant rug on the floor. Placed as he is, he is a misfit and the chances are that in due time he develops an inferiority complex. In the end his pride and arrogance have suffered a 90 per cent loss, and for all we know the world may have lost another Napoleon.

This is a subject, we think, which ought to be taken up for serious study by the ladies. After all, it is the women who supervise the details of home decoration and furnishing. What can your average man do when he finds that his bedroom is all pink and fluffy? His soul may shrink, but he has to make the best of it. If what the past president of the I. S. of M. P. and D. says on the subject is true there must be a lot of blighted souls in America. A refined, ladylike husband is naturally entitled to a delicately decorated room, but the women who have big, strong silent husbands and want to keep them so should get them out of the pink and pastel rooms as soon as possible.

POST HASTE.

It seems that Secretary Stimson was not only holding his big guns in reserve, but that he has a new brand of powder.

Undoubtedly Japan is again going to be surprised and pained that her purely defensive tactics in China are so misunderstood.

A world boycott is a pipe dream; the Stimson plan is a pipe of peace.

Japan condones her violation of the nine-power pact on the grounds that the Chinese are not an "organized people," ignoring the fact that that very condition was the primary reason for the formation of the pact.

Our only suggestion is that Secretary Stimson might have made his statement more impressive by more frequent reference to the covenants, caveats and sanctions.

Some Texas friend of the Speaker was smart enough to realize that this is no time to try to garner either peach or political crops in Georgia.

If the new stock exchange rule makes stocks scarcer for loans to short sellers it will have at least one effect—the lenders can charge a higher rent for it.

It is a question as to whether Far Eastern conditions are as good an argument for building up the Navy as Admiral Billard's testimony that 176 vessels are engaged in liquor smuggling.

An Al Smith club has been started in the Capital. We venture the prediction right now that he will get as many Washington votes as any other candidate.

Will sending the Japanese note to Senator Borah be considered official recognition of another belligerent?

Japan's first answer to peace suggestions is always to send more divisions to oppose the Chinese offensive.

It is evident that Congress will have to set up a commission to mark the dividing line between short selling and bear raids.

OLD AND YOUNG.

Time was that she romped in the heyday of youth
And mocked at all preachings of wisdom and truth.
Time was that she danced till the dawn of the day
When her world was all lovely and life was all play.
But now there are children who cling to her knee,
And plainly the dangers of life she can see.

A new dream of splendor is lighting her eyes,
The lips which once laughed are now tenderly wise.
Her voice is forever reminding: "Beware!"
Her last words at parting are always: "Take care!"
That mother devoted has temples which burn
With terror till safely the youngsters return.

O playmate of mine in the days which are fled
How lightly we laughed at the warnings they said,
How we chuckled to hear them advise what to wear
And tossed back our heads at that parting: "Take care!"
But here we are allvered, old-fashioned and staid,
All mothers and fathers of young life afraid.

You Can't Cure a Man's Hangover by Giving Him Money

By ROBERT QUILLEN

ALL efforts to end the depression by artificial means fail to reach the cause of the trouble.

What, then, is the cause?

We know there are millions of men out of work, and we know further that all would be well if these men were again earning money and spending it.

But the men can't be put to work because the industries that once employed them have no market for their products.

They have no market because retailers are ordering nothing. Retailers are ordering nothing because the people aren't buying. And the people aren't buying because they are jobless or because they think it their duty, when the future is so uncertain, to practice economy and save their money.

It is another of those vicious circles that time alone can break.

Men blame the depression on the war, but times have been good since the armistice and will be good again. Why should this particular period more than any other feel the effect of war's wastage?

Other men blame the financiers who sent billions of dollars to Europe, but those who received the money are suffering more than those who sent it.

As a matter of fact, the fault lies in human nature.

All deviations from the normal cause a reaction. If there is a period of joyous ecstasy, it is followed by a period of melancholy. If there is excitement, it is followed by boredom. The pendulum always swings back.

And when the first state is national or world-wide in scope, the reaction is national or world-wide.

War fever, a gambling mania, a lust for riches and the resulting despair become epidemic like bridge, jazz, tonsilectomy, wise-cracking and rouge.

The herd stampedes because the herd mind overcomes the individual mind, and there is no other explanation.

Now the people, reacting from their lust for easy money, are apathetic and empty of hope. They do not despair; they are merely indifferent. Inertia grips the world. Nobody has ambition or pep.

And there will be no music of hammer and saw until the people change their mood and resume their eager effort to beat the Joneses.

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

The New Democratic Situation.

Kansas City Star.

The present stage of the preconvention campaign of the Democratic candidates for the nomination for President reveals the familiar situation in presidential politics of an outstanding candidate and an alliance among lesser candidates to head off the leader and throw the prize into an open arena to be scrambled for by the allies.

It now is Roosevelt against a numerous and aggressive field, with Smith himself leading the onset, marshaling Baker, Ritchie and Garner as his first-line support, and with Lewis, of Illinois; Byrd, of Virginia; Robinson, of Arkansas; Murray, of Oklahoma; Reed, of Missouri; White, of Ohio, and other favorite sons forming the reserve. These allied forces have the task of holding away from Roosevelt in the convention the 385 delegates that will constitute a third of its membership, thus preventing the New York governor from obtaining the two-thirds necessary to a nomination. This "sewing up" of a third of the delegates is sought to be accomplished in two ways—first by sending as many delegates as possible to the convention bound by instructions to vote for candidates other than Roosevelt, and, second, by keeping as many others as possible from being instructed for him.

Delegate Versus Candidate.

Minneapolis Journal.

Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, who hopes to have a large block of instructed delegates in the Democratic national convention, raised strenuous objection the other day to the suggestion made by Jouett Shouse that the States send high-class men and women to the convention, free to act without binding instructions.

The governor opposed sending uninstructed delegates because that would "enable a handful of individuals to hand-pick a candidate for the great office of President by a process of barter and trade."

Ritchie for President.

Detroit News.

Reports that the Detroit vote in the Literary Digest's new prohibition poll is unanimous doubtless are exaggerated. We nevertheless can assume that, while conferring upon Detroit the privilege and honor of a personal visit, Gov. Albert Cabell Ritchie, Maryland's "veray parfit gentil knight," discovered here an impatience with the evils existing under the eighteenth amendment as pronounced as his own. No doubt, on returning home, Gov. Ritchie can tell Marylanders that he found the people of Detroit and its environs as numerously anti on prohibition as the people of Maryland itself, despite that Maryland under Ritchie looks back approvingly on his twelve years of consistent challenge of the dry laws. For our consideration, the live question is: "What of Ritchie for President?"

Has McAdoo Stopped Garner?

New York Post.

The old cleavage in the Democratic party is reappearing. The Smith-McAdoo battle lines are being redrawn. Today we have Mr. McAdoo himself coming out for Speaker Garner, of Texas. This makes a pretty distinct lineup back of the Speaker. Mr. Hearst "brought him out," so to speak, raising his candidacy at once to Nation-wide notice. Then Senator Sheppard, the original dry leader at Washington, indorsed him. He thus is today Hearst-Dry-McAdoo. He may step away from the dry label. And unless he does, he will be the champion of one wing of the party, when he probably would want to be a candidate acceptable to both sides.

And That's That.

Philadelphia Inquirer.

There is something amusing in Japan's repeated threats to withdraw from the League of Nations. If the League had any viscera it would kick it out.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Historian Elson Favors Boycott of Japan—Opposes Furnishing Munitions to Asiatics.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Your two editorials this morning on the Stimson letter and Tammany are both admirable, fine. But your editorial of yesterday on the economic boycott furnishes strange diversion to one who will take a look beneath the surface. You say that the petition that we follow the League of Nations in boycotting Japan comes from an "atmosphere of theory and idealism," and that it would mean war with Japan. So say Senators Borah and Moses and Jim Reed, of Missouri.

Let us examine: Suppose it would bring a declaration of war from Japan. In the same breath Japan would have to declare war on the 55 nations of the League. What a dreadful position that would put us in! Japan would probably withdraw her armies from China, ignore Europe, and come over here to the opposite side of the globe and give us a good trouncing—capture our cities and force us to a humiliating peace. Behold a sample of the far-sighted statesmanship of the Borah-Moses-Reed gang!

But more seriously: If we should agree to observe a League boycott Japan would be brought to her knees in a month or two; she could not possibly hold out longer. If anything on earth would end war, an universal boycott will do it. Are we in favor of putting an end to warfare?

Now look at the other side. If we refuse to observe such a boycott, what would happen? Our munition factories would run day and night; their rich owners would become richer. They would pour guns and ammunition into Japan by the shipload. The war might go on for months and years, at the sacrifice of hundreds of thousands of innocent Chinese and Japanese boys, and all the nations would hate us with a bitter hatred never known before.

Oh, the infantile, asinine statesmanship of the Borah-Moses-Reed gang! H. W. ELSON.

Indignant Protest Against Butchery of Human Beings by Reckless Drivers and the Law's Neglect.

To the Ediotr of The Post—Sir: Having witnessed the butchery of Miss Mary Fisher at the corner of Fourteenth and Euclid streets, the other day, with attendant horrors of blood running down the sidewalk like water, I once again ask permission to protest against the murderous course we are pursuing in Washington by giving so little attention to human life. Men and women weather safely their three score and ten, as did this woman, only to be shockingly brained by careless and even reckless auto drivers, while little is said, and traffic in a few moments moves on as though a dog might have been run over. If an American is killed in China or Mexico, many of our people want to go to war; but we can kill by autos half as many people yearly as we lost in the great war, and it seems impossible to arouse public sentiment to the enormity of our guilt. A strange situation indeed when we boast of eradicating tuberculosis, and prolonging human life, to have it snuffed out by some unthinking auto driver, who has no right other than a superficially given "permit" to drive a car, particularly a heavy truck, through our crowded streets.

The case in point which I was compelled to witness is of a piece with most of the killings our daily papers record—a man driving a heavy truck at great speed down a steep grade, unable to stop his car no matter what would have been in the way, and a poor aged woman, confused about entering a street car, making a dash to reach it, is crushed to death. Of course the verdict will be, "unavoidable accident." I would not say the man was guilty of murder, but I would say that our traffic laws, and want of sufficient lights at dangerous places in our city makes us all guilty of human blood. Will any one hear this protest?

J. O. KNOTT.

Henry Ford's Pioneering Spirit an Example to All Business Men.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Henry Ford has spoken. He has done far more than announce the production of an eight-cylinder car.

He has in a forceful way asserted his faith in America and the American people. He has challenged the American business man to regain his courageous pioneering spirit.

Mr. Ford, possibly the wealthiest man in America, is the one who could best afford to sit back and moan about the times and berate legislators because they are unable to create new worlds out of their imaginations.

The story of Mr. Ford's phenomenal rise from poverty to the highest place in our industrial world is known to every school child. That rise is due to his pioneering spirit, the ability to see the future possibilities in a field, the determination to surmount all obstacles, and great faith in the future of our country.

Mr. Ford has well earned the right to rest and leave others carry on our present battle, but his pioneering spirit will not allow him to watch America's greatest struggle from the side lines. As he says, "I have just got back my old determination."

Even the greatest fortune in America could not dull his pioneering spirit and from his "Early American" village came the urge to again take the lead in shaping America's future. To some this village may seem a rich man's hobby, but to Ford it is a constant inspiration, a reminder that America is still a young country, still calls for the faith, courage and determination of the pioneer who builds for the future and takes the profits as they come.

If our American business men could visit that village and in those surroundings again read Mr. Ford's announcement, we would soon be climbing that grade back to prosperity, and not in low gear, but in true Americal Eight-Cylinder style.

SPECIAL ENVOY SEES SALVADOREAN CLASH

New Uprising Likely Unless Recognition Is Given, Dr. Anderson Says.

(Associated Press.)

After two weeks of fruitless effort to reach State Department officials, Dr. Luis Anderson, former Costa Rican Minister to Washington and special representative of the revolutionary government of El Salvador, said yesterday he feared continued refusal of the United States Government to discuss the matter of recognition for the Martinez regime might lead to a counterrevolutionary movement and further bloodshed in El Salvador.

Dr. Anderson said the present uncertain status of the Salvadorean government, unrecognized by the United States and the four Central American republics, is creating a state of economic and political distress which may easily result in serious subversive disorders.

Added to this situation, he said, is the fact that former President Arturo Araujo, who was ousted last December by the government which elevated vice president and war minister, Gen. Maximiliano Martinez, to the presidency, is at work in Guatemala and Honduras preparing a new revolt in El Salvador.

Reason for Refusal.

The United States' refusal to recognize the Martinez regime is based on its acceptance of the policy defined in the 1923 five-power Central American treaties by which the signatories agreed to withhold recognition from any Central American government achieving power through force.

Dr. Anderson, speaking for the Salvadorean government, said the present administration is not revolutionary in character.

He contended that President Araujo fled the country at the outbreak of the revolution of December 3, 1931, and that then Vice President and Minister of War Martinez was arrested and confined to military barracks.

When the revolution was stopped through intervention of the diplomatic corps, Gen. Martinez succeeded to the presidency in the absence of Araujo.

Never Accepted by Salvador.

Dr. Anderson pointed out the nonrecognition provision of the 1923 treaties was never accepted by El Salvador, as it conflicted with her constitution which permits a cabinet minister to succeed to the presidency after a revolution.

"While the State Department," he said, "naturally must reserve the right to make its own decisions regarding the recognition of foreign countries, it has been a surprise to me that it should be unwilling to hear both sides on this question, so important to El Salvador."

Dr. Anderson has made repeated attempts to see Assistant Secretary Francis White and other officials of the State Department, but he has not been permitted to discuss his case, even informally, with them. Now he is about ready to admit defeat and return to Costa Rica.

Mine Head and Wife Slain.

Albany, Calif., Feb. 25 (A.P.).—Otto Taubert, 60, president of the California-Nevada Mining Co., and his wife, Mrs. Marie Taubert, 46, were found shot to death in their home here today. Police said they believed Taubert killed his wife and then himself. He was said to have had recent financial losses.

Woman, 71, Loses Balm Action Against Man, 74

Portage, Wis., Feb. 25 (A.P.).—Mrs. Hattie Thomas, 71, today lost her $8,000 damage suit, in which she charged Fred Turner, 74, had broken a promise to marry her.

On the witness stand she read sentiments from her diary, testifying that in September, 1930, Mr. Turner admitted he was matrimonially inclined.

Mr. Turner conceded he might have taken Mrs. Thomas to the county fair, but he denied there was an engagement.

County Judge A. F. Kellogg held the evidence was insufficient and dismissed the case.

MEXICO SEES WORLD UNHURT IN GOLD BAN

Ortiz Rubio Says 25 Years of Yellow Metal Confirms His Nation's Views.

Mexico City, Feb. 25 (U.P.).—"Abolition of the gold standard certainly has not hampered the economic recovery of the world, and Mexico's 25 years' experience with the gold standard seems to bear out this thesis," President Pascual Ortiz Rubio of Mexico declared in an interview yesterday.

"The gold standard was introduced into Mexico in 1905, and I do not think it has shown any marked advantage to the country," President Ortiz Rubio stated. "While Mexico will avoid anything that may be considered systematic inflation of her currency, I do not think that rigid maintenance of the gold standard would assist either our country or world trade generally.

"Mexico must constantly keep her eye on two questions, one being a revival of international trade relations and the other a regeneration of her own economics," the president said. "I can not think of any problem more urgent than these two.

"I believe that radical disarmament throughout the world is an indispensable prerequisite to lasting improvement in the economic situation. Mexico, being unarmed herself, will not only welcome as far-reaching a disarmament as possible, but will cooperate in every action directed toward that end.

"Mexico's economic policy in the near future will be dictated by the world-wide economic depression and will not be merely that of reducing imports wherever possible, but also will be to encourage our Mexican home industries. Far from intending to pursue a narrow-minded policy of isolation, however, Mexico will do nothing that would exceed the necessities of economic recuperation, and she will avoid any kind of economic or other discrimination regarding other countries.

"This attitude also applies to our immigration policy, because when the economic situation of our country again permits increased immigration the usefulness of the individual immigrant, his fitness for cooperation in the welfare of Mexico, and not racial, national or political discrimination, will inspire the attitude of our government toward those who desire to make Mexico their permanent home."

ARLINGTON FUND SHORTAGE GROWS AS LOAN IS SOUGHT

$94,000 in the general county fund; $90,000 in the school fund, and $46,000 in the water fund. With the $44,472.62 shortage revealed yesterday, the total of funds allegedly missing from the county treasury now stands at $274,472.62, less the $6,000 balance in the banks.

Legislative action was necessary to allow the county to float its emergency loan, which will allow it to meet its pay rolls and current expenses until March 15. Two steps were taken along these lines.

A bill had been passed Wednesday by both houses of the Virginia Legislature, which Gov. John Garland Pollard refused to sign on the ground that it was unconstitutional because of errors in population figures. The bill passed Wednesday applied to Franklin and Lee Counties, which are also having financial difficulties.

The Legislature yesterday hastened to correct these difficulties and drafted a bill including amendments suggested by the governor which applied only to Arlington County. The bill will allow the county to borrow money up to three-fourths of the county levy for current expenses.

Gov. Pollard announced last night that he would sign the bill as soon as it could be engrossed. That will probably be today in time for the meeting of the Arlington County board to complete its plans for the emergency loan of $100,000.

While the Legislature and the governor were taking hasty action to aid the county in extricating itself from its financial morass, members of the Arlington County school board were taking independent steps to avoid possibility of having to close the schools on March 1.

Schools Face Closing.

Since the school fund of approximately $90,000 is one of the items missing, and the monthly pay roll of the schools amounts to $20,000, unless some kind of a loan is negotiated before Tuesday, there is a good chance that the schools will be forced to close until affairs are straightened out.

In order to avoid any such possibility, Fletcher Kemp, superintendent of schools, and Thomas N. De Lashmutt, chairman of the Arlington County school board, went to Richmond yesterday on an independent quest of a loan. They had a plan to get an independent loan from the State Literary Fund.

They said they desired to make this independent loan to carry on the work of the schools in order to relieve the county as much as possible in its financial emergency.

They held a conference in Richmond yesterday with Delegate Hugh Reid, of Arlington County, and then with him, visited the office of Attorney General Saunders to ask his opinion on the legality of such a loan.

Two questions were to be settled on the matter. One is the legality of granting a loan and the other is whether it will be possible to borrow sufficient money from the literary fund to carry on the work of the school.

In the case of a general loan it would be necessary to pay a rate of interest of not less than 6 per cent, while the interest rate on the literary fund is only 4 per cent.

Mr. Reid said officials of the State Board of Education indicated a sympathetic attitude, and it is believed the loan will be approved if the attorney general rules that it would be legal under existing circumstances.

The two State auditors, R. B. Jordan and R. E. Pugh, sent to Arlington County by Gov. Pollard, yesterday took over the books of the county treasurer and started the task of checking on the reputed shortages.

T. Coleman Andrews, State auditor, is expected to come to Arlington County to take personal charge of the audit, which is to include all county offices. In addition, State Auditors E. F. Newell and Gary, who have just finished some State work at Martinsburg, are expected to reach Arlington County today to aid in the task.

Ball Continues in Office.

Meantime, Ball will continue in office as county treasurer. He has indicated that he will remain on his job until completion of the audit by State accountants, and county officials point out that since the office is elective, there is no way to remove him, or suspend him, except by county action or by order of the governor, and in the latter case only if State funds are involved.

Commonwealth's Attorney Lawrence W. Douglas said that any action in respect to the treasurer has been temporarily relegated to the background because of the investigation of his accounts by the State.

"The county stands to lose nothing," he declared, "and any financial embarrassment is only temporary. The evidence of this is found in the fact that financial resources to meet the present emergency have been readily offered by the county banking connections. The Citizens National Bank of Alexandria has offered to come to the county's aid and it is understood other banks stand ready to offer like assistance if need be."

Action was taken in the Legislature yesterday to pass a bill which would empower the Governor to suspend a treasurer and institute ouster proceedings when he has reason to believe that the treasurer has failed to carry out his duties with reference to collections, disposition and accounting of public revenue.

Cites Lack of Authority.

Gov. Pollard yesterday stated that he was without authority to remove a county treasurer under any condition, even if he considered it advisable, for the Supreme Court of Appeals of the State decided last year in the case of a treasurer who was short $95,000 in his accounts that the act under which the removal was provided was unconstitutional. It did not require that the official in question be given a hearing before the removal was ordered.

Cook Heiress Was Not Killed By Poison, Family Believes

Boston, Feb. 25 (A.P.).—The family of Elizabeth B. Cook, 20-year-old heiress of Brookline and Almond, N. Y., who died mysteriously in the Mediterranean on February 7, today expressed the conviction that she died of pneumonia.

In a statement issued by their counsel, Walter N. Buffum, relatives declared the autopsy performed at Gibraltar by British authorities revealed no trace of poison or indication of overdose of any drug.

Miss Cook, returning to Boston aboard the S. S. Chinese Prince to wed St. George Arnold, 26-year-old Boston electrical engineer, sailed from Naples a few hours after having received what are now known to have been hoaxed telegrams announcing Arnold's death. She died while the ship was nearing Gibraltar.

The telegrams were sent from Capri and signed "Helen James," a person who has never been identified. G. B. Beak, British consul general here, after hearing all the circumstances from Capt. Howard Unckles of the Chinese Prince, expressed the opinion last Sunday that the girl sent the messages to herself.

Beak, however, said he was convinced Miss Cook's death was natural, as did Capt. Unckles. The Cook family has expressed no opinion of the origin of the telegrams, although newspaper stories have indicated that on at least one previous occasion Miss Cook addressed a similar message to herself aboard another ship and in another port.

The Cook family statement declared that before sailing, Miss Cook communicated by telephone with her mother and sister, Louise, who were in Naples, and told them she did not believe the telegrams advising her of Arnold's death.

It set forth that there had been an epidemic of pneumonia when the girl left Naples; that she had a cold when she went aboard and that Capt. Unckles had chided her about the low cut gown she had worn on deck the second night out, despite the chilly weather.

2 Lawyers Appointed To Library Board Posts

Richmond, Feb. 25 (A.P.).—W. Gray Williams, of Winchester, and John S. Barbour, of Fairfax County, both lawyers, today were appointed by the State board of education to fill two vacancies on the State library board.

They succeeded former Representative R. Walton Moore, of Fairfax, resigned, and Branch Johnson, of Richmond, who retired when he was made a civil justice here. The board approved applications for loans from the State literary fund aggregating $60,500, including $12,000 for schools at Virginia Beach.

Film Actor Is Indicted On Passport Charges

Los Angeles, Feb. 25 (A.P.).—Federal officers were instructed today to search Arizona hospitals for Duncan Renaldo, film actor, indicted on a charge of falsifying his passport to Africa. The indictment said Renaldo claimed he was an American citizen, but is a citizen of Roumania.

Renaldo was injured in an automobile accident in Arizona while he was en route East several days ago.

Yudelevit Is Held On $25,000 Bond

Both He and Kendrick to Be Detained Pending Grand Jury Action.

On a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon, John Kendrick was held without bond, and Harry Yudelevit, of 1620 Allison street northwest, was held under $25,000 bond yesterday when arraigned in Police Court before Judge John P. McMahon. Both will be held pending action of the grand jury.

Policeman Thomas D. Bacon, of the First Precinct, and Charles W. Flanigan, a night watchman, attempted to question Kendrick, they said, about an automatic shotgun they said they found late Thursday night in an automobile parked near Seventh and E streets northwest. Kendrick resisted arrest, Bacon said, and in a scuffle the policeman was shot in the leg and foot.

Yudelevit was arrested not far from the scene and was identified at police headquarters by Flanigan and Rowland Darling, a taxicab driver, in whose cab he was riding.

Two Workmen Killed In Oil Refinery Blast

Paulsboro, N. J., Feb. 25 (A.P.).—Two workmen were killed today in the explosion of a circulating tower containing oil at the refining plant of the Vacuum Oil Co. here. The dead are Robert Ramer, 45, Greenwich, and Leroy Getsinger, 38, of Bridgeton, N. J.

The explosion shook the plant, situated along the Delaware River, and the roar was heard for several miles. Flames which followed the blast for a time threatened five other stills.

Justice Quashes Writs Charging Try at Murder

Chicago, Feb. 25 (A.P.).—Chief Justice Harry M. Fisher in criminal court today quashed indictments charging Mrs. Marie Kegel, estranged wife of the former city health commissioner, and Gerald Lee with attempted murder of a former maid in the Kegel home. Judge Fisher said he quashed the indictments on his own initiative after receiving a message from the grand jury that it had voted the true bills through a "misconception of the facts."

Mrs. Kegel and Lee, a grocer's clerk, were indicted on the basis of statements of Mrs. Mary Ryan, the former domestic who is ill of pisoning, and Lee. They alleged that Mrs. Kegel administered poison to Mrs. Ryan in a soda fountain beverage, supposedly to thwart her appearance as a witness at Dr. Kegel's divorce trial.

Mrs. McCormick Denies Claims; Suit Dismissed

Chicago, Feb. 25 (A.P.).—A $50,000 suit against Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick based on breach of an alleged contract during her primary campaign for the U. S. Senate two years ago, was dismissed today after the former representative made a forthright denial on the witness stand that she had made any contract with the complainant.

Cairoli Gigliotti described himself from the witness stand today as "one of the most influential Italians in Chicago," a newspaperman, lawyer and psychologist. Gigliotti said the former representative hired him to discredit former Senator Charles S. Deneen in the primary in which she defeated him for the Republican nomination for United States senator.

Italy-America Society Has Reception.

Mrs. Walter R. Tuckerman, Mrs. William Fitch Kelley, Mrs. Jacob Leander Loose and Miss Alice A. Driggs were in the receiving line last evening at the George Washington celebration given by the Italy-America Society of Washington at the Mayflower.

Mr. Walter Davidge gave an interesting talk on some of the Italians who had given aid to the colonists. The 25th of February was selected for this contribution to the Bicentennial celebration because it was the anniversary of the capture of Vincennes, Ind., and the Northwest Territory by George Rogers Clark, who was given great assistance by the Italian, Francesco Vigo.

An impressive part of the program last night was the presentation to the society of the flag of the United States and an Italian flag, given by Miss Alice A. Driggs. Two soldiers, one in the uniform of the United States Army and the other in an Italian army uniform, made the formal presentation while a bugler played the call to the colors and an Italian anthem. Signor Giuseppe Catalani, one of the vice presidents of the society, received the flags in the absence of the president, Dr. David Jayne Hill, who is ill.

Minuets were danced by a group of young men and women under direction of Miss Minnie Hawks, and an interesitng musical program was also rendered. Miss Francis Pelton-Jones gave some especially interesting numbers on a harpsichord that was brought here from New York especially for the occasion.

The young people who danced the minuet were Miss Gertrude Good, Miss Polly Wirgman, Miss Imogene Lee Gardiner, Miss Betsy Ann Simpson, Mr. Theodore Tiller 3d, Mr. William Gwynn, Mr. John Kittelle and Mr. Ned Nye. They were all in colonial costume.

The Italian Ambassador and Nobile Donna Antonietta de Martino were guests of honor, with the members of the embassy staff.

Social Work Classes Are Sought at Howard

With "positions of importance in various welfare agencies here closed to Negro social workers because of inadequate preparation," the National Association of College Women has undertaken to have a school of social service established at Howard University similar to such schools in other colored institutions in Atlanta and elsewhere.

The association, through Esther Popel Shaw, stated yesterday that it is necessary for colored aspirants for such work to travel to distant points in order to acquire adequate instruction. Thirty students at Howard were said to desire courses in welfare work. The matter, which is understood to have the sanction of the university president, will be discussed by the fourth annual conference of deans and advisers to women and girls in colored schools, at Tuskegee, March 17.

Judge Declines Bridal Kiss After Wedding

Gilroy, Calif. (U.P.).—Because there is nothing in the penal code requiring him to do so, Judge Leon Thomas refused the proferred lips of Mrs. Margaret Hill, after he had married her to Walter Lee Hill.

"There are too many osculating justices already," he said, "I want to be different."

Students to Stage Bicentennial Play

'The Washingtons at Home' to Be Given Saturday at Gunston Hall.

Students of Gunston Hall School, under direction of Miss Marjorie Lowe, head of the vocal music department, will present a Bicentennial play, "The Washington at Home," by Dwight Marfield, on Saturday evening in the school auditorium. The scene is Mount Vernon during Washington's last birthday fete.

Musical numbers are numerous and a minuet is featured. Beulah Lewis plays the part of Gen. Washington and Lundye Sharp is Martha Washington. Col. Randolph and Capt. Fairfax are acted by Marion Ross and Bettie Schneider, with Eloise Dasher as Betsy Pollard. The comic element is furnished by Mary Manning McNeill as the colored butler, Jeremy Jackson. Isabel Barton and Susanna Reid will give several songs.

There will be three guest artists for the performance: Beverly O'Brien, contralto; Constance Ellen Tyler, violinist, and Ataloa, the Indian princess, who is in Washington for a series of concerts.

Handkerchief, 100 Years Old, Owned in Carolina

Selma, N. C. (U.P.).—A handkerchief said to be more than 100 years old is owned by Miss Anne Noble, Selma. She said the handkerchief belonged to her great-grandmother, Anne Stephens, who was married in 1825 and came to America from Scotland. The handkerchief is in a good state of preservation.

Sol Topping, of Belhaven, first claimed to own the oldest handkerchief in the State. He is 63 years old.

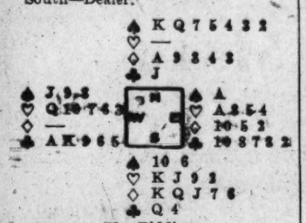
SQUEEZE VERSUS CROSS RUFF.

EXPERT players, familiar with all types of play about which volumes are written, such as coups, squeezes, eliminations and end plays, can bid unusual hands with confidence to a point not justified for the ordinary player. Mr. Waldemar von Zedtwitz, my teammate in many a hard-fought contract battle, requires no eulogy from me or anyone else to prove his right to be considered an expert player, but the hand below, played in a recent national tournament, gave him an opportunity to add a fresh sprig of laurel to his crown.

South—Dealer.



The Bidding:

South	West	North	East
1◇	1♡	1♠	2♡
Pass	3♣	5◇	Dbl.
Pass	Pass	Pass

I give the bidding as it occurred without any comment.

The play is really the interesting feature of the hand. West opened the King of clubs and then shifted to a heart. He reasoned that it was essential to shorten the Dummy's trumps before the spade suit was established and another round of clubs might possibly establish a club trick for South. Dummy trumped and led a diamond and this disclosed the trump situation. Mr. von Zedtwitz now led a spade which East won with the Ace, the Queen being played from Dummy. East would have been better advised to lead a club, but decided to continue shortening Dummy's trumps, so led the Ace of hearts. He had placed the King of hearts in his partner's hand on the bidding. With the play thus far, Mr. von Zedtwitz could see no necessity of cross ruffing the hand. If the spades are divided evenly in the adverse hands he can take the balance of the tricks. If one of them holds a singleton, it must be East as West has shown a void in diamonds. In any case, for an expert there was no reason to take the chance of a spade being trumped, as a triple squeeze play was a certainty. West's Opening lead had shown the Ace of clubs in his hand and his bid indicated that he also held the Queen of hearts. If he has the two missing spades, he can not holds them and protect clubs and hearts at the same time. After Mr. von Zedtwitz had played the Ace of trumps and three additional trumps, West was left with spades J 9, hearts Q 10, clubs Ace. When Mr. von Zedtwitz then led his fifth and last trump West was forced to unguard one of the suits and the doubled contract of five was thus made.

TODAY'S POINTER.

The expert Bridge player is justified in what appears to be an overbidding because he can confidently count upon making all the tricks possible in the play.

Indoor—Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

CARE OF PERENNIALS.

WHILE perennials are not especially exacting, they demand some care, especially during their growing season. In order to encourage deep-root growth, we must keep them well cultivated while they are growing. Constant cultivation will also keep down weeds, add to the appearance of the border and also aid in the conservation of moisture.

We must be sure to go over the plants quite frequently and remove dead leaves, faded flowers and any seed pods which have formed. This will induce new growth and prevent hiding places for any insect pest which may be on the alert to attack our plants.

During prolonged droughts or even when we experience only moderately warm days, we must be sure to see that the roots of the plants are moist at all times. As a rule, the new gardener follows the plan of watering frequently and sparingly. This is a mistake and really does more harm than good. The way to water is to soak the entire ground to the depth of 2 feet. After a drenching of this sort we may wait two or three days before giving more water.

While the list that was given on Wednesday in this column will, if planted in one border, mean a continuous showing of bloom during the entire season, a few annual flowers will surely supplement the effect. Annual larkspur, zinnias, petunias, centaureas, calendulas, clarkia, godetia and annual poppy are all well suited for use among perennials. Any of these varieties can be depended upon for a mass of color during the latter part of the summer, when the perennials are resting or preparing for their fall season of bloom. Some of these varieties are also well suited for cutting for house decoration.

If these plants are properly cared for the number of blooms they will produce will be surprising. Of course, they should not be sown too closely and they must be transplanted and given sufficient room for development. To encourage a continuous showing of bloom at all times the flowers should be kept picked and thus be prevented from developing seed. Given such care, annuals will enhance the beauty of any perennial border 100 per cent.

All readers' questions on growing and care of indoor and outdoor flowers and floral decorations for social functions will be answered by Miss Kift, directly in this column if addressed in care of The Washington Post, or directly to readers if a self-addressed stamped envelope is supplied.

Jane Interprets the Mode

White seersucker tennis dress with knee-length panties and separate skirt and matching jacket in skipper blue broadcloth.

NEW YORK, Feb. 25.—Tennis is hard work! Oh yes, drive around Beverly Hills or upper Hollywood any of these sunny winter days and get a glimpse between palm trunks of sheltered courts that are seldom empty. Cinema beauties must keep figures, you know. And golf is a snare and a delusion, as it were, for figger keeping. But tennis is one way to get a lot more exercise than you think you are getting and pleasantly.

That's why Hollywood is quite tennis minded these days. And whether a lovely cinema lady ever even hits a ball across the net, her instructor sees that she runs around plenty after it, you can bet. And she sees that she is dressed for her game, and that's where your's truly comes in.

'Member I sketched a tennis frock for you a year or so ago, with shorts in place of a skirt? And maybe you don't know it—but a couple of hoo-o-o-o-wls from indignant fans reached the ears of our deelightful editor, and ah, well, I can't go on. And here today that's the very costume every one is wearing on the tennis courts. Real tennis players can't be annoyed with howls, however indignant. And even milady conservative has come to admit that there is a great deal of liberty allowed in actual sports wear.

So the accepted tennis costmue of the day is a short sleeved or sleeveless frock attached to shorts, loosely belted, and almost always white, worn with a skirt that can be removed easily for playing, and a jacket or sweater that matches or contrasts the skirt, worn to and from the links.

And if you don't quite approve of shorts, which end midway between the knee and hips on the thigh, then wear pleated pants like the ones on the tennis frock I designed and sketched for you today. This is my offering of a perfect outfit—frock in white seersucker, with a snug, well-fitting and chic hip yoke, a loose blouse gathered at either side of the bust, and a colored leather belt with a matching hankie tucked into a pocket. Then a wrap-around skirt in a fancy woolen and a matching double-breasted jacket—I suggest skipper blue for the skirt and jacket, brass buttons and a red belt, hankie and beret. And I suggest also the knee-length panties instead of shorts, unless one is very slender and young. And, I advocate tennis for keeping slender and young, or at least supple, which is even more alluring on a woman in her thirties than slenderness.

Corduroy, both in silk and cotton, is important. It makes its appearance for pyjamas for the house and in jackets galore for summer sportswear. Sometimes, too, it is the jacket of a three-piece ensemble, in a sharply contrasting color. Me, I like mine to wear on coolish days with matching pyjamas and a skirt that I slip into, wearing the same blouse and jacket, when I go out of the house to post that inevitable air-mail letter!

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

SHEDDING EVERY SEVEN YEARS.

H. G. writes: Could you explain the meaning of "the system changing?" I have heard that no part of the body is the same after ten years. Does this mean that the entire body is different, or that when the old cells die the new ones take something from the old throughout life. If the body changes completely, how can we remember the past?

REPLY.

There is an old belief, originating in folklore, that the body changes completely once every seven years. This probably originated in some semi-religious idea that the number seven was superhuman, or divine, in some way. Whether the people who accept a religion that is not founded on a seven-day period for creation and rest, or a seven-day week, believe the same, I do not know. Our seven-day week has the same foundation as the old belief that the human body completes a change every seven years.

The fact is that change is constantly going on, but there is no set period for a cycle in which every cell shall have been changed. The bones and the teeth are changing constantly, whereas other tissues are changing with great rapidity.

Any one who has ever seen the Canti film, or any of the half dozen moving pictures of that type, must recognize that the old opinions were incorrect. The ordinary cells of the human body are not fixed and solid. They are shifting their shapes, and sometimes their position constantly.

Their substance, instead of being as solid as a hard boiled egg, is about as semi-liquid as the raw white, or as a poorly-jellied jelly. Under the microscope, and by means of the movie, cells which we think of as bricks are seen to be composed of streaming, semi-liquid material sending out processes like an elephant's trunk, drawing them back and wiggling like a bunch of worms. Old protoplasm is constantly being worn away, discarded, and replaced. The blood cells live only a few days; most of them, less than a week. A man may have very solid, hard bone this year, while next year his bony framework may be light and porous. The teeth of rats grow steadily from birth to old age. We may yet find that human teeth grow just as consistently and steadily, though more slowly. Other tissues lie in between these extremes in their rate of change.

The tissues that are worn out and discarded leave behind all their patterns—those of the memory, of habit, of service, of growth, and of reproduction. The dead take nothing away with them. The rule is that every dead man's shoes are filled and the exceptions are no more frequent than is the case with other rules. The old belief is correct as to constant change. It is widely wrong as to the period.

HALITOSIS CAUSE.

Dr. H. C. S. writes: Your article on halitosis, taken from Dr. Hartzell's, was O. K as far as it went, but it seems to me it did not go very far.

I have practiced dentistry 34 years and recognize a few odors when I see them, and quite a few when I don't. There are many causes for halitosis, even among nongarlic eating races. I will be brief and name what seem to me to be the three leading causes—one which any dentist can detect blindfolded and within three feet of the patient:

1. Malconstructed bridgework, offering lodgment to debris of the mouth, with little or no chance for removal.

2. Pyorrhea, the odor of which names the disease the moment a patient exhales toward the dentist.

3. Badly decayed teeth, which offer a harbor for particles of food which soon become very offensive; and likewise very characteristic in odor.

The tests offered in your article, it seems to me, are very inconclusive and hardly fair. For instance, a test is recommended, the debris from the tongue and tooth surface being compared as to odor. When you realize the difference between the structures of the two bodies, you will see my point. The surfaces of the teeth, where the tests would be made, are smooth and subject to constant friction while the tongue is, in many mouths, quite the reverse, and has many fissures. Also as you well know, stomach upsets often use the tongue as a depository. If Dr. Hartzell had pushed a wooden toothpick between his back teeth a few hours after eating, and taken a whiff of same, it might be instructive. This, by the way, may be tried by any one in doubt or, if preferred, the dental floss may be used.

There are many other causes of halitosis. I will name one other—salivary calulus, or tartar, which, if deposited in bulk and allowed to remain (which, alas, is often the case), is the seat of many odors, depending on the culinary and other habits of the individual.

The treatment of these causes is not the buncombe mouth wash, any more than cologne is a substitute for the bath, but the removal of the cause, which, fortunately, is possible.

I would be glad to have you check up on my statements and if I have not proved my case will at least attempt to do so in a more comprehensive way.

REPLY.

You have nothing on the dentist whose opinions you take issue with. He has enjoyed very large practice for more years than most men can claim. Of course, you are right. There are many causes of halitosis and the remedy is to find the cause, and then remove it.

DEVOTES A DAY TO "REQUESTED RECIPES."

IN addition to our week-end planning we must today take care of recipes which have been requested of us; then proceed with out Saturday and Sunday dinner menus.

Dutch Apple Cake.
(For Sarah Harvey.)

1 cupful scalded milk
5 tablespoonfuls butter
5 tablespoonfuls sugar
Generous pinch of salt
2 eggs
1 yeast cake
2¾ cupfuls flour
5 sour apples
Melted butter
4 tablespoonfuls sugar
½ teaspoonful cinnamon
2 tablespoonfuls currants

Mix the milk, sugar, butter and salt and when lukewarm add yeast cake, unbeaten eggs and flour to make a soft dough. Cover and let rise, then beat thoroughly and let rise again. Spread on buttered dripping pan as thinly as possible and brush over with melted butter. Pare, remove cores and cut apples in eighths. Press edges of apples into dough in parallel rows, sprinkle with sugar mixed with cinnamon and currants. Cover, let rise and bake in a moderate oven for 30 minutes.

Zabaglione (Italian Dessert).
(Also for Sarah Harvey.)

3 eggs
6 tablespoonfuls nonalcoholic sherry flavoring
3 tablespoonfuls confectioners' sugar

Beat eggs until light and lemon-colored. Add sugar. Place in double boiler over hot water. Beat with rotary beater. Add sherry flavoring, drop by drop, beating all the while until all the sherry is used and the mixture is thick and fluffy. Pile in warmed sherbet glasses. Sprinkle with nutmeg. Serve hot.

Vol Au Vent or Patty Shells.
(Also for Dolores)

2 cupfuls pastry flour
¼ cupful lard
1 cupful butter
½ teaspoonful salt
Ice water

Sift the flour and salt into a bowl. Add the lard and cut into the flour mixture with a knife. When lard is thoroughly chopped into the flour add the ice water, a very little at a time, and cut in with a knife until dough is stiff. Cut the butter into the dough in the same way and roll into a ball. Cover and let stand in refrigerator several hours or overnight. Roll out to one-half inch thickness. Cut three oval rings and remove the center from each (like a doughnut). Place a piece of heavy paper on a baking sheet. Lay a ring of pastry on it. Dampen with ice water and lay another ring on this, dampen and place a third ring on this. Press together with fingers. Bake in a hot oven (450 degrees) for 15 minutes. The pastry should puff while baking.

Crab Meat Cocktail.
(For Dolores.)

2 cupfuls fresh crab meat
½ green pepper—minced

Mix and serve with the following sauce:

Pinch of salt
2-3 tablespoonful catsup
Sprinkling of lemon juice
½ teaspoonful Worcestershire sauce
¼ teaspoonful horseradish
A dash of tabasco
1 tablespoonful chili sauce

Mix these ingredients together very thoroughly, garnish with sliced lemon and serve cold.

Mint Jelly.
(Also for Dolores)

Cut in eighths one peck of apples and put in kettle with two quarts cold water. Cover, bring to boiling point and simmer until apples are soft. Drain through jelly bag and measure. Bring juice again to boil and boil 20 minutes. Add three-fourths cup sugar (heated) to each cupful juice, stir, and boil 5 minutes. Wash and bruise a bunch of fresh mint. Steep in boiling sirup until desired flavor is obtained. Add two tablespoonfuls lemon juice and color with green vegetable coloring. Skim and pour into glasses.

SUNDAY'S DINNER.

Fresh Fruit Cup
Olives Celery
Braised Leg of Lamb with Cracker-Crumb Stuffing
Mint Sauce
Pan Roasted Potatoes
Green Pea Timbales
Grapefruit Salad
Orange Bavarian Cream
Sand Tarts
Coffee

SATURDAY'S SUPPER.

Bean Fritters with Mexican Sauce
Potato Chips
Coleslaw
Preserved Fruit
Cup Cakes
Tea

What Today Means to You

"PISCES."

IF February 26 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11:30 a. m. to 1 p. m., from 4:30 p. m. to 5:45 p. m. and from 10 p. m. to 11:40 p. m. The danger periods are from 7:30 a. m. to 9 a. m. and from 2 p. m. to 3:20 p. m.

The planets will not exert much influence on February 26, but will be mildly favorable for most aspects of life. A poor time for large transactions, but a safe time for minor dealings if not of a speculative nature. Evening hours should prove to be the most interesting and profitable time of the day.

The child born on this February 26 will have commonplace abilities, but a character made attractive by its sunny disposition and taking manners. Above all else it will be simple, natural, sincere and honest. It will be one of the world's givers and not so much of a taker.

If born February 26, nature did not bless you with a happy disposition, and you have the unfortunate faculty of finding clouds where others only see sunshine and brightness. You often pick the role of martyr, where self-sacrifice is uncalled for and unappreciated. You do many unselfish things from a sense of duty, and not from a willing heart; you are a disgruntled burden-carrier. You hate putting yourself under any obligations to others, and it is somewhat your own fault if your relationships with most people are one-sided; you do not know how to take things in the spirit they are given.

You are very chary of self-praise, and you never try to slide your own failures onto another's shoulder. You feel the justice of self-suffering for your own faults and weaknesses, and stoically face your misfortunes. On the other hand, you are liberal-minded in regard to the shortcomings of your fellow beings. Affability and amiability are two traits you do not possess, and you are apt to put your worst foot forward. A greater sprinkling of humor and lightness in your nature would make life easier for you; you take all things too seriously to heart. If you be a woman and mother, you will be all in all to your children, a being absolutely at their disposal. You will lavish your love upon then.

Successful people born February 26:

1—Max C. Fleishmann, yeast manufacturer.
2—Madeleine Carroll, screet artist.
3—Basil King, author.
4—Victor Hugo, French writer.
5—William F. Cody, "Buffalo Bill," guide.

FRANCES M'DONALD

Poor Little Elsie!

DEAR Frances McDonald:

I am glad some one answered this "Elsie" letter in your column, because I think she is all wrong. When I read her boastful letter all I could think to say was "selfish selfish, selfish." What man wouldn't stick around under such circumstances? When my husband and I were married we had waited about a year longer than necesary until, as he said, he knew his salary would support us both. First we put our little cash down on a home of our own, he working faithfully at the office and I working faithfully at home keeping the home as it should be kept, using the money to the best of my ability and saving wherever it could be done. Did my husband help with the house work? Of course not. That wasn't his job as long as I was able to carry out my part. Then the inevitable took place. First came babies, then long spells of sickness, astounding hospital bills, unforeseen troubles. I might say there was ten years of this. And did we go under? We nearly did but there was the background of a husband and a wife who, through love and sacrifice for each other, pulled through it all. I wanted to go to work after that and help pay off some of our debts but my husband said I had big enough job if I kept things going at home. I could write about our marriage as a success and if you ask me what did it, I believe I would say I don't know. It just turned out that way. I do believe understanding between each other has helped most of all. When my husband wants to go out he knows he can go. If he doesn't come home from the office right on time, that's all right. There are a lot of little things in married life that count for happiness. Then when the big troubles come you have built up a foundation to carry on. But you have to go through the worst of it before you can boast of what kind of a husband you have. It's mighty nice to have two salaries coming into the home, go to card parties without wondering if the babies are asleep, &c., but it's so much nicer to have just one salary and a real home. I will agree with "Elsie" on one thing, the husband she has should help with the housework. I am too independent to let a man support me if I weren't making a home for him. There are some men who like to do housework and others who shoulder their own responsibilities. Thank goodness, I didn't get "Elsie's" kind. But there are two sides to every story. Maybe he has a different tale to tell. Not all women like to wash dishes and you know they just have to be washed.

ANOTHER ONE.

For once in our life we are going to have the last word. We really are surprised that so many women in this age condemn a woman who prefers an office to a kitchen—or even a nursery. We do not know Elsie. But we do know a lot of women who have children and who would have conferred a boon upon both the children and the world in general if they had remained single or at least childless. Not every woman is fitted for motherhood—regardless of what nature may have planned back in the beginning of all this circus. Some women are born mothers. Fine. Let them have children. Some women are bundles of nerves and others are simply not fitted to undertake the burden of mothering a family. Let each decide for herself. And let neither condemn the other. Elsie may yet raise a fine family. Who knows? And who can say what another should do with her life—or even could do with it? How about a little more breadth of view? How about looking at the other fellow's side of things? Sometimes it is sheer selfishness to have children, and unselfishness to forego motherhood. Only the woman concerned can know. The rest of us are only onlookers. So let us advise—but never condemn, since we can not possibly know whereof we speak when we blame another for anything. So may Elsie remain as happy always as she is today—children or no children!

Death of College Girl Laid to Mental Disease

Philadelphia, Feb. 26 (A.P.).—Authorities investigating the death of Miss Elsie Flothmeier, 22-year-old college girl, whose unclad body was found in a field, concurred today that she had died from exposure while suffering a mental aberration.

Her father, the Rev. Frederick Flothmeier, pastor of the Tabor Lutheran Church, said he was convinced the finding of the authorities was correct. Mr. Flothmeier said his daughter had suffered a mental illness for some time. Recently, he said, she had appeared normal, but apparently aggravated her illness by overstudy at a Philadelphia college.

Virginia Socialists Set March 11 for Meeting

Richmond, Feb. 25 (A.P.).—The annual convention of the Socialist party of Virginia will be held in Richmond March 11, 12 and 13, Herman R. Ansell, of Richmond, State chairman, announced today. He said about 80 delegates will attend.

The Virginia organization will have four votes in the national convention at Milwaukee May 14 to 18.

Prince Tells How He Plans Life as Commoner to Wed

Editor's note—Prince Lennart, of Sweden, who gave up his royal prerogatives in order that he might marry Karin Nissvandt, a commoner, wrote the following account of his plans and hopes especially for the Associated Press. The marriage is scheduled to take place shortly in London.

By PRINCE LENNART OF SWEDEN.

London, Feb. 25 (A.P.).—People ask me what my future plans are as a commoner. What I mean to do first is to make a home for myself and my wife—which is what every man in the world wants to do. I do not plan a gay and dashing wife, but rather a quiet and serious one—and to work.

My father is not interested in farming and is delighted to have me take charge of the castle and estate at Lake Constance. This is a lovely piece of the Old World at its most charming. The outside of the castle is old, but it is modern for living. We will have our radio and our movies and will generally be in close contact with the modern world, at the same time having a paradise of our own.

I will take direct charge of the farming, which I have studied in Germany and elsewhere, and of the whole business of the place. My Money Makes the Wheels Go Round...

The American Farmer needs money, too. He needs credit to plant crops ... to buy tractors ... to run farm implements. Money makes his wheels go round. Do your part to help by keeping your money in circulation.

The railroads are just one of America's great utilities that rely upon public ownership. It is the dollars of American people that have made our great network of railroads possible. These dollars are necessary to make the wheels go round.

Money makes work! It's the life-blood of American Industry!

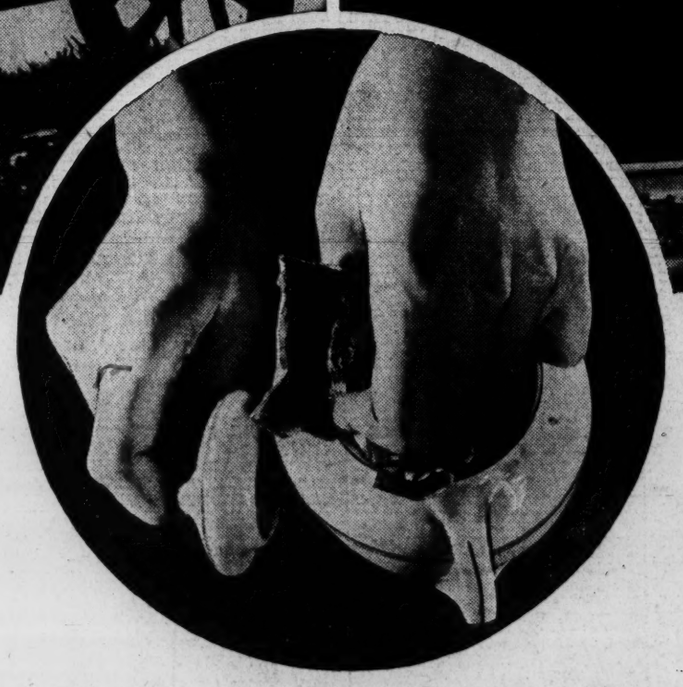
Whether you're a farmer in the Northwest . . . or a locomotive engineer in the East . . . money supplies the power for the machines you run.

It takes money to buy tractors and plant crops. It takes money to buy steel and run engines.

Money makes work. And when money is idle . . . that slows up industry . . . makes business bad.

It's hard for the average person to realize how important this factor of idle money is. Just think of it . . . one dollar invested releases five or ten more for credit.

Your dollars . . . plus those of your neighbors' . . . quickly add up and multiply into staggering sums.



Think of it! Over a Billion Dollars are now lying idle . . . not working. Withdrawn from circulation. Picture what this means to American business. Will you do your share to Help get America's money back to work?

A Note of Grateful Appreciation to the Publisher

From FRANK KNOX, Chairman, Citizens Reconstruction Organization

Thanks to the patriotic attitude of this newspaper, this advertisement is one of a series being printed without cost. For this great public service the Publisher of this newspaper deserves the nation's praise.

Active money is the food and nourishment of American business. It builds factories. It buys machines. It purchases raw materials. It hires men . . . and keeps them at work.

Don't you see? When dollars become idle . . . factories become idle too. When money is withdrawn from circulation . . . men are withdrawn from jobs.

Of course you should save . . . but save wisely. No matter how small the sum . . . let the country share your wealth.

If there's any question in your mind . . . talk to the ablest business men you know. Get their advice and counsel.

Every dollar you put in circulation now brings prosperity nearer. Remember money makes the wheels go 'round . . . keep it working. Do your share to Turn the Tide.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

LOOK WHAT WILLIE DUNN HAS DONE!

MR. WILLIE DUNN, of Chicago, has a device. It looks like the invention of the centuries. Through its benefactions sunshine should be spread where only darkness has prevailed, hope should replace despair and happiness rout gloom.

• • • •

It should bring peace to long disrupted firesides, cheer hearts that have known no joy, rebuild shattered lives and save a billion souls.

• • • •

It's a golf stick so slotted that it will whistle when correctly swung!

• • • •

When the club is properly held and swung it will whistle all the way into the backstroke and the follow through, notifying the uncertain duffer that all is well and that, whatever happens to the ball, he is technically correct.

• • • •

Duffers now look forward to the season of 1932 with a hope they haven't felt for years. What golf has needed has been something that would notify the golfer he was wrong before and not after he hit the ball.

• • • •

With the new slotted club he will know he's still terrible if he goes into his backswing and hears no noise like an angry traffic cop's whistle.

• • • •

He may not know whether he is a golfer or a peanut roaster, but he will always know whether he is right or wrong.

• • • •

HE may sound like a canary, a hot brake or a man paging his bird dog, but his will be the grand and glorious feeling that he is fundamentally sound on all tees.

• • • •

Only when he swings his trusty driver and gets no music will he know he is back again in the duffer class.

• • • •

It looks like a noisy year in the great open spaces. Golf courses should sound like Erie freight terminals. Picture, if you will, millions of golf addicts tottering around the links desperately striving to get their golf clubs to give the correct whistle.

Doomed is the golf instructor. His successor will be a piccolo player.

• • • •

And the next thing you may see is a distracted duffer trying to putt with a cornet and get out of a sand trap with a violin.

• • • •

Wonders will never cease. But what the situation calls for is a golf ball that will throw off red fire, ring a bell, blow a siren and play "Life Is Just a Bowl of Cherries" whenever it lands in a playable lie.

Editor Miami Herald:

Your issue ran a picture of myself with two guests by the name of Gossage, showing a catch of kingfish and a sailfish we brought in. A. R. Gossage is given credit for the sailfish. This is an error.

I caught the sailfish, as you can ascertain by calling Capt. C. L. Munro, of the Sailfish Club, which club gave me a certificate for the fish.

It doesn't seem very sportsmanlike to me to get such a bad break after fulfilling my desire to catch a sailfish and then have the credit go to another. Most respectfully,

PUPILS MUST PLAY, EDUCATOR ASSERTS

Athletic System With Few Participants and Many Spectators Deplored.

Attention of school superintendents was turned from the classroom to the playing field at the concluding session of the sixty-second annual convention of the department of superintendence of the National Education Association yesterday afternoon at Constitution Hall.

Home study that deprives children of from 6 to 7 hours play a day was branded as "legalized criminality" by Jay B. Nash, professor of education at the school of education, New York University. Children from 8 to 14 years of age require this amount of play, he said.

An affliction similar to shell shock is in danger of spreading throughout the United States because of the preponderance of spectators and the minority of players in athletic events, Prof. Nash told the superintendents. He explained that persons who watch others in action are subject to the release of poisonous body acids. When they watch others playing the spectators have an instinctive desire to get into action, and their inability to do so creates this internal disturbance which brings on a condition akin to shell shock, the New York professor pointed out.

Health Habits Stressed.

"Unless health habits are carried out and the body is freed from drains and strains, athletics will break the organism," Prof. Nash said. "Much of our athletics in colleges and high schools today can neither be classed as educational or as a phase of physical education; they might fit into the publicity department. Physical education is the developmental source of health, and its object is to free the individual for the good things of life."

It is the duty of school superintendents and boards of education to provide an adequate and properly organized recreational program for school children, Frederick W. Maroney, of Teachers College, Columbia University, told the superintendents. "The child without a playground," he said, "is the future parent of the man without a job." By this, he explained that the person not properly prepared physically for life is apt to have children unfitted for the world's work.

Mental ill-health and its spread throughout the country was attributed by Dr. Maroney to the absence of a proper amount of play and regulated physical exercise. The increase in mental ill-health presents a challenge to civilization, he said.

Fess Speaks at Session.

Senator Simeon D. Fess of Ohio, speaking at the morning session, told the educators that he does not believe the Government's economy measures will cripple school work. Through the immense financial relief program being enacted into law, Senator Fess said he believed that retrenchment can be avoided.

Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, also one of the principal speakers at the morning session, declared that "in this era of too rapid growth, of amalgamation of centralized power, we must fight for safety through effective local government and local control." The schools, he said, must instill in children "a sense of service to their fellow men and society in general." "There must grow up in their minds the concept of a country to serve, not a government upon which to fatten," he added.

William John Cooper, United States commissioner of education, in discussing the school system of the District, told the visitors the local school system "is a rather good one, even though a number of groups handle the school appropriations."

Harmony With Colleges.

Harmony between schools and colleges was urged by Robert M. Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago. Financial crippling of schools will affect the colleges and universities, he pointed out. An educational system "built on cooperation and not on rigid control," Dr. Hutchins said, "will illuminate the educational scene for our people and for ourselves and in the light of a new day perform our common task."

A resolution recommending that the department of superintendence extend a loan to the teachers of Chicago, was defeated.

Another resolution expressed faith in the eighteenth amendment. Another recommended that the executive committee appoint a special committee to study the question of making adjustments in the social studies curriculum in junior and senior high schools. A more impartial presentation of facts in the teaching of history was recommended in a third resolution.

Cooperation between boards of education and State and municipal governmental groups in economizing in departments other than schools so that the teaching of children will not be crippled was urged in another resolution. Maintenance of instructional standards was also urged. Increased financial support for the United States Office of Education was recommended.

To Attend Masque.

Many of the N. E. A. delegates will attend the masque, "Wakefield," at Constitution Hall tonight as a concluding feature of entertainment of their sojourn in Washington.

The following cities made bids for the meeting place for the next convention: San Francisco, Cincinnati, New Orleans, Minneapolis, Chicago, Cleveland, Houston, and Philadelphia. The convention city will be chosen by the executive committee.

The following new officers were introduced: Milton C. Potter, superintendent of Milwaukee schools, president; Edwin C. Broome, superintendent, Philadelphia, retiring president, new first vice president; George Melcher, Kansas City superintendent, second vice president, and Carroll R. Reed, Minneapolis superintendent, new executive committee member.

The conventions, which opened last Saturday, brought 15,000 educators here.

Senate Body Approves Pension for Mrs. Taft

(Associated Press.)

An annual pension of $5,000 for Mrs. Helen H. Taft, widow of the Chief Justice, was approved yesterday by the Senate pensions committee and its favorable report sent to the Senate.

The report noted "it has been the pleasure" of Congress to pension widows of Presidents since the death of President James K. Polk. The bill was sponsored by Senator Bingham (Republican), Connecticut.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

THE twelfth annual convention of the Motion Picture Theater Owners of America will be held at the Mayflower Hotel in this city on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, March 14, 15 and 16, according to announcement made yesterday from local headquarters.

An outstanding feature of the convention will be the banquet to be spread in the large ballroom of the hotel Tuesday evening, March 15.

Realizing that the place for speeches is at the business sessions of the convention, the banquet committee representing the M. P. T. O. A., under the chairmanship of A. Julian Brylawski, is preparing a dinner program such as only the great resources of the motion picture industry are able to provide. Both stage and screen will be drawn on for personal appearance of their most brilliant stars. It is the avowed purpose of those in charge to make this particular occasion short on oratory, but long on entertainment.

It can already be announced that Eddie Dowling, musical comedy author, actor and producer, has accepted the invitation to act as master of ceremonies. He will be assisted by many of his associates in former stage successes. In addition, every theater in Washington will contribute artists to the feast of entertainment that is to be presented as a concomitant of the feast of food.

It has been suggested to out-of-town members of the M. P. T. O. A., that they invite their senators and congressmen, with their wives, to be guests of the organization on this occasion.

To the best of my recollection, this will be the first convention of the Motion Picture Theater Owners of America to be held in the National Capital since 1921, when a delegation headed by Sidney Cohen, then national president, and James J. Walker, now Mayor of New York, but at that time general counsel of the exhibitors' organization, accompanied by the Washington theater owners and executives, extended a personal invitation to President Harding to open their conclave—which, owing to previous engagements, he was unable to do.

M. E. Comerford, prominent theater owner of Pennsylvania, and a member of the board of directors of the M. P. T. O. A., is at present in Washington conferring with Mr. Brylawski on details of the impending annual meeting. Mr. M. A. Lightman, of Tennessee, is the present national president of the owner group.

It is one of the axioms of the motion picture industry that the principal difference between a star of the screen and an "extra" is a matter of mental capacity. Never has it been more conclusively demonstrated than in Marie Dressler's performance in the title role of "Emma," opening today at Loew's Palace Theater.

Completely abandoning the slapstick methods she popularized so widely, with Polly Moran as costar in her roistering comedies, Miss Dressler by sheer power of personality, depth of understanding and flawless command of the tools of her trade, makes of the homely, ungainly and unpretentious figure of a patient and indefatigable housekeeper, upon whom a large family, bereft of mother, chiefly relies, one of the tremendously real characters of contemporary drama.

As I sat in at a midnight preview of this sterling subject, the thought insistently recurred that not half enough attention has been paid the Dressler voice by critics and public. Heavy in tone and almost masculine in timber, it still is susceptible of infinite variation and the convincing expression of every gradation of feeling, from stentorian wrath to the gently purling cadences of a mother's tender love. There is call for just such versatility in the action of "Emma." It is a picture that spans the lifetime of a family and plumbs the emotions of a saint.

Here is something that is conspicuously detached from the trivialities of the screen and can not be put over by mere beauty of face or the pulchritudinous peripheries of a gorgeous figure. This is a matter calling for mind and heart.

Marie Dressler, beyond the measure of any actress I know, has both in abundance.

This, however, will come as no new discovery to Washington. It was first demonstrated 'way back in the days of the Great War when Douglas Fairbanks, Mary Pickford, Charlie Chaplin and Miss Dressler visited the Capital in the course of a Liberty Bond drive of vital importance to the Government. Doug Fairbanks was agile and dynamic, Mary charming and demure, Chaplin a comic and engaging clown, but it was Marie Dressler who "stole the show."

Hers were the clincher arguments, driven home by a comprehensive grasp of what it was all about, relentless logic and impassioned zeal for the triumph of right.

These are the qualities, almost two decades later, that will be found in "Emma."

Mr. Jimmie Lake, the Chesterfield of Ninth street and the Adonis of the sports arenas, can not restrain a broad grin when he contemplates the booking for the week of March 6 at the Gayety. Beginning with Sunday matinee on that date, his offering will be Mrs. Jack ("Legs") Diamond and Her 30 Racket-Dears." It is believed that the presence in person of the widow of the recently deleted racketeer will serve to pack the house throughout the week.

There is, nevertheless, a chance for confusion here. This is Mrs. "Legs" Diamond, who is coming, not Marian "Kiki" Roberts, whose name was so frequently linked with the gangster's.

Tomorrow is the last day upon which last year's seat subscribers for the summer season of the National Theater Players will be able to claim the same reservations for the eighth "little season" of the company, beginning in less than two months. After tomorrow, February 27, requests of new subscribers will be accepted and filed in the order of their receipt.

While a majority of the old subscriptions have been renewed, an examination of the books by the management discloses that some who have retained the same seats since the National Theater Players' first season have not as yet returned their subscription blanks.

These best had hurry!

It will be a source of regret to many that this is the last week of Le Mae and Alice Louise in the Capital. These popular exponents of the dance have entertained Washington throughout the winter, having begun with a six-week engagement at the Shoreham, transferred their activities to the Club Montmartre and more recently appeared at the Club Chantecler. After their final performance Saturday night, they will leave at once for an extended engagement in St. Louis.

Alice Louise is a Washington girl and a graduate of one of the Capital's exclusive private schools, having later taken her degree at Bryn Mawr.

Add temporary fugit notes:

Just because the New York Times, in a moment of inadvertence, picked up my name in connection with a theatrical review, along comes a letter from an old friend who dropped off the face of the earth almost twenty years ago.

Although unmarried the last I knew, now has a son 11 and a daughter 7.

Didja ever! And have voices out of the past got thrills?

You're asking me!

THREE SIOUX APPEAR IN 'WAKEFIELD' CAST

Real Indians, Who Take Parts, Here for Land Suits Against U. S.

The Sioux suit against the United States Government is the chance incident which places three full-blooded Indians in the cast of "Wakefield," the masque by Percy MacKaye, which has its final performance at Constitution Hall this evening.

Kill Eagle, Young Eagle and High Eagle from Standing Rock Reservation, in the Black Hills of South Dakota, are all descended from the famous chiefs of the Sioux tribe who took part in the Indians' fight against Custer.

They are in Washington, sent by the Sioux nation in its suit against the United States Government to recover several million dollars due them for property seized in the Black Hills County. Suit has been pending in the Court of Claims for a number of years. The Government has been more than six years in completing the official suit for the claim.

A curious and interesting angle to the appearance of these Indians in the cast of "Wakefield" is the fact that Capt. C. C. Calhoun, who appears in the cast of "Wakefield," taking the part of Washington in several of the tableaux, is the great-grandson of Capt. George Calhoun, who served in the Revolutionary Army from Pennsylvania, and who was born in that part of Virginia which is now Kentucky. Capt. George Calhoun was captured by the Indians in battle, as an infant, protected and cared for, and returned to the whites.

The leading role is played tonight, as it has been in the other performances, by Margaret Anglin, supported by a cast of several hundred singers and actors from amateur groups in the city.

Harry Thaw Hurt In Auto Accident

Suffers Fractured Arm as Car Hits Culvert Near Frederick.

Frederick, Md., Feb. 25 (A.P.).—Harry K. Thaw suffered a fractured right arm and shock when his automobile hit a culvert and overturned on the Baltimore-Frederick highway, five miles east of here, late today.

Thaw's condition was considered not serious by Dr. E. P. Thomas at the Frederick City Hospital, where he was taken by passing motorists. The physician said Thaw would remain at the hospital for two days.

Thaw, accompanied by E. M. Pendleton, of Stpehens City, Va., was driving his automobile from Baltimore toward his home in Winchester, Va., at the time of the accident. Both men said a tire blew out, hurling the car into the culvert. Pendleton was not hurt.

Plans for White Way Studied at Leesburg

Special to The Washington Post.

Leesburg, Va., Feb. 25.—Plans for making King street, Leesburg, between Loudoun and Cornwall a white way are being formulated. The joint committee composed of Councilmen R. M. Jackson, chairman; George E. Ward and R. L. Rollins, representing council, and E. E. Garrett, E. L. McFarland and Bruce McIntosh, representing the Leesburg Rotary Club met with representatives of the service company to discuss the matter.

Tentative plans call for the installation of 12 ornamental lights along King street, and the removal of all poles and wires now used as supports for wires. A complete system of underground wiring is contemplated. The report, when submitted to council, will, it is understood, include estimates as to cost, with detailed information as to plans, sponsored by the Rotary Club.

First National Bank At Luray Is Reopened

Luray, Va., Feb. 25 (A.P.).—The First National Bank, which closed here October 6 "due to depreciation of securities," reopened for business today under the old charter.

The bank will be in charge of a board of directors composed of six members, four of whom were on the board at the closing of the bank. They are Dr. E. G. Brumback, Buford Mauck, W. L. Rhodes, S. Lyn Walton, Dr. Loring Hammer and E. N. Hershberger. Mr. Hershberger, who is county treasurer, is serving as president; W. L. Rhodes, as vice president, and Warren Frank, as cashier.

Horror of Hospitals May Cost Man's Leg

Special to The Washington Post.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Feb. 25.—Because he had a horror of hospitals and refused to be taken to one, Charles Burns, Rowlesburg farmer, will probably lose his left leg.

The leg was broken and crushed when a log rolled upon him while he was at work on his hillside farm three days ago. A physician ordered him to a hospital but he flatly refused to be taken there. Today he was a patient in one at Fairmont, where it was stated that the delay would probably cost him the member.

Man's Body Is Taken From Roanoke River

Roanoke, Va., Feb. 25 (A.P.).—Life saving crew members of Roanoke today found the body of Mark H. Cannaday, 56, in Roanoke River, after an eight-day search.

Mr. Cannaday had been despondent because of ill health, and members of the family were sure he had ended his life in the river, even though diligent search repeatedly had failed to locate the body.

Virginia Shows Fall In Births and Deaths

Richmond, Va., Feb. 25 (A.P.).—A decrease in both births and deaths in Virginia during 1931 as compared to the previous year was reported today by Dr. W. A. Plecker, State registrar of vital statistics.

The total number of births in 1930 was 53,738, as compared to 51,709 last year. Births in 1930 totaled 30,178, as compared to 29,863 in 1931.

poration since its organization to $24,440,701.

Loans Already Made.

While it is against the policy of the Reconstruction Corporation to make public information regarding its loans, two of the largest that have been disclosed this far were to the Wabash and Missouri Pacific Railroads.

On the same day that the additional funds were drawn by the corporation, the Treasury subscribed to an additional $14,132,370 of Federal Land Bank stock, bringing to $46,825,950 its total subscriptions under the new legislation permitting them.

Reports of a "definite change of sentiment in favor of retaining employes and extending new jobs," were delivered at the White House yesterday by Walter S. Gifford, chairman of the President's emergency unemployment committee.

Mr. Gifford said these changes in "sentiment," however, had not yet had time to be translated into an increase in employment that would show in the committee's figures.

Better Results Expected.

"It is true," he esaid, "that we have experienced these favorable shifts of sentiment before without a widespread translation into results, but we are hopeful that the present change will be more productive."

Mr. Gifford heartily indorsed the drive being conducted by the American Legion in conjunction with the American Federation of Labor, seeking to provide 1,000,000 jobs before March 15. He said, however, the jobs resulting thus far from the drive were spread over such wide territory that the campaign's effect had not yet made itself felt at the unemployment committee's headquarters.

Chicago, Feb. 25 (A.P.).—The drive against hoarding has brought $60,000,000 back to circulation, President Hoover informed Frank Knox, head of the Citizens Reconstruction Organization, today.

A telegram from the President said that $295,000,000 was hoarded when the organization was formed, and that up to February 23 $60,000,000 had been lured into trade.

Last Friday, Mr. Knox said, the President had told him $51,000,000 had been returned to circulation, and the $9,000,000 additional had come out in three business days.

Man Seeks Loan Until He Can Dig Up Cash Jar

Carroll, Iowa, Feb. 25 (A.P.).—One Carroll County man is positive he can repay a loan in six weeks.

He visited a bank, asking money for immediate needs.

"I can pay it back in six weeks sure," he said.

Asked why, he declared:

"Well, the frost will be out of the ground by that time, and I can dig up my money jar."

Oil Field Control Given Texas Railroad Board

Austin, Tex., Feb. 25 (A.P.).—The Texas Railroad Commission assumed regulation of the east Texas oil field today, replacing military rule invoked by Gov. R. S. Sterling October 13 last. It was decided to continue the existing allowable production of 75 barrels per well daily until March 15, after which an allowable of 325,000 barrels daily for the entire field would become effective.

Calculating 4,200 wells producing in the field at this time, it was estimated the per well daily allowable after March 15 would be about 77 barrels.

Snow Avalanche Buries Five Men Near Seattle

Mount Vernon, Wash., Feb. 25 (A.P.).—Roaring down the narrow sides of the canyon where the City of Seattle's railway to its Skagit River power plant is located, an avalanche of snow buried five men today.

One man, Samuel Opray, 53, was dug from under 16 feet of snow four hours after the accident. He had a fractured skull and was taken to a hospital. Little hope was held for finding the others alive. The laborers were members of a party of 23 clearing an earlier slide off the tracks.

New Australian Tariff Announced.

Canberra, Australia, Feb. 25 (A.P.).—A new Australian tariff schedule announced today provides for reduction in duties on 69 articles, an increase on eleven and the repeal of 19 special duties. Most of the iron and steel duties will revert to the rate in force before the previous Scullin tariff revision.

ADVERTISING GROUP HEARS J. W. HARDEY

Woodward & Lothrop Official Urges Definite Goal in 1932 Campaigns.

James W. Hardey, advertising manager of Woodward & Lothrop, was the guest speaker of the Advertising Club of Washington yesterday at the luncheon meeting of the club at the Raleigh Hotel when he addressed a capacity audience on the subject, "What the Advertising Manager Expects of Advertising in 1932."

This was the third in a series on the same subject, the previous addresses having been made by C. B. Dulcan, of the Hecht Co., from the standpoint of the merchandise manager, and by Ralph Goldsmith, of Lansburgh's, from the standpoint of the store owner. Mr. Hardey said in part:

"What should an advertising manager expect of 1932? First of all, he should do all in his power to see that the business with which he is connected has a policy and a purpose—if it doesn't already have one—and many businesses do not. Businesses without a policy flounder around like a ship without a rudder, and as a result, get nowhere.

"An advertising manager should expect and exact of himself a complete and careful understanding of his own particular business. He should know something of the details of buying and selling, the expenses, the market profits, the cost of doing business. Most important of all, though, he should know what the public is interested in—what it likes best—and at what price or prices. He should not only have a sense of selling, but of selling at a profit.

"We should expect advertising to be better done than ever before.

"We must have a goal—something we are trying to accomplish with our advertising. We've got to understand that there is a difference in technique required for the ad which is to produce next day results and the one that is to build or add new strength to a stable institution—that will sell solidly.

"We expect advertising to be an investment—not a speculation.

"We must decide whether we are going in for speculation, or whether we are investing in advertising for certain but eventual profit. It seems to us that we should be somewhat fearful of speculation of all sorts—but there are still many who want to speculate in advertising. A sane advertising man expects advertising to be placed on the basis of a sound investment if it is to show satisfactory results."

Suicide Is Verdict As Gas Kills Woman

Miss Margaret Browning, Fearing Loss of Mind, Takes Own Life.

A certificate of suicide was issued yesterday in the case of Miss Margaret Browning, who was found unconscious in the gas-filled kitchen of an apartment at 2120 Kalorama road northwest by Clifford H. Bangs, who lives in another apartment in the building.

Miss Browning, who was 63 years old, left a note saying, "I am losing my mind. Forgive me." It was unaddressed. She had been occupying the apartment while her sister, Mrs. James E. Baines, is in Florida.

Gas jets on the stove in the kitchen had ben turned on and fragments of a sheet had been stuffed into cracks under the door. The Fire Rescue Squad and an Emergency Hospital ambulance were called, but efforts to revive her were futile and she was pronounced dead by Dr. H. B. Weinberg, of Emergency.

Third Degree Trial Board Is Selected

3 Named to Hear Charges Against Detective and 2 Police Privates.

The District Commissioners yesterday appointed a combination police-civilian Trial Board to hear charges against a detective sergeant and two police privates as the final move in connection with the third-degree inquiry conducted by the Department of Justice.

The board is composed of Police Inspector Ogden T. Davis, chairman; Herbert L. Davis, District superintendent of insurance, and A. R. Pilkerton, deputy auditor of the District.

The defendants are Detective Sergt. Carlton Talley and Privates William McEwen and J. E. Bennett. The trials are expected to get under way early next month.

Councilman Fined For Tipsy Driving

Capitol Heights Official Is Found Guilty, Despite Witnesses' Testimony.

Although five witnesses testified he was not intoxicated at the time of his arrest, Lawrence Rollins, town councilman of Capitol Heights, Md., yesterday was convicted of driving while drunk when tried in Capitol Heights police court.

He was fined $100 for driving while drunk, the minimum fine, and $1 for reckless driving. The verdict was appealed by his lawyer, Thomas J. Luckett, of Capitol Heights. Rollins was arrested by Constable Earle Blackwell shortly after his auto had struck Margaret Plumley, who was skating on the Marlboro pike.

Mr. Luckett produced five witnesses who said Rollins was not intoxicated just before and after the accident, and stressed the fact that Blackwell allowed the man to drive away at the time of the crash, but later arrested him. Witnesses who said Rollins was drunk were Blackwell and William Plumley, father of the injured girl. Two other State witnesses said they were not close enough to Rollins to smell his breath.

Embezzling Case Suspect Missing

Hearing Put Off Pending Search for Lumber Firm Employe.

Frank H. Praud, charged with the embezzlement of $12,000 from a Capitol Heights, Md., lumber firm failed to appear for a preliminary hearing yesterday and the case was continued to give his bondsman a chance to locate him.

Praud, who lived in Washington, was free on bond of $5,000, furnished by Elmer Pumphrey, a professional bondsman. Pumphrey said last night he believed he knew where the missing man was and would be able to find him. It is understood that he has moved from the Washington address where he lived with his wife.

Praud, bookkeeper for the Stembler & Ford Lumber Co. for four years, was arrested last week on a warrant sworn out by one of the members of the firm. The preliminary hearing was to have been held before Magistrate Oscar Poore in Capitol Heights. It was continued subject to call, which means the hearing will be held as soon as the missing man is found and brought to the town.

Four Youths Are Held On Charge of Robbery

Four youths charged with the robbery of two stores in Capitol Heights, Md., were held for action of the grand jury yesterday at a preliminary hearing before Magistrate Oscar Poore, of Capitol Heights. They are said to have broken into the stores of Sam Lagana and John Piletti, taking cigarettes, candy and a small quantity of meat.

Those held are James Murphy, Waverly Roberts, William Ball and Arthur McCormick. Their bond was set at $500. Murphy was represented by Attorney Thomas J. Luckett.

Alleged Rum-Boat Owner Captured

Abe Moss, Sought Since 1929, Will Face Trial in Chicago.

Chicago, Feb. 25 (A.P.).—Abe Moss, alleged owner of a rum-smuggling lake boat which missed this city on a foggy night in 1929 and was captured when its crew stopped to ask the way, will be brought here from Providence, R. I., the scene of his arrest today, to face trial for liquor law violations.

Federal special agents have sought Moss, a Chicago man, in many sections of the country. They "ran him out of Boston, New York and Philadelphia and almost caught him in Florida," Government officials said.

Moss and seven others were indicted about a month after the capture of the Sea Hawk, on July 17, 1929. One of the crew served a six months' jail sentence. The others have been out on bond, awaiting trial after the capture of Moss.

200 Resume Work in Ohio.

Massillon, Ohio, Feb. 25 (A.P.).—Two hundred employes of the Wheeling & Lake Erie shops here have been called back to work. The shops have been idle since December.

Bomb Squad Captures Crazed New Yorker

New York, Feb. 25 (A.P.).—A police emergency squad gas-bombed a Brooklyn filling station today, capturing an insane man who had barricaded himself there and finding the answer to a scientific question which had been the subject of long police argument.

"It's not true that gas doesn't affect insane people," Lieut. Michael J. Murphy announced after the captured prisoner had been sent to the hospital. "We threw two bombs into the station and the gas closed up the eyes of both the man and his dog. We just walked right in and took them." The prisoner's identity was not disclosed.

1,500 Strikers Accept Cut.

Greensboro, N. C., Feb. 25 (A.P.). Fifteen hundred employes of the Blue Bell Overall Co.'s plants here returned to work today after a three-day strike. The workers walked out Monday in protest against a wage reduction and a change from a piece work to an hourly basis of pay. The strike was settled by the company's agreement to retain the piece work system, while the employes accepted a 12½ per cent reduction in pay.

GRIFFITH EXPECTS BURKE TO SIGN CONTRACT TODAY.

Hurler Ready To Accept Terms

Pitcher Writes Nats' Owner; Is Wired 'Last' Offer.

Engel to Seek Extra Infielder on Tour of Minors.

By SHIRLEY L. POVICH
(Sports Editor of The Post).
Special to The Washington Post.

BILOXI, Miss., Feb. 25.—Tidings from Bobby Burke, the Nats' only holdout, were received by Owner Clark Griffith today in the form of a letter from the recalcitrant pitcher, who is hibernating at his home in Joliet, Ill., pending the salary negotiations, and this evening Mr. Griffith drew himself up to his full height, inhaited largely of the Gulf Coast ozone and announced that he had just made his last and positively final offer to Burke.

It was gleaned from Mr. Griffith's speech that he was somewhat impressed with the contents of Burke's epistle, and when he concluded by saying that he was confident that Burke would come to terms within the next 24 hours it appeared that he had made a compromise offer which the pitcher could not afford to reject.

Mr. Griffith let it be known, furthermore, that the offer which he telegraphed to Burke late this afternoon was not only his last and positively final offer to the pitcher, but otherwise took precedence over and nullified the last and positively final offer which he made to Burke on Tuesday. In the event that Burke rejects today's last and positively final proposition, he will treat no more with the pitcher, Griffith said, which, on past performances, means that there will be some more last and positively final offers.

Terms of Offer Not Divulged.

The terms of the Burke offer were not divulged by Mr. Griffith in accordance with his policy of never discussing salary contracts of his athletes. So strict has been this policy in the past that Mr. Griffith last season failed to discuss even with himself the terms of Alvin Crowder's contract until he was pained to learn that Crowder was entitled to a $1,000 bonus for winning eighteen ball games. Thus his policy has its disadvantages.

Burke has taken advantage of several points of argumentation in his negotiations with the Nats' owner, chief of which is his no-hit game against the Red Sox in 1931, the second no-hit game pitched by a Washington pitcher in the team's American League history. Burke also is negotiating from the vantage point of his veteran status, insamuch as he, with Crowder, Marberry and Brown, are the only four pitchers on the squad recognized as regular ex officio.

It was learned also from Mr. Griffith that the Nats are in the market for another infielder, with Johnny Kerr as the only reserve performer available for duty at second base, third base and shortstop. The club boasts only Jackie Hayes as reserve infield strength last season and one utility man is deemed not sufficient.

Engel to Seek Infielder.

The Nats have no specific infielder in mind at this time and the policy will be to scan the list of releases by other clubs in the hope of adding a utility man whose presence won't be necessary until the start of the season. In the meanwhile, Joe Engel, the lone scout, will be contracting the rival training camps and otherwise foraging for a surplus infielder.

Griffith is still awaiting word from President Navin, of the Tigers, who is deliberating the purchase of Joe Judge whom the Nats will trade for Hayworth, Detroit catcher. Bucky Harris has already recommended the deal to Navin and Griffith's approval has been obtained. Even though Judge may join the Nats here with the second squad on March 7, there is a likelihood that he will be transferred to the Tigers before the season starts. Griffith is satisfied that Joe Kuhel can care for the first base duties for the Nats, both in the field and at bat.

Walter Johnson was the lone man in uniform to cut loose with his pitches today as the rookies tethered at the leashes held by the coaches. Ragland and Weaver, both young giants, who are counted upon to be of considerable service next season, were cautioned once again to go along easy as was Griffith who completes the trio of most promising rookie flingers.

The work of Young Carl Fischer has been considerably impeded during the first week at camp here by a blistered heel which he contracted playing golf in oversized shoes and in Trainer Martin he has a sympathetic mentor. Martin's mild attack of gout is progressing very nicely, he advises.

Weighing of A. A. U. Boys Ends Tonight

Tourney Players Get Final Chance; Board May Handle Officials.

The final batch of District A. A. U. basket ball players will be weighed in tonight, between 8 and 9 o'clock, at the Boys Club. Almost half of the boys who will play on the 100, 115, 130 and 145 pound teams in the tournament leaped on and off the scales last night.

Tonight is the final chance to weigh in. Strict observance of the code ruling out overweights is being enforced. Several were turned down last night.

District A. A. U. officials, in a meeting last night, decided to leave the matter of tournament referees up to the D. C. Approved Board of Officials. The eligibility of several college players was questioned by the registration committee, and the entry of a prominent team was held up through failure to pay entry fees.

Nats' Volley Ball League Under Way at Biloxi Camp

BLAZING THE BASEBALL TRAIL

Richardson Springs, Calif., Feb. 25 (A.P.).—Manager Bucky Harris, of the Detroit Tigers, believes the shortstop problem—which has threatened to give him many premature gray hairs—is solved. And if it is, Bill Rogell is the boy who has solved it.

So certain is Harris that Rogell will make good this time that he has named him, Jonathan Stone and Charlie Gehringer as the three players certain of jobs this season.

Paso Robles, Calif., Feb. 25 (A.P.).—If the Pittsburgh Pirates fail to make a name for themselves as artistic bunters, it will not be because they neglected this detail of the game.

Manager George Gibson called his chattering, peppy squad together today and put them through the first of a series of drills on bunting. He announced they'll practice this play throughout the season.

Tampa, Fla., Feb. 25 (A.P.).—The first incision Manager Dan Howley, of the Cincinnati Reds, ordered on Catcher Bob Asbjornson's waistline was made today as Coach Mike Doolan had the 210-pounder shagging grounders to cut off some of the 20 pounds excess baggage. A light rain cut the practice to one session, and Howley ordered Mickey Heath, young first baseman, to remain inside, to avoid exposing himself to inclement weather. Heath suffered from rheumatic fever after a broken arm last season.

St. Petersburg, Fla., Feb. 25 (A.P.). Outfielder Sammy Byrd and Shortstop Lyn Lary reported at the New York Yankee camp and took part in the day's practices.

Babe Ruth was a spectator. Henry Johnson, pitcher, convalescing from an appendicitis operation, is making rapid progress, Manager Joe McCarthy was informed from Bradenton.

Al Mamaux, manager of the Newark Bears, farm club of the Yankees, took part in the practice.

Mineral Wells, Tex., Feb. 25 (A.P.). President Louis Comiskey and 29 members of the Chicago White Sox Baseball Club arrived here today for a week of conditioning before proceeding to San Antonio for spring training.

The greater part of the week will be devoted to drinking medicinal waters and taking the sweat baths at this north Texas spa. Workouts will be light.

Bradenton, Fla., Feb. 25 (A.P.).—Despite rain that fell intermittently, the St. Louis Cardinals went through their usual two workouts today, with Pitchers Johnson and Lindsey and Catchers Mancuso and Wilson the only absent batterymen. Johnson is due to report Monday.

Catcher Leo Dixon is being groomed to do the receiving in the early exhibition games and if Mancuso continues to hold out Dixon may land the second-string catching job.

Clearwater, Fla., Feb. 25 (U.P.).—Pitcher Cy Moore and Catcher Ernie Lombardi have agreed to sign their 1932 Brooklyn Dodger player contracts, it was announced today.

The Dodgers' unsigned now include Babe Herman and Johnny Frederick, outfielders, and Third Baseman Wally Gilbert and Pitcher Joe Shaute.

Los Angeles, Feb. 25 (A.P.).—The New York Giants played 12 innings of baseball today, 6 in the morning and 6 in the afternoon, but Frank (Shanty) Hogan, burly catcher, stole the show.

Hogan—all 230 pounds of him—crashed into the grandstand while chasing a foul ball. The stands escaped damage, but Hogan was rendered hors de combat with an injured knee.

Kramer Declines to Permit St. John's-Eastern Game

STEPHEN E. KRAMER, assistant superintendent of public schools, yesterday declined to permit Eastern, public high champions of Washington, to play St. John's, prep school titleholders. The game would have been played tomorrow afternoon at Tech High Gymnasium.

Kramer, in an interview with Dr. Cloyd Heck Marvin, president of George Washington University, cosponsorors with The Post of the prep school tournament, stated that it was against the letter of the high school athletic rules to countenance games which would name a city-wide champion. The action of the high school athletic board ceases when the public high school series is ended.

Two old rivals, Western and Gonzaga, clash tonight at Gonzaga Gym in today's feature scholastic basket ball game. The game will start at 8 o'clock.

St. John's, prep school champions, play their fifth game of the week, in as many days, tonight at the same time, against the Boys Club at the Boys C'lub. Friends and St. Alban's also have games listed. Friends meet Bethesda-Chevy Chase at Friends, and the Saints move down to Gloucester, Va., to play Camp Chesapeake.

G. W. BEATEN IN PHILLY CONTEST

St. Joseph's Rallies to Beat Colonials by 32-31 Score.

Special to The Washington Post.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Feb. 25.—Led by Phil Zuber, the St. Joseph's College court combination staged a second half rally to hand the Gerge Washington quintet a 32 to 31 setback at the Palais Royal, here tonight.

The visiting passers gained an 18-14 advantage in the first 20 minutes of play, but the proteges of Bill Ferguson came back strong in the second half to outscore George Washington, 18 to 13, for their conquest.

Zuber carried off high scoring honors of the tilt with 18 points, caging eight field goals and a pair of free throws. Parach scored five field goals and five fouls to top the losing team.

Noel House and K of C. Boxer Fight to Draw

Losing one bout by default, the Noel House boxing team held the highly touted K. of C. Boys Club squad to a 2-2 draw before a crowd of 500 fans in its own gym last night. Tony Catella and his brother Mike defeated Galvin and Sugrue, of the K. of C., to send the Noel House into the lead. Joe Van Pelt put the Caseys back in the running with a victory over Dinkaman, and the score was evened when Davis defaulted to Lord. Lowry and Carrier battled to a draw.

Pat O'Connell and Ben Kail acted as judges, and John Wilkinson refereed the bouts, which were well received.

Prentice Is Appointed To Davis Cup Group

New York, Feb. 25 (U.P.).—The appointment of Bernon S. Prentice as chairman of the Davis Cup committee was announced today by President Louis J. Carruthers, of the United States Lawn Tennis Association.

Prentice succeeds Holcombe Ward, who, following his election as president of the Eastern Lawn Tennis Association, asked to be relieved of his Davis Cup duties.

BOYS CLUB VS. PALACE.

The Boys' Club Big Five will play the Palace quintet at 2 p. m. in the Silver Spring Armory Sunday, as a preliminary to the Vic's Sport Shop-French A. C. The Boys' Club replaces the Jewish Community Center Team, which will meet the Fairygold five at 8 p. m. at the Center.

Barry to Appear On Nursery's Card

Capital Heavyweight Is to Face Godwin or Brown in Bout March 8.

"Reds" Barry, Washington's leading heavyweight, will appear in the feature bout on the Alexandria Day Nursery Card at Portner's Arena March 8, it was announced last night.

Articles for Barry's "shot" in the Alexandria arena after a layoff of six weeks were drawn up last night. He will engage either Bob Godwin, ranking light-heavyweight, who recently fought an eight-round draw with Maxie Rosenbloom, world's champion, at Daytona Beach, Fla., or Natie Brown, popular New York boxer. Brown has never been defeated in the Virginia ring. He fought Barry to a draw six weeks ago.

Matchmaker Mann is endeavoring to make this one of the leading bouts of the winter for the lovers of the fistic sport in Washington and environs. He promises an attractive card to support the feature.

RAIN FORCES CAMPBELL TO REST

Speed King Hopes to Advance His Own Mark Today.

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Feb. 25 (A.P.).—Rain fell today and forced Sir Malcolm Campbell, of England, to postpone attempts to break his own newly established world's automobile speed record over distances of 1 kilometer, 1 mile, and 5 kilometers.

If weather and beach conditions are suitable tomorrow, he will consider further trials. If not, he plans to ship his huge Bluebird racing car back to England and make no further attempts this year.

He disclosed that his plans are to send the car from Daytona Beach Saturday and proceed to Washington and New York either Tuesday or Wednesday, and sail for England on the Berengaria March 4.

Despite these arrangements, he is exceedingly anxious that fair skies and a smooth beach will permit a final attempt to boost the record tomorrow.

He is not satisfied with the records he made yesterday and is confident his car is capable of greater speed. He drove his 12-cylinder car to the new records of 253.968 miles per hour over the measured mile yesterday, 251.340 over a one-kilometer course and 241.569 over five kilometers. His old records for those distances were 245.733 for the mile, 246.086 for the kilometer and 216.045 for five kilometers.

Rain that fell intermittently today ceased temporarily late this afternoon and Campbell made preparations for taking his car to the beach for new trials.

Mayor E. H. Armstrong declared emphatically, however, that Campbell would not be permitted to race due to the inclement weather and poor visibility.

Shortly afterward rain began falling again and Campbell returned to his hotel.

Low tide tomorrow will be about 5 p. m., but if conditions are satisfactory Campbell probably will be able to take his car to the beach at least two hours before that time.

Wash.-Lee No Match For Eastern Tossers

Holding its opponent scoreless in the first half, while it was piling up 26 points, the champion Eastern High School quintet swept to an easy 46 to 7 victory over Washington and Lee High School at Ballston yesterday. The winners used a team composed of regulars and substitutes throughout the fray.

2,000 Seats Added For Skinker Game

Eagles Meet Howitzers on Sunday; Vic's to Play French's Quintet.

Approximately 2,000 bleacher seats have been installed in the Bolling Field gym for the accommodation of the fans who will witness the game between the Skinker Eagles and Howitzer Giants which will be played there Sunday at 8:30 p. m. The game is included in the semipro championship series schedule.

Leading the race for the title with a record of two victories in as many games, the Eagles are in a favorable position to retain their crown. Playing without the services of "Duke" Allen, star center, last Sunday, the team walloped Vic's Sport Shop, 42 to 23, in the biggest upset of the year.

Vic's intends to get back in the race by drubbing the French A. C. when they clash Sunday at 3 p. m. French's dropped a 26-to-25 decision to the Eagles two weeks ago and figure to take the measure of the Sport Shop crew.

Szabo Loses Feature to Roebuck

Hungarian Misses on Butt and Indian Sits on Him.

Capacity Crowd Sees Match; Kley Wins in 11 Minutes.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

BIG TINY ROEBUCK, whom Matchmaker Joe Turner has been endeavoring to establish favorably in the hearts of Washington's mat fiends and who has responded by giving several of the sourest exhibitions ever staged in Washington, redeemed himself completely, totally, universally and possibly perpetually last night when he won a bruising 43-minute victory over Sandor Szabo, one of the choicer behemoths, at the Strand Theater.

The S. R. O. sign was dusted off early in the evening and hung out, so the small place began to bulge with the presence of 2,000 fans. Several hundred were fitted into the aisles and several hundred turned away without their weekly injection of vicarious torso twisting, while Business Manager George King rubbed his hands sadly and was heard to address several toothsome bits of invective at the cruel fate which relegated the show to the Strand, rather than the Auditorium.

Well, Roebuck won pretty impressively. He weighed 248 and seemed in good shape, while Szabo no more measured up to his announced 204 than the captain of the Lindbergh Peewees. Szabo threw the huge Indian for a row of tepees now and then, but on the whole Roebuck was the aggressor throughout.

End of Match Sensational.

The end was smoothly spectacular. Szabo, about a minute from the end, shook off the effects of a strangle Roebuck had applied, and dove with all his might into Tiny's underslung chin. It brought the big warrior's teeth clicking together like the hungry jaws of a steam-shovel tongs. Roebuck went flat on his back. As he struggled up, Szabo charged again, and this time his hard, flat head imbedded itself deep in Roebuck's massive tummy.

Roebuck went down again. Szabo poised for the next thrust. Tiny got up on one knee as Szabo took off. Tiny dropped back quickly and Szabo streaked overhead, landing on his chin. While Szabo was trying to figure it out, or looked like he was trying to figure it out, Roebuck squirmed around and sat across his shoulders, while the good Dr. Cyclone T. Burns administered the last rites.

Grobmeier's Legs Work.

Fred Grobmeier was slightly boring for 20 minutes before he woke the good burghers up by coiling a barrel of legs around the sensitive middle of a Frenchman introduced as Paul Favre. It was Grobmeier's pet hold, known as a figure four scissors.

Fritz Kley scored sensationally over Wankah Zelesniak in 11 minutes. Kley won on a hold which a hasty glance through the "Book of Holts" failed to uncover. Zelesniak had snapped a whatchacallit on Kley, but the German acrobat walked out of it and countered with a whoosisholt.

Doc Wilson, reeling about the place as though he had acidentally walked under the venom end of a pile driver, recovered all of a sudden to destroy Leon Smith, with three crotch and body slams.

The show opened with an amateur bout, in which Ted Chaconas wrestled Bascom Foster to a 15-minute draw.

Palfrey and Nuthall Gain Bermuda Finals

Hamilton, Bermuda, Feb. 25 (A.P.). Sarah Palfrey, of Boston, the defending champion, and Betty Nuthall, of England, gained the final round of women's singles in the Bermuda tennis championships today

The men's singles final will bring together two British stars, Frederick J. Perry and H. G. N. Lee.

Miss Palfrey won her way into the finals by eliminating Mrs. Eileen Bennett Whittingstall, of England, 6—2, 7—5. Miss Nuthall defeated Virginia Hilleary, of Philadelphia, 6—3, 6—1.

Oldfield Will Attempt To Gain Auto Record

Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 25 (U.P.).—Barney Oldfield, famous race-track automobile driver, announced tonight he will attempt to shatter the world's automobile speed record at Daytona Beach some time next year.

He has set his goal at 300 miles an hour, as compared with the mark of 253.968 miles per hour established Wednesday by Sir Malcolm Campbell, of England, on the Florida beach course.

Plans already are in preparation for an automobile capable of 300 miles an hour for Oldfield, the driver told the United Press.

Schaaf Faces Acid Test in Stribling

Fourth, Fifth Ranking Heavyweights Clash Tonight.

Both Determined to Win in Important Bout by K. O.

By CHARLES W. DUNKLEY.

CHICAGO, Feb. 25 (A.P.).—The most important heavyweight fight of the new year will be decided in the Chicago Stadium tomorrow night when Ernie Schaaf, Boston's young knockout king, engages W. L. (Young) Stribling, the Georgian, in a ten-round bout.

It is a battle that neither can afford to lose. The future of each hinges on the result. The victor will establish himself as a candidate to challenge for the world's heavyweight championship, while the loser will have his drawing power diminished and a new start facing him. Indications were tonight that more than 10,000 spectators would pay $35,000 to see the two ranking heavyweights fight it out.

Schaaf's Stock Has Risen.

For months Schaaf has been knocking out standard catchers of the heavyweight division, turning in a record of 20 victories in his last 21 bouts. In Stribling, he is encountering the most experienced ring man among the better heavyweights and a fighter who is ranked fifth in the National Boxing Association ratings, with only Max Schmeling, Jack Sharkey, Mickey Walker and Schaaf ahead of him.

Stribling is fighting to regain the heights again. He got up there once, but his quest was blasted after fourteen gruelling rounds in a world's championship battle with Schmeling at Cleveland last July. He was stopped in the fifteenth round. Since then he has knocked out three of his four opponents, but tomorrow night's battle will be his first against a real foe since his encounter with Schmeling.

Both Stribling and Schaaf are determined to win by a knockout. The firm of Jack Sharkey and Johnny Buckley, who manage Schaaf, are confident of a knockout victory. Sharkey, who is matched for a world's championship battle with Schmeling in June, will be in Schaaf's corner telling him how to do it.

Striblings Want Knockout.

"Pa" Stribling, the father-manager of the Georgian, declares the Striblings and the solid South will be satisfied with nothing less than a knockout; that they need such a victory to rush young William back into the heavyweight situation again. Schaaf is the biggest of the leading American heavyweights, scaling 208, which will give him almost 20 pounds' advantage over Stribling, who will come in at 189 pounds. Stribling disregards Schaaf's margin on the scales, however, as he considers himself superior in speed, boxing ability and ring cunning. Stribling also says he has always been more effective against big men.

Huddled around the ringside will be Sharkey, Col. Jack Dempsey, the famous old Kentuckian, once known as the Manassa mauler; Tuffy Griffith and Jack Kearns, Dempsey's former manager, who will view the proceedings in the interest of Mickey Walker. In the semiwindup My Sullivan, St. Paul Irishman, meets Ben Jeby, of New York, in a ten-round middleweight engagement.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

The following officers of the Congress Heights A. C. were elected at a meeting held last night: George Stevens, president; Val Wahler, first vice president; Frazier White, second vice president; Louis Gelbman, secretary, and Harry Weisbrod, treasurer. Ralph Gilbert was named to manage the baseball team for the coming season, and Ed Beagle, jr., was elected business manager.

CASEYS MEET PREPS.

The Northern Preps unlimited team will have a chance to even its score with the Knights of Columbus when the two quintets play Sunday at 7:30 p. m. at Bolling Field. The Caseys nosed out the Preps in their first meeting, winning by a score of 20-17. The game will be a preliminary to the Skinker Eagle-Howitzer Giants tilt.

BOYS CLUB BOXERS BUSY.

The Boys Club boxers will provide the fistic pyrotechnics at the Potomac Boat Club's athletic night, tomorrow night at the club. The program consists of five boxing bouts and two grappling exhibitions. The Boys Club mittmen will face some of their sternest competition of the year.

CENTS WOULD PLAY.

The Centennials are seeking games with strong teams in the 145-pound and unlimited classes. Call the manager at Georgia 1774-J.

Pro Boxing Bill for District Is Introduced in Congress

PROFESSIONAL boxing and even "world championship bouts" would be legalized in Washington under a bill introduced in the House yesterday by Representative Loring M. Black, jr. (Democrat), New York.

An athletic commission, to regulate "boxing, sparring, or wrestling matches," would be set up under the bill, which is one of a number introduced in recent years to liberalize laws governing boxing in the District.

The commission would be authorized to collect 5 per cent of the gate receipts for any exhibition. Fifty per cent of this it would use for its own expenses. The other 50 per cent would be turned over to the Community Chest.

A further provision stipulates that funds in excess of $10,000, after expenses and Community Chest donations, would be turned over in bulk to the Chest.

The commission would become supreme boxing arbiter here, with authority to "make, adopt and publish such rules and regulations as are necessary," and the right to "modify, amend, extend or repeal such rules." Bouts would be sanctioned, under

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

Biloxi, Miss., Feb. 25.

THE slow tempo of the training grind is irking one young fellow here with the Nats and this morning he started cutting loose with such pitches that the entire encampment gathered about his rising and falling right arm while ripples of approval floated down the lane to his battery mate.

A great prospect, was the consensus. The ease and poetry of his motion, the half side-arm, semi-submarine delivery bespoke tremendous power in his pitches. If he would learn the fine points of the art, who could tell? Six feet and 200 pounds of sinew. He had all the physical attributes.

"He looks good to me," Clark Griffith volunteered. Trainer Mike Martin opined that with a little grooming he might make the grade. Conservative Nick Altrock, within full earshot of the toiling figure on the rubber, said he had lots to learn.

Walter Johnson said nothing behind his wide grin. For it was indeed the Old Master who was regaling the gathering with a specimen of his speed of yesteryear. The sore arm bugaboo he had put behind him five years ago when he retired from the pitching mound. Today he was unafraid and the balls zoomed into Patsy Gharrity's big mitt like thunderbolts from the clear.

He held the stage for full fifteen minutes and they marveled at the zip on his fast one and the swinging, half-stride motion of the Nation's pitching idol for two decades was superbly reminiscent of his salad days when the gangling wonder boy from Weiser, Idaho, was terrorizing the league with the smoke of his fast one.

It was even half dozen years ago that tragedy descended on the Washington club's camp at Tampa in the spring of 1926 and removed from the playing ranks the greatest pitcher of all time in the sunset of his career, perhaps, but with many a brilliant game still secreted in his venerable right arm.

The blow came in the guise of comic relief, but it was none the less swift, sure and destructive. Johnson was pitching in batting practice when Joe Judge bounced a liner back at him full tilt, the ball striking Johnson a resounding crack on the shin before the big pitcher was able to step from its path.

Johnson wavered and went down. The veterans on the bench made great sport of the accident, as common in a training camp as Japanese in China. Al Schacht galloped out to them and carried his buffoonery with him, counting ten over the prostrate pitcher as referees count over a fallen gladiator, while the rest of the squad howled their glee. Johnson was rubbing his leg vigorously. Shake it off, they told him. Yeah, shake it off.

But Johnson was not rubbing without cause. For it was on a stage set for comedy that dire tragedy had stalked, ending the career of the greatest of them all. Ironically enough, the great Johnson, who had baffled the best in his day, was laid low by the innocent bat of a teammate, his leg broken by that line drive. He never recovered from that blow, although he essayed, later in the season, to pitch with a brace.

Johnson shows no trace of that broken leg now. He has put his pitching career behind him, but as manager of the Nats, he still likes to take his turn on the hill in practice. He sets the pace for the rookies and veterans in camp with his incessant conditioning. Ten laps around the vast Biloxi ball park is a daily requisite for Johnson. He can outrun them all with his pigeontoes stride that, to Washington fans who remember him ambling to the pitching mound, makes him an unforgettable figure.

2 Virginia Boxers Win in Tourney

Louisiana Advances Trio; Goldstein, Capital Boy, Fights Tonight.

Charlottesville, Va., Feb. 25.—The leather wielders of Louisiana State University took the lead in the Southern Conference boxing championships here tonight when three of the institution's color-bearers won bouts. Virginia, with Bobby Goldstein idle, won two bouts, as did North Carolina.

Today's and tonight's results:

BANTAMWEIGHTS—Lide (Clemson) won over Welling (N. C.), decision; Williams (N. C.) won over Jackson (Tulane), decision; Scott (S. C.) won over Terrill (Miss. A. and M.), decision.

HIALEAH FEATURE RACE WON BY WISE ANNE

Kilmer Entry, Mintwina, Dark Love, Are Next Home.

Man o'War Gelding Wins Third, Paying $56.80.

HIALEAH PARK, FLA., Feb. 25 (A.P.). — Heavy intermittent showers fell again here this afternoon and left the track fetlock deep in slop and mud, but the sun came out for the running of the featured Nursery Stakes No. 2, in which nine of Florida's fleetest fillies of the juvenile ranks had their first "coming out" party of the season. W. C. Weant's Wise Anne, a daughter of Wise Counsellor-Zillah, raced to her third straight and most important triumph, scoring easily by two lengths in the fast time of 34 4-5. She was favorite at $5.30 for $2 and earned $3,180 by her victory.

W. S. Kilmer's entry of Mintwina and Dark Love ran two-three, respectively, a neck separating the pair. Fretwork, C. V. Whitney's representative, was slightly bumped at the start and finished a close fourth. Screen Idol, stablemate to the winner, was withdrawn. Another notable absentee was Lucille K., which was not nominated for the stake.

Wise Anne Quickly Goes to Front.

Wise Anne broke with the leaders and H. Elston quickly shot her into the lead. The good looking miss opened up a two lengths lead half way home while Mintwina gave closest pursuit but in vain, being held safe all the way. Dark Love closed ground to beat Fretwork.

Roan Antelope returned to his winning stride in the mile event, third on the card, the Man o' War gelding scoring handily to pay $56.80. Stretcher took the place two lengths back and a nose before Gibby's choice. Chicsu, favorite, never was a serious factor in the going. Stretcher held a narrow lead until collared around the bend by Roan Antelope. The latter continued willingly while Stretcher held on well to save the place from the fast closing Gibby's choice.

Burgoo Disqualified at New Orleans.

New Orleans, Feb. 25 (A.P.).—Closing fast in the stretch, A. Pelleteri's Fiddler won the six-furlong substitute race, which was the best offering on the Fair Grounds card today.

With High Foot setting the pace and E. R. Bradley's Burgoo running in second place, Fiddler trailed the leaders until well in the stretch; at the judges' stand, however, he was a half length in front of Burgoo, which finished second, but was disqualified.

With the disqualification of the Bradley colt, second money went to C. V. Whitney's Smear and third to High Foot, which weakened badly in the stretch run.

Fiddler ran the distance in 1:13 and paid $4.40 for $2.

Mutuel Players Get Break at Havana.

Havana, Cuba, Feb. 25 (A.P.).—F. A. Carreaud's The Sapniard, a recent arrival from Miami, was an easy winner of the fourth race, a 6-furlong sprint, which topped the card at Oriental Park today.

Ridden by Buddy Ensor, the son of Tryster came from the rear and running like a whirlwind through the stretch had wide advantage over Mrs. C. A. Marrone's Captain's Daughter at the finish. Marshall Seth was third.

The Spaniard was well supported, paying 8 to 5. He ran the distance in 1:13 2-5.

Players, who prefer the mutuels to the orals, profited in the first and sixth races at Havana. Betty Terry, quoted at 8 to 1 in the orals, won the curtain raiser and paid $102.60 for $2 in the mutuels. West Point, held at 10 to 1 by the bookmakers, accounted for the sixth event, paying off $123.80 for each $2 invested in the mutuels.

AGUA CALIENTE RESULTS.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—DUNRODE, $31.80, $15.70, $9.40; CHOLLA, $4.20, $4.20; SWEEPMAR, $13.60.

DUNRODE trailed off the pace until rounding the far turn, where he moved up with a rush and easily disposed of CHOLLA, drew away into a long lead. CHOLLA, quick to begin, showed lot of early speed, but tired badly in stretch run. SWEEPMAR closed gamely and was gradually wearing CHOLLA down. LINE OF FIRE broke slowly, moved up on outside at turn, out of back stretch, but quit last quarter. He showed a dull performance in going that he liked.

SECOND RACE—Three furlongs. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 2-year-olds. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 2:50. Off at 2:56. Winner, Jack Howard's br. c. (2), by Axenstein—La Poudre. Trained by owner. Value to winner, $750; second, $150; third, $100. Time, 0:36 2-5.

*Field.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—HERNANDO, $19.60, $20.80, $11.80; POSTPONEMENT, $7.70, $4.70; FLAG VIEW, $22.60.

HERNANDO broke rapidly and outran his field all the way. He was increasing his advantage last furlong. POSTPONEMENT broke well and was a forward contender all the way. He was driving hard to get up in time to catch FLAG VIEW. Latter weakened under punishment. WANDEROO broke fast and showed speed first quarter, but tired badly at end. DOME reared up when barrier was sprung.

THIRD RACE—One mile. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won handily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:24. Off at 3:25½. Winner, J. M. Phillips' gr. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—ROAN ANTELOPE, $56.80, $26.80, $9.10; STRETCHER, $10.40, $4.60; GIBBY'S CHOICE, $11.10.

ROAN ANTELOPE worked his way up on the outside of leaders in run down the back stretch and went to the front with a rush rounding the far turn. He was in hand at end. STRETCHER, hustled to the front when break came was made lot of use of. He was driving hard at end to stall off GIBBY'S CHOICE. Latter, a forward contender all the way. ANGRY PLUME broke slowly and dropped out of it first quarter.

FOURTH RACE—One mile. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:54. Off at 3:56. Winner, E. McCuan's br. m. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BROOKSIE, $4.20, $2.50, $2.40; COCK ROBIN, $3.30, $3.30; TIGER PRINCE, $4.30.

BROOKSIE opened up an easy lead first furlong and raced under restraint remainder of journey. COCK ROBIN moved up after passing the half-mile pole, but had to be hard ridden to stall off TIGER PRINCE. Latter closed with a good effort. PLAY FURIOUS showed a flash of early speed.

FIFTH RACE—Three furlongs. Purse, $2,500 added. Nursery Stakes. For 2-year-old fillies. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:22. Off at 4:28. Winner, W. C. Weant's ch. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—WISE ANNE, $5.30, $3.10, $3.00; MINTWINA, $3.30, $3.10; DARK LOVE, $3.10.

WISE ANNE, a rapid beginner, revelled in the going and held her opposition safe all the way. MINTWINA collided with FRETWORK when start came, but recovered quickly. She weakened at end and was driving hard to stall off DARK LOVE. Latter finished stoutly on the outside. FRETWORK never appeared able to recover after being bumped at the start. She bore over to inside rail at end.

SIXTH RACE—One mile. Purse, $1,000; allowances. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won easily; place, same. Went to post at 4:56. Off at 4:56. Winner, George D. Widener's b. g. †G. D. Widener entry.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—JAMES RIVER, $3.60, $2.50, $2.20; BROADWAY LIGHTS, $4.50, $3.50; HEROVILLE, $3.60.

JAMES RIVER, in hand first furlong, went to the front without an effort when called on and, after drawing away into a commanding lead, was rated in front remainder of trip. BROADWAY LIGHTS was taken out to the middle of the track at stretch turn and closed in resolute fashion. HEROVILLE was made too much use of setting the early pace. EVEN UP tired after going half a mile.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good for all but Tarnish. Won easily; place, same. Went to post at 5:24. Off at 5:27½. Winner, Frederick A. Griffith's ch. g. (5), by Man o' War—Coronis. Trained by W. Mulholland. Value to winner, $750; second, $150; third, $100. Time, 0:24 3-5, 0:49 4-5, 1:14 3-5, 1:40, 1:53 3-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—ALDERSHOT, $4.50, $3.60, $2.70; SKRIP, $6.30, $3.90; GARLIC, $3.40.

ALDERSHOT was much the best. He broke fast and was taken under restraint with a safe lead and drew away through stretch. SKRIP ran good race, withstood drive with GARLIC for the place and had little opposition when latter tired in closing stages. GARLIC was always well up and had no excuse. TARNISH broke in from outside position, losing several lengths before getting into his stride and closed ground steadily last quarter mile. NEGOPOLI could not keep up and ran a dull race.

GRIFFITH EXPECTS BURKE TO SIGN CONTRACT TODAY

Pitcher Writes Nats' Owner; Is Wired 'Last' Offer.

Engel to Seek Extra Infielder on Tour of Minors.

Special to The Washington Post.

BILOXI, Miss., Feb. 25.—Tidings from Bobby Burke, the Nats' only holdout, were received by Owner Clark Griffith today in the form of a letter from the recalcitrant pitcher, who is hibernating at his home in Joliet, Ill., pending the salary negotiations, and this evening Mr. Griffith drew himself up to his full height, inhaled largely of the Gulf Coast ozone and announced that he had just made his last and positively final offer to Burke.

It was gleaned from Mr. Griffith's speech that he was somewhat impressed with the contents of Burke's epistle, and when he concluded by saying that he was confident that Burke would come to terms within the next 24 hours it appeared that he had made a compromise offer which the pitcher could not afford to reject.

Mr. Griffith let it be known, furthermore, that the offer which he telegraphed to Burke late this afternoon was not only his last and positively final offer to the pitcher, but otherwise took precedence over and nullified the last and positively final offer which he made to Burke on Tuesday. In the event that Burke rejects today's last and positively final proposition, he will treat no more with the pitcher, Griffith said, which, on past performances, means that there will be some more last and positively final offers.

Terms of Offer Not Divulged.

The terms of the Burke offer were not divulged by Mr. Griffith in accordance with his policy of never discussing salary contracts of his athletes. So strict has been this policy in the past that Mr. Griffith last season failed to discuss even with himself the terms of Alvin Crowder's contract until he was pained to learn that Crowder was entitled to a $1,000 bonus for winning eighteen ball games. Thus his policy has its disadvantages.

Burke has taken advantage of several points of argumentation in his negotiations with the Nats' owner, chief of which is his no-hit game against the Red Sox in 1931, the second no-hit game pitched by a Washington pitcher in the team's American League history. Burke also is negotiating from the vantage point of his veteran status, inasmuch as he, with Crowder, Marberry and Brown, are the only four pitchers on the squad recognized as regular ex officio.

It was learned also from Mr. Griffith that the Nats are in the market for another infielder, with Johnny Kerr as the only reserve performer available for duty at second base, third base and shortstop. The club boasts only Jackie Hayes as reserve infield strength last season and one utility man is deemed not sufficient.

Engel to Seek Infielder.

The Nats have no specific infielder in mind at this time and the policy will be to scan the list of releases by other clubs in the hope of adding a utility man whose presence won't be necessary until the start of the season. In the meanwhile, Joe Engel, the lone scout, will be contracting the rival training camps and otherwise foraging for a surplus infielder.

Griffith is still awaiting word from President Navin, of the Tigers, who is deliberating the purchase of Joe Judge whom the Nats will trade for Hayworth, Detroit catcher. Bucky Harris has already recommended the deal to Navin and Griffith's approval has been obtained. Even though Judge may join the Nats here with the second squad on March 7, there is a likelihood that he will be transferred to the Tigers before the season starts. Griffith is satisfied that Joe Kuhel can care for the first base duties for the Nats, both in the field and at bat.

Walter Johnson was the lone man in uniform to cut loose with his pitches today as the rookies tethered at the leashes held by the coaches. Ragland and Weaver, both young giants, who are counted upon to be of considerable service next season, were cautioned once again to go along easy as was Griffith who completes the trio of most promising rookie flingers.

The work of Young Carl Fischer has been considerably impeded during the first week at camp here by a blistered heel which he contracted playing golf in oversized shoes and in Trainer Martin he has a sympathetic mentor. Martin's mild attack of gout is progressing very nicely, he advises.

Weighing of A. A. U. Boys Ends Tonight

Tourney Players Get Final Chance; Board May Handle Officials.

The final batch of District A. A. U. basket ball players will be weighed in tonight, between 8 and 9 o'clock, at the Boys Club. Almost half of the boys who will play on the 100, 115, 130 and 145 pound teams in the tournament leaped on and off the scales last night.

Tonight is the final chance to weigh in. Strict observance of the code ruling out overweights is being enforced. Several were turned down last night.

District A. A. U. officials, in a meeting last night, decided to leave the matter of tournament referees up to the D. C. Approved Board of Officials. The eligibility of several college players was questioned by the registration committee, and the entry of a prominent team was held up through failure to pay entry fees.

BLAZING THE BASEBALL TRAIL

Richardson Springs, Calif., Feb. 25 (A.P.).—Manager Bucky Harris, of the Detroit Tigers, believes the shortstop problem—which has threatened to give him many premature gray hairs—is solved. And if it is, Bill Rogell is the boy who has solved it.

So certain is Harris that Rogell will make good this time that he has named him, Jonathan Stone and Charlie Gehringer as the three players certain of jobs this season.

Paso Robles, Calif., Feb. 25 (A.P.).—If the Pittsburgh Pirates fail to make a name for themselves as artistic bunters, it will not be because they neglected this detail of the game.

Manager George Gibson called his chattering, peppy squad together today and put them through the first of a series of drills on bunting. He announced they'll practice this play throughout the season.

Tampa, Fla., Feb. 25 (A.P.).—The first incision Manager Dan Howley, of the Cincinnati Reds, ordered on Catcher Bob Asbjornson's waistline was made today as Coach Mike Doolan had the 210-pounder shagging grounders to cut off some of the 20 pounds excess baggage. A light rain cut the practice to one session, and Howley ordered Mickey Heath, young first baseman, to remain inside, to avoid exposing himself to inclement weather. Heath suffered from rheumatic fever after a broken arm last season.

St. Petersburg, Fla., Feb. 25 (A.P.).—Outfielder Sammy Byrd and Shortstop Lyn Lary reported at the New York Yankee camp and took part in the day's practices.

Babe Ruth was a spectator. Henry Johnson, pitcher, convalescing from an appendicitis operation, is making rapid progress, Manager Joe McCarthy was informed from Bradenton.

Al Mamaux, manager of the Newark Bears, farm club of the Yankees, took part in the practice.

Mineral Wells, Tex., Feb. 25 (A.P.).—President Louis Comiskey and 29 members of the Chicago White Sox Baseball Club arrived here today for a week of conditioning before proceeding to San Antonio for spring training.

The greater part of the week will be devoted to drinking medicinal waters and taking the sweat baths at this north Texas spa. Workouts will be light.

Bradenton, Fla., Feb. 25 (A.P.).—Despite rain that fell intermittently, the St. Louis Cardinals went through their usual two workouts today, with Pitchers Johnson and Lindsey and Catchers Mancuso and Wilson the only absent batterymen. Johnson is due to report Monday.

Catcher Leo Dixon is being groomed to do the receiving in the early exhibition games and if Mancuso continues to hold out Dixon may land the second-string catching job.

Clearwater, Fla., Feb. 25 (U.P.).—Pitcher Cy Moore and Catcher Ernie Lombardi have agreed to sign their 1932 Brooklyn Dodger player contracts, it was announced today.

The Dodgers' unsigned now include Babe Herman and Johnny Frederick, outfielders, and Third Baseman Wally Gilbert and Pitcher Joe Shaute.

Los Angeles, Feb. 25 (A.P.).—The New York Giants played 12 innings of baseball today, 6 in the morning and 6 in the afternoon, but Frank (Shanty) Hogan, burly catcher, stole the show.

Hogan—all 230 pounds of him—crashed into the grandstand while chasing a foul ball. The stands escaped damage, but Hogan was rendered hors de combat with an injured knee.

Kramer Declines to Permit St. John's-Eastern Game

STEPHEN E. KRAMER, assistant superintendent of public schools, yesterday declined to permit Eastern, public high champions of Washington, to play St. John's, prep school titleholders. The game would have been played tomorrow afternoon at Tech High Gymnasium.

Kramer, in an interview with Dr. Cloyd Heck Marvin, president of George Washington University, cosponsorors with The Post of the prep school tournament, stated that it was against the letter of the high school athletic rules to countenance games which would name a city-wide champion. The action of the high school athletic board ceases when the public high school series is ended.

Two old rivals, Western and Gonzaga, clash tonight at Gonzaga Gym in today's feature scholastic basket ball game. The game will start at 8 o'clock.

St. John's, prep school champions, play their fifth game of the week, in as many days, tonight at the same time, against the Boys Club at the Boys Club. Friends and St. Alban's also have games listed. Friends meet Bethesda-Chevy Chase at Friends, and the Saints move down to Gloucester, Va., to play Camp Chesapeake.

G. W. BEATEN IN PHILLY CONTEST

St. Joseph's Rallies to Beat Colonials by 32-31 Score.

Special to The Washington Post.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Feb. 25.—Led by Phil Zuber, the St. Joseph's College court combination staged a second half rally to hand the Gerge Washington quintet a 32 to 31 setback at the Palais Royal, here tonight.

The visiting passers gained an 18-14 advantage in the first 20 minutes of play, but the proteges of Bill Ferguson came back strong in the second half to outscore George Washington, 18 to 13, for their conquest.

Zuber carried off high scoring honors of the tilt with 18 points, caging eight field goals and a pair of free throws. Parach scored five field goals and five fouls to top the losing team.

Noel House and K of C. Boxer Fight to Draw

Losing one bout by default, the Noel House boxing team held the highly touted K. of C. Boys Club squad to a 2-2 draw before a crowd of 500 fans in its own gym last night. Tony Catella and his brother Mike defeated Galvin and Sugrue, of the K. of C., to send the Noel House into the lead. Joe Van Pelt put the Caseys back in the running with a victory over Dinkaman, and the score was evened when Davis defaulted to Lord. Lowry and Carrier battled to a draw.

Pat O'Connell and Ben Kail acted as judges, and John Wilkinson refereed the bouts, which were well received.

Prentice Is Appointed To Davis Cup Group

New York, Feb. 25 (U.P.).—The appointment of Bernon S. Prentice as chairman of the Davis Cup committee was announced today by President Louis J. Carruthers, of the United States Lawn Tennis Association.

Prentice succeeds Holcombe Ward, who, following his election as president of the Eastern Lawn Tennis Association, asked to be relieved of his Davis Cup duties.

BOYS CLUB VS. PALACE.

The Boys' Club Big Five will play the Palace quintet at 2 p. m. in the Silver Spring Armory Sunday, as a preliminary to the Vic's Sport Shop-French A. C. The Boys' Club replaces the Jewish Community Center Team, which will meet the Fairygold five at 8 p. m. at the Center.

Barry to Appear On Nursery's Card

Capital Heavyweight Is to Face Godwin or Brown in Bout March 8.

"Reds" Barry, Washington's leading heavyweight, will appear in the feature bout on the Alexandria Day Nursery Card at Portner's Arena March 8, it was announced last night.

Articles for Barry's "shot" in the Alexandria arena after a layoff of six weeks were drawn up last night. He will engage either Bob Godwin, ranking light-heavyweight, who recently fought an eight-round draw with Maxie Rosenbloom, world's champion, at Daytona Beach, Fla., or Natie Brown, popular New York boxer. Brown has never been defeated in the Virginia ring. He fought Barry to a draw six weeks ago.

Matchmaker Mann is endeavoring to make this one of the leading bouts of the winter for the lovers of the fistic sport in Washington and environs. He promises an attractive card to support the feature.

RAIN FORCES CAMPBELL TO REST

Speed King Hopes to Advance His Own Mark Today.

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Feb. 25 (A.P.).—Rain fell today and forced Sir Malcolm Campbell, of England, to postpone attempts to break his own newly established world's automobile speed record over distances of 1 kilometer, 1 mile, and 5 kilometers.

If weather and beach conditions are suitable tomorrow, he will consider further trials. If not, he plans to ship his huge Bluebird racing car back to England and make no further attempts this year.

He disclosed that his plans are to send the car from Daytona Beach Saturday and proceed to Washington and New York either Tuesday or Wednesday, and sail for England on the Berengaria March 4.

Despite these arrangements, he is exceedingly anxious that fair skies and a smooth beach will permit a final attempt to boost the record tomorrow.

He is not satisfied with the records he made yesterday and is confident his car is capable of greater speed. He drove his 12-cylinder car to the new records of 253.968 miles per hour over the measured mile yesterday, 251.340 over a one-kilometer course and 241.569 over five kilometers. His old records for those distances were 245.733 for the mile, 246.086 for the kilometer and 216.045 for five kilometers.

Rain that fell intermittently today ceased temporarily late this afternoon and Campbell made preparations for taking his car to the beach for new trials.

Mayor E. H. Armstrong declared emphatically, however, that Campbell would not be permitted to race due to the inclement weather and poor visibility.

Shortly afterward rain began falling again and Campbell returned to his hotel.

Low tide tomorrow will be about 5 p. m., but if conditions are satisfactory Campbell probably will be able to take his car to the beach at least two hours before that time.

Wash.-Lee No Match For Eastern Tossers

Holding its opponent scoreless in the first half, while it was piling up 26 points, the champion Eastern High School quintet swept to an easy 46 to 7 victory over Washington and Lee High School at Ballston yesterday. The winners used a team composed of regulars and substitutes throughout the fray.

2,000 Seats Added For Skinker Game

Eagles Meet Howitzers on Sunday; Vic's to Play French's Quintet.

Approximately 2,000 bleacher seats have been installed in the Bolling Field gym for the accommodation of the fans who will witness the game between the Skinker Eagles and Howitzer Giants which will be played there Sunday at 8:30 p. m. The game is included in the semipro championship series schedule.

Leading the race for the title with a record of two victories in as many games, the Eagles are in a favorable position to retain their crown. Playing without the services of "Duke" Allen, star center, last Sunday, the team walloped Vic's Sport Shop, 42 to 23, in the biggest upset of the year.

Vic's intends to get back in the race by drubbing the French A. C. when they clash Sunday at 3 p. m. French's dropped a 26-to-25 decision to the Eagles two weeks ago and figure to take the measure of the Sport Shop crew.

Szabo Loses Feature to Roebuck

Capacity Crowd Sees Match; Kley Wins in 11 Minutes.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

BIG TINY ROEBUCK, whom Matchmaker Joe Turner has been endeavoring to establish favorably in the hearts of Washington's mat fiends and who has responded by giving several of the sourest exhibitions ever staged in Washington, redeemed himself completely, totally, universally and possibly perpetually last night when he won a bruising 43-minute victory over Sandor Szabo, one of the choicer behemoths, at the Strand Theater.

The S. R. O. sign was dusted off early in the evening and hung out, so the small place began to bulge with the presence of 2,000 fans. Several hundred were fitted into the aisles and several hundred turned away without their weekly injection of vicarious torso twisting, while Business Manager George King rubbed his hands sadly and was heard to address several toothsome bits of invective at the cruel fate which relegated the show to the Strand, rather than the Auditorium.

Well, Roebuck won pretty impressively. He weighed 248 and seemed in good shape, while Szabo no more measured up to his announced 204 than the captain of the Lindbergh Peewees. Szabo threw the huge Indian for a row of tepees now and then, but on the whole Roebuck was the aggressor throughout.

End of Match Sensational.

The end was smoothly spectacular. Szabo, about a minute from the end, shook off the effects of a strangle Roebuck had applied, and dove with all his might into Tiny's underslung chin. It brought the big warrior's teeth clicking together like the hungry jaws of a steam-shovel tongs. Roebuck went flat on his back. As he struggled up, Szabo charged again, and this time his hard, flat head imbedded itself deep in Roebuck's massive tummy.

Roebuck went down again. Szabo poised for the next thrust. Tiny got up on one knee as Szabo took off. Tiny dropped back quickly and Szabo streaked overhead, landing on his chin. While Szabo was trying to figure it out, or looked like he was trying to figure it out, Roebuck squirmed around and sat across his shoulders, while the good Dr. Cyclone T. Burns administered the last rites.

Grobmeier's Legs Work.

Fred Grobmeier was slightly boring for 20 minutes before he woke the good burghers up by coiling a barrel of legs around the sensitive middle of a Frenchman introduced as Paul Favre. It was Grobmeier's pet hold, known as a figure four scissors.

Fritz Kley scored sensationally over Wankah Zelesniak in 11 minutes. Kley won on a hold which a hasty glance through the "Book of Holts" failed to uncover. Zelesniak had snapped a whatchacallit on Kley, but the German acrobat walked out of it and countered with a whoosisholt.

Doc Wilson, reeling about the place as though he had accidentally walked under the venom end of a pile driver, recovered all of a sudden to destroy Leon Smith, with three crotch and body slams.

The show opened with an amateur bout, in which Ted Chaconas wrestled Bascom Foster to a 15-minute draw.

Palfrey and Nuthall Gain Bermuda Finals

Hamilton, Bermuda, Feb. 25 (A.P.).—Sarah Palfrey, of Boston, the defending champion, and Betty Nuthall, of England, gained the final round of women's singles in the Bermuda tennis championships today

The men's singles final will bring together two British stars, Frederick J. Perry and H. G. N. Lee.

Miss Palfrey won her way into the finals by eliminating Mrs. Eileen Bennett Whittingstall, of England, 6—2, 7—5. Miss Nuthall defeated Virginia Hilleary, of Philadelphia, 6—3, 6—1.

Oldfield Will Attempt To Gain Auto Record

Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 25 (U.P.).—Barney Oldfield, famous race-track automobile driver, announced tonight he will attempt to shatter the world's automobile speed record at Daytona Beach some time next year.

He has set his goal at 300 miles an hour, as compared with the mark of 253.968 miles per hour established Wednesday by Sir Malcolm Campbell, of England, on the Florida beach course.

Plans already are in preparation for an automobile capable of 300 miles an hour for Oldfield, the driver told the United Press.

Schaaf Faces Acid Test in Stribling

Fourth, Fifth Ranking Heavyweights Clash Tonight.

Both Determined to Win in Important Bout by K. O.

By CHARLES W. DUNKLEY.

CHICAGO, Feb. 25 (A.P.).—The most important heavyweight fight of the new year will be decided in the Chicago Stadium tomorrow night when Ernie Schaaf, Boston's young knockout king, engages W. L. (Young) Stribling, the Georgian, in a ten-round bout.

It is a battle that neither can afford to lose. The future of each hinges on the result. The victor will establish himself as a candidate to challenge for the world's heavyweight championship, while the loser will have his drawing power diminished and a new start facing him. Indications were tonight that more than 10,000 spectators would pay $35,000 to see the two ranking heavyweights fight it out.

Schaaf's Stock Has Risen.

For months Schaaf has been knocking out standard catchers of the heavyweight division, turning in a record of 20 victories in his last 21 bouts. In Stribling, he is encountering the most experienced ring man among the better heavyweights and a fighter who is ranked fifth in the National Boxing Association ratings, with only Max Schmeling, Jack Sharkey, Mickey Walker and Schaaf ahead of him.

Stribling is fighting to regain the heights again. He got up there once, but his quest was blasted after fourteen gruelling rounds in a world's championship battle with Schmeling at Cleveland last July. He was stopped in the fifteenth round. Since then he has knocked out three of his four opponents, but tomorrow night's battle will be his first against a real foe since his encounter with Schmeling.

Both Stribling and Schaaf are determined to win by a knockout. The firm of Jack Sharkey and Johnny Buckley, who manage Schaaf, are confident of a knockout victory. Sharkey, who is matched for a world's championship battle with Schmeling in June, will be in Schaaf's corner telling him how to do it.

Striblings Want Knockout.

"Pa" Stribling, the father-manager of the Georgian, declares the Striblings and the solid South will be satisfied with nothing less than a knockout; that they need such a victory to rush young William back into the heavyweight situation again. Schaaf is the biggest of the leading American heavyweights, scaling 208, which will give him almost 20 pounds' advantage over Stribling, who will come in at 189 pounds. Stribling disregards Schaaf's margin on the scales, however, as he considers himself superior in speed, boxing ability and ring cunning. Stribling also says he has always been more effective against big men.

Huddled around the ringside will be Sharkey, Col. Jack Dempsey, the famous old Kentuckian, once known as the Manassa mauler; Tuffy Griffith and Jack Kearns, Dempsey's former manager, who will view the proceedings in the interest of Mickey Walker. In the semiwindup My Sullivan, St. Paul-Irishman, meets Ben Jeby, of New York, in a ten-round middleweight engagement.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

CASEYS MEET PREPS.

The Northern Preps unlimited team will have a chance to even its score with the Knights of Columbus when the two quintets play Sunday at 7:30 p. m. at Bolling Field. The Caseys nosed out the Preps in their first meeting, winning by a score of 20-17. The game will be a preliminary to the Skinker Eagle-Howitzer Giants tilt.

BOYS CLUB BOXERS BUSY.

The Boys Club boxers will provide the fistic pyrotechnics at the Potomac Boat Club's athletic night, tomorrow night at the club. The program consists of five boxing bouts and two grappling exhibitions. The Boys Club mittmen will face some of their sternest competition of the year.

CENTS WOULD PLAY.

The Centennials are seeking games with strong teams in the 145-pound and unlimited classes. Call the manager at Georgia 1774-J.

Pro Boxing Bill for District Is Introduced in Congress

PROFESSIONAL boxing and even "world championship bouts" would be legalized in Washington under a bill introduced in the House yesterday by Representative Loring M. Black, jr. (Democrat), New York.

An athletic commission, to regulate "boxing, sparring, or wrestling matches," would be set up under the bill, which is one of a number introduced in recent years to liberalize laws governing boxing in the District.

The commission would be authorized to collect 5 per cent of the gate receipts for any exhibition. Fifty per cent of this it would use for its own expenses. The other 50 per cent would be turned over to the Community Chest.

A further provision stipulates that funds in excess of $10,000, after expenses and Community Chest donations, would be turned over in bulk to the Chest.

The commission would become supreme boxing arbiter here, with authority to "make, adopt and publish such rules and regulations as are necessary," and the right to "modify, amend, extend or repeal such rules." Bouts would be sanctioned, under

Biloxi, Miss., Feb. 25.

THE slow tempo of the training grind is irking one young fellow here with the Nats and this morning he started cutting loose with such pitches that the entire encampment gathered about his rising and falling right arm while ripples of approval floated down the lane to his battery mate.

A great prospect, was the consensus. The ease and poetry of his motion, the half side-arm, semi-submarine delivery bespoke tremendous power in his pitches. If he would learn the fine points of the art, who could tell? Six feet and 200 pounds of sinew. He had all the physical attributes.

"He looks good to me," Clark Griffith volunteered. Trainer Mike Martin opined that with a little grooming he might make the grade. Conservative Nick Altrock, within full earshot of the toiling figure on the rubber, said he had lots to learn.

Walter Johnson said nothing behind his wide grin. For it was indeed the Old Master who was regaling the gathering with a specimen of his speed of yesteryear. The sore arm bugaboo he had put behind him five years ago when he retired from the pitching mound. Today he was unafraid and the balls zoomed into Patsy Gharrity's big mitt like thunderbolts from the clear.

He held the stage for full fifteen minutes and they marveled at the zip on his fast one and the swinging, half-stride motion of the Nation's pitching idol for two decades was superbly reminiscent of his salad days when the gangling wonder boy from Weiser, Idaho, was terrorizing the league with the smoke of his fast one.

It was even half dozen years ago that tragedy descended on the Washington club's camp at Tampa in the spring of 1926 and removed from the playing ranks the greatest pitcher of all time in the sunset of his career, perhaps, but with many a brilliant game still secreted in his venerable right arm.

The blow came in the guise of comic relief, but it was none the less swift, sure and destructive. Johnson was pitching in batting practice when Joe Judge bounced a liner back at him full tilt, the ball striking Johnson a resounding crack on the shin before the big pitcher was able to step from its path.

Johnson wavered and went down. The veterans on the bench made great sport of the accident, as common in a training camp as Japanese in China. Al Schacht galloped out to them and carried his buffoonery with him, counting ten over the prostrate pitcher as referees count over a fallen gladiator, while the rest of the squad howled their glee. Johnson was rubbing his leg vigorously. Shake it off, they told him. Yeah, shake it off.

But Johnson was not rubbing without cause. For it was on a stage set for comedy that dire tragedy had stalked, ending the career of the greatest of them all. Ironically enough, the great Johnson, who had baffled the best in his day, was laid low by the innocent bat of a teammate, his leg broken by that line drive. He never recovered from that blow, although he essayed, later in the season, to pitch with a brace.

Johnson shows no trace of that broken leg now. He has put his pitching career behind him, but as manager of the Nats, he still likes to take his turn on the hill in practice. He sets the pace for the rookies and veterans in camp with his incessant conditioning. Ten laps around the vast Biloxi ball park is a daily requisite for Johnson. He can outrun them all with his pigeontoes stride that, to Washington fans who remember him ambling to the pitching mound, makes him an unforgettable figure.

HIALEAH FEATURE RACE WON BY WISE ANNE

Kilmer Entry, Mintwina, Dark Love, Are Next Home.

Man o'War Gelding Wins Third, Paying $56.80.

HIALEAH PARK, FLA., Feb. 25 (A.P.). — Heavy intermittent showers fell again here this afternoon and left the track fetlock deep in slop and mud, but the sun came out for the running of the featured Nursery Stakes No. 2, in which nine of Florida's fleetest fillies of the juvenile ranks had their first "coming out" party of the season. W. C. Weant's Wise Anne, a daughter of Wise Counsellor-Zillah, raced to her third straight and most important triumph, scoring easily by two lengths in the fast time of 34 4-5. She was favorite at $5.30 for $2 and earned $3,180 by ner victory.

W. S. Kilmer's entry of Mintwina and Dark Love ran two-three, respectively, a neck separating the pair. Fretwork, C. V. Whitney's representative, was slightly bumped at the start and finished a close fourth. Screen Idol, stablemate to the winner, was withdrawn. Another notable absentee was Lucille K., which was not nominated for the stake.

Wise Anne Quickly Goes to Front.

Wise Anne broke with the leaders and H. Elston quickly shot her into the lead. The good looking miss opened up a two lengths lead half way home while Mintwina gave closest pursuit but in vain, being held safe all the way. Dark Love closed ground to beat Fretwork.

Roan Antelope returned to his winning stride in the mile event, third on the card, the Man o' War gelding scoring handily to pay $56.80. Stretcher took the place two lengths back and a nose before Gibby's choice. Chicsu, favorite, never was a serious factor in the going. Stretcher held a narrow lead until collared around the bend by Roan Antelope. The latter continued willingly while Stretcher held on well to save the place from the fast closing Gibby's choice.

Burgoo Disqualified at New Orleans.

New Orleans, Feb. 25 (A.P.).—Closing fast in the stretch, A. Pelleteri's Fiddler won the six-furlong substitute race, which was the best offering on the Fair Grounds card today.

With High Foot setting the pace and E. R. Bradley's Burgoo running in second place, Fiddler trailed the leaders until well in the stretch; at the judges' stand, however, he was a half length in front of Burgoo, which finished second, but was disqualified.

With the disqualification of the Bradley colt, second money went to C. V. Whitney's Smear and third to High Foot, which weakened badly in the stretch run.

Fiddler ran the distance in 1:13 and paid $4.40 for $2.

Mutuel Players Get Break at Havana.

Havana, Cuba, Feb. 25 (A.P.)—P. A. Carreaud's The Sapniard, a recent arrival from Miami, was an easy winner of the fourth race, a 6-furlong sprint, which topped the card at Oriental Park today.

Ridden by Buddy Ensor, the son of Tryster came from the rear and running like a whirlwind through the stretch had wide advantage over Mrs. C. A. Marrone's Captain's Daughter at the finish. Marshall Seth was third.

The Spaniard was well supported, paying 8 to 5. He ran the distance in 1:13 2-5.

Players, who prefer the mutuels to the orals, profited in the first and sixth races at Havana. Betty Terry, quoted at 8 to 1 in the orals, won the curtain raiser and paid $102.60 for $2 in the mutuels. West Point, held at 10 to 1 by the bookmakers, accounted for the sixth event, paying off $123.80 for each $2 invested in the mutuels.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—DUNRODE, $31.80, $15.70, $9.40; CHOLLA, $4.20, $4.20; SWEEPMAR, $13.60.

DUNRODE trailed off the pace until roundins the far turn, where he moved up with a rush and easily disposed of CHOLLA, drew away into a long lead. CHOLLA, quick to begin, showed lot of early speed, but tired badly in stretch run. SWEEPMAR closed gamely and was gradually wearing CHOLLA down. LINE OF FIRE broke slowly, moved up on outside at turn, out of back stretch, but quit last quarter. He showed a dull performance in going that he liked.

SECOND RACE—Three furlongs. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 2-year-olds. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 2:50. Off at 2:56. Winner, Jack Howard's br. c. (2), by Axenstein—La Foudre. Trained by owner. Value to winner, $750; second, $150; third, $100. Time, 0:36 2-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—HERNANDO, $19.60, $20.80, $11.80; POSTPONEMENT, $7.70, $4.70; FLAG VIEW, $22.60.

HERNANDO broke rapidly and outran his field all the way. He was increasing his advantage last furlong. POSTPONEMENT broke well and was a forward contender all the way. He was driving hard to get up in time to catch FLAG VIEW. Latter weakened under punishment. WANDEROO broke fast and showed speed first quarter, but tired badly at end. DOME reared up when barrier was sprung.

THIRD RACE—One mile. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won handily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:24. Off at 3:25½. Winner, J. M. Phillips' gr. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—ROAN ANTELOPE, $56.80, $26.80, $9.10; STRETCHER, $10.40, $4.60; GIBBY'S CHOICE, $11.10.

ROAN ANTELOPE worked his way up on the outside of leaders in run down the back stretch and went to the front with a rush rounding the far turn. He was in hand at end. STRETCHER, hustled to the front when break came was made lot of use of. He was driving hard at end to stall off GIBBY'S CHOICE. Latter, a forward contender all the way. ANGRY PLUME broke slowly and dropped out of it first quarter.

FOURTH RACE—One mile. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:54. Off at 3:56. Winner, E. McCuan's br. m. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BROOKSIE, $4.20, $2.50, $2.40; COCK ROBIN, $3.30, $3.30; TIGER PRINCE, $4.30.

BROOKSIE opened up an easy lead first furlong and raced under restraint remainder of journey. COCK ROBIN moved up after passing the half-mile pole, but had to be hard ridden to stall off TIGER PRINCE. Latter closed with a good effort. PLAY FURIOUS showed a flash of early speed.

FIFTH RACE—Three furlongs. Purse, $2,500 added. Nursery Stakes. For 2-year-old fillies. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:22. Off at 4:28. Winner, W. C. Weant's ch. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—WISE ANNE, $5.30, $3.10, $3.00; MINTWINA, $3.30, $3.10; DARK LOVE, $3.10.

WISE ANNE, a rapid beginner, revelled in the going and held her opposition safe all the way. MINTWINA collided with FRETWORK when start came, but recovered quickly. She weakened at end and was driving hard to stall off DARK LOVE. Latter finished stoutly on the outside. FRETWORK never appeared able to recover after being bumped at the start. She bore over to inside rail at end.

SIXTH RACE—One mile. Purse, $1,000; allowances. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won easily; place, same. Went to post at 4:56. Off at 4:56. Winner, George D. Widener's b. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—JAMES RIVER, $3.60, $2.50, $2.20; BROADWAY LIGHTS, $4.50, $3.50; HEROVILLE, $3.50.

JAMES RIVER, in hand first furlong, went to the front without an effort when called on and, after drawing away into a commanding lead, was rated in front remainder of trip. BROADWAY LIGHTS was taken out to the middle of the track at stretch turn and closed in resolute fashion. HEROVILLE was made too much use of setting the early pace. EVEN UP tired after going half a mile.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, same. Went to post at 5:24. Off at 5:27½. Winner, Frederick A. Griffith's ch. g. (5), by Man o' War—Chronis. Trained by W. Mulholland. Value to winner, $750; second, $150; third, $100. Time, 0:24 3-5, 0:49 4-5, 1:14 3-5, 1:49, 1:53 3-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—ALDERSHOT, $4.50, $3.60, $2.70; SKRIP, $8.30, $3.90; GARLIC, $3.40.

ALDERSHOT was much the best. He broke fast and was taken under restraint with a safe lead and drew away through stretch. SKRIP ran good race, withstood drive with GARLIC for the place and had little opposition when latter tired in closing stages. GARLIC was always well up and had no excuse. TARNISH broke in from outside position, losing several lengths before getting into his stride and closed ground steadily last quarter mile. NEGOPOLI could not keep up and ran a dull race.

PRINCETON SENDS STRONG SQUAD TO C. U. INDOOR MEET

Tigers Enter Fast Relay Runners

Mel Sheppard, Son of One-Time Star, Will Compete

Scarlett, Hurdler, Is Ace of Invading Tiger Team.

MEMORIES of other days will be recalled to the minds of veteran track fans at the Catholic University indoor meet, Saturday night, when the familiar name of Mel Sheppard is announced as a participant in the half-mile run for Princeton. The Sheppard, who will run tomorrow night, is the son of one of the greatest half-milers to ever wear the shield of an United States Olympic team.

Quite a few years have elapsed since the elder Sheppard hung up his spikes, but his son is carrying on in a commendable manner. Mel, jr., is a chip of the old block if their ever was one. Tall, graceful and confident of himself, the youngster is said to bear a striking resemblance to his famous father when in action. Old-timers who have had the opportunity of witnessing both run voice the opinion that there is not a mite of difference between the two in a contest. The lad runs a smooth, easy race until turning homeward when he breaks into a sprint that usually carries him to victory.

Curran to Show In Sprints.

Another member of the team whose dad was an illustrious track star before him is J. M. Curran, son of Jimmie Curran, present coach at Mercersburg Academy. Young Curran is a sprinter of no mean ability.

All things considered, the Princeton squad is one of the strongest of the sixteen college teams entered in the Cardinal games. Charlie Scarlett, low hurdler, is the outstanding star of the team. He scored a memorable victory over Fates, of Yale, in the dual meet between the two universities last spring. Another member of the team, Weaver, was the premier sprinter of the Yale freshman team last year. Cragin, a half-miler, and Morris, a 2-miler, are expected to produce some points Saturday night.

The Princeton relay team includes Darby, regular quarter-miler; Keown, Johnston, another 440 man who was ineligible this semester, and Whitton, whose regular distance is a half mile, but who has also shown great proficiency at shorter distances

MARYLAND CITY FIVE WINS.

The Maryland City unlimited quintet scored its third consecutive victory when it defeated the Company F Reserves, 15 to 14, in a hard-fought game played at Hyattsville last night. R. Bellman starred for the winners.

CONFERENCE COURT PLAY TO OPEN

Maryland to Battle Florida in First Tourney Test.

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 25 (A.P.).—Two disciples of Phog Allen's Kansas basket ball system match their teams here tomorrow in the first round of the Southern Conference tournament.

These former proteges of the famous Midwestern coach, who played on the same college quintet—Adolph Rupp, of Kentucky, and George Roddy, of Tulane—must use their wits to outdo each other with the same style of court play.

Alabama, one of the seeded teams, and Virginia inaugurate the annual meet at the City Auditorium here at 1 o'clock (Central standard time), and Maryland, the defending champion, plays Florida later in the afternoon, but this 4 o'clock duel between Kentucky and Tulane promises to be one of the best contests of the opening round.

The Kentucky team may not be at its best because of the recent sickness of Forrest Sale, center, and Demoisey, a forward. Both are suffering influenza attacks, and although they may play well against Tulane, the strain of later engagements may prove too much for their limited strength.

In Florida, Maryland encounters the "dark horse" of the 1931 tournament at 5 o'clock. Florida's campaign last year was little better than its record this season, but the Alligators slipped through to the semifinals before they were stopped.

The Marylanders will be handicapped by the loss of their mentor, H. Burton Shipley, who is ill and remained in College Park. Jack Faber, his assistant, will undertake the guiding of the Old Liners to another crown.

Other afternoon matches send North Carolina, the choice of the outsiders, against Tennessee at 2 o'clock and Vanderbilt against Duke an hour later.

Auburn, the fourth seeded quintet, opens the night program at 7 o'clock against North Carolina State. Auburn has all its regulars from 1931 available but will find stiff opposition from the Wolfpack.

The host State teams, Georgia and Georgia Tech, close the initial round activities, Georgia playing Mississippi State at 8 o'clock and Georgia Tech battling Louisiana State an hour afterward.

Paced by Kentucky, which reached Atlanta early this morning, most of the teams had arrived by nightfall with a few, including Maryland and Florida, expected Friday morning.

Hitting the Head Pin

—By LEWIS F. ATCHISON

RALPH FRASER has received over 100 entries for the American Legion tournament to be rolled at Arcadia tomorrow, and he is confident that the number will be close to 200 when the first ball goes tumbling down the alleys. The event bids fair to be one of the standout tournaments of the season. It will be conducted on a handicap basis, thus assuring all entrants of an opportunity to win the top prize.

The greatest inducement to the bowlers, perhaps, is the entrance fee of $1.60, which includes the cost of the games. In addition to the trophy, which will be presented to the post having the six highest individual totals, a second loving cup, presented by Commander Fraser, will be awarded the post having the six highest individual scores in the second group.

In order to keep the tournament moving along at a fair speed, it will be rolled in three stages, the first at 3 p. m., the second at 6 p. m., and the third at 8 p. m. Contestants are free to enter the section which rolls at the most convenient time for them.

Carry's Ice Cream froze out the other clubs in the Commercial League in the race for team honors at Convention Hall last night, rolling a game of 578 and set of 1,604, to take the odd one from Sterrett Operating. Peoples, Daily News and Evening Star were one up on Wonder Bread, Diamond Cab and Occidental Hotel. Times-Herald applied the shellacking to Woodward & Lothrop for a three-game win. Dave Burrows' 150 and 370 scores were prize-winners.

All of us have our off nights; but not usually on the same night. Last night, however, the ten members of the Columbia and Convention Hall District League teams evidently fell victims to the spring fever, and the scores they rolled were—well, read 'em and weep, or laugh. Columbia, 530, 565, 525. Convention Hall, 511, 526, 541. Day Boston's 126 game and 340 set were high for both teams. Carl Stoner's 115 game was the best on the Hall team's sheet, while Paully Harrison, of all people, rolled into the set prize with 324.

A chap known only as Chris dropped 129 pins to win the game honors in the Western Electric loop at the Hall. Hunter's 325 set was high. Switchboard topped the teams with its game of 535 and set of 1,569.

The Post Composing Room had its day in the Daylight League at Convention Hall yesterday, winning all three from the Master Printers and bagging the team scoring honors while so doing. The Composers rolled 554 and 1,615. Herald, Star and Post Press won two games from Post Circulation, Bond Vitamin D, and Occidental Hotel. Ollie Smith's 136 and Greely (I wonder if he is any relation to the author of the "Go West, Young Man," phrase?), of Occidental Hotel, 370 to lead the individual scoring.

Maryland clung to the leadership of the Intercollegiate League by whitewashing V. P. I. at Rendezvous last night. Lehigh and Princeton continued their battle for the runner-up position by winning the odd one from Michigan and Yale, respectively. Dartmouth rolled a game of 560 and won all three from Harvard, while Cornell and Brown were one better than Navy and V. M. I. Joe Story was the hero of the evening, rolling 135 for high game and 354 for the set laurels.

Three of the four matches in the A. G. O. Ladies League resulted in the losing games receiving doughnuts for breakfast. Pack Train, Pursuit Group and Military Police were the victors, while Butchery, Firing Squad and Bombardment were on the wrong end. The Mine Planters hit the spot when they set Signal Battalion down with a 2-to-1 loss. Miss Higgins' 292 set and Miss Wassman's 118 game were high, as were Pursuit Group's 472 and 1,356 scores.

In the Interior Department League, which also rolled at Columbia, Secretary took the odd one from Survey with the aid of a 510 game and 1,601 set. Dotson was the big gun with his 145 game. Pension took the odd one from Indian despite a 360 set by Gray. Disbursing was one better than G. H. I. (and you'd be surprised at what those initials really mean), and Land won all three from Engraving.

Chestnut Farms Dairy virtually clinched the pennant in the King Pin Business Men's League by winning all three from Lansburgh No. 2. A 588 game was rather helpful. Herb Kashub's 152 and 386 scores were high. Herb missed tying the set record by two pins.

Sniegoski's 147 and Leasure's 371 were good for the prizes in the War Department loop at Arcadia. Statistics hauled off and rolled a 589 game, but War College proved the best in the long run, piling up 1,639 pins for set honors.

The Misses Carter and Paris won the individual laurels in the Ladies Veterans Bureau loop at the same alleys. The former had a 119 game and the latter a 295 set. A 460 game by the Nitwits, and a 1,328 set by the Duces were high for the teams.

Elizabeth Minson's 135 game and Lucille Young's 340 set were unbeatable in the Ladies Federal League at Arcadia. Treasury continued its dazzling pace with a 524 game, a 1,489 set and a 2-1 victory over Commerce Juniors.

SAINTS' FIVE IS GIVEN SCARE

Prep Champs Barely Win, 22-20, From Hyattsville.

ST. JOHN'S CADETS, prep school champions of Washington, were given a scare yesterday by Hyattsville High, and barely nosed out the suburbanites by a count of 22-20 in the last 10 seconds of the game at Hyattsville, when Gabby Hartnett dropped in a long shot to break a 20-20 count.

St. John's playing without two kingpins, Fred Scheele and Bob McCarthy, forward and guard, trailed from the start. Hyattsville led, 13-5, at the half. St. John's snared a weak lead of 16-15 at the start of the fourth quarter, and thereafter the advantaged alternated in stirring fashion.

Saints' Foul Shots Decide

St. John's admirable foul shooting was the real factor behind the victory. The Cadets sank nine out of nine in the second half.

Showing the effects of their strenuous battle the night before, when they won The Washington Post Cup by beating Georgetown Prep, 22-19, St. John's found its defense incapable of stopping Cogar and Kidwell, sharpshooters of Hyattsville's club. But greater experience eventually told.

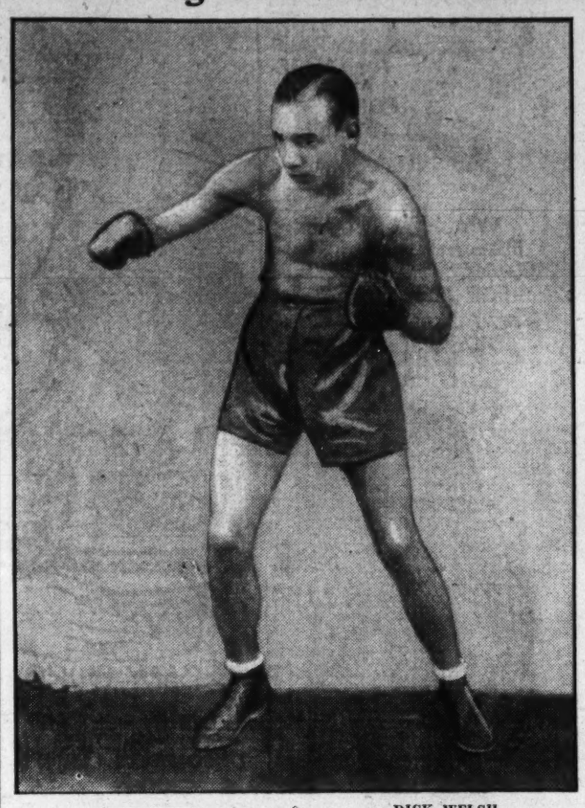
High Officials to Witness Boxing Card at Coliseum



DICK WELSH,

Norfolk star, who meets Antol Kocsis, Hungarian champion, at the Ritchie Coliseum next Monday night in the feature match of a brilliant ring card.

Full Program for Monday Night Is Announced.

WITH a brisk sale of tickets reported and requests from Baltimore fight fans for blocks of seats, the Ritchie Coliseum all-star card scheduled for Monday night bids fair to set a record for local ring attendances.

Officials high in national and District affairs will turn out en masse for the event. Among those who have already made reservations are Representatives W. B. Bankhead and Lamar Jeffers; Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of the Police Department; Dr. Cloyd Heck Marvin, Dr. George C. Havenner, Dr. Daniel Le Ray Borden and Capt. Davis, of Gen. MacArthur's staff.

Not since the days of the Sportland Heights Arena out at Berwyn has such a card been offered for local consumption. With four all-star eight-round bouts and a preliminary four-rounder added the card reeks with classy boxers, rugged punchers, and plenty of action is expected.

Matchmaker Frankie Mann last night closed out the four-round bout which will bring into action Pete Powell, of Newport News, and Joey Schwartz, of Baltimore. The boys will weigh in at 2 p. m. at the Riggs Turkish Baths with the eight men who are to fight in the feature events.

Antol Kocsis, Hungarian champion, rated fifth in this country, is in the bout featured as the bantamweight championship of the South with Dick Welsh, former Philadelphian, who hails from Norfolk, Va., but owns his home in Philadelphia.

Louis Jallos, Cleveland Golden Gloves champion, and Bobby Burns, Baltimore lightweight, will step eight rounds. Eric Lawson and Vince Forgione, who went ten rounds with Mickey Walker, are in another eight-rounder. Billy Strickler and Al Treanor are down for the fourth setto.

All of these bouts are declared to be main eventers, according to Matchmaker Mann.

The Coliseum fights will probably employ two sets of judges. Referees for the four eight-rounders are Maj. Harvey L. Miller, Charley Short, Goldie Ahearn and Billy Whipp, coach of the Maryland University boxers.

Announcement was made last night that seats would go on sale today at the Auto Accessory Shop, Washington and King streets, Alexandria, Va., in addition to Spalding's, the Willard, Goldie Ahearn's and Vic Sport Shop here in Washington.

The advance sale is reported largest in the history of fights in this vicinity. Seats are scaled at $1.50, $2 and $2.50.

TAKOMA S. S. FIVE WINS TITLE

Takes County Crown by 33-13 Defeat of Bethesda-C. C.

WITH Bozievich showing the way, Takoma-Silver Spring High School romped to an easy 33-13 victory over Bethesda-Chevy Chase in a loosely played game at Takoma yesterday. The victory gives Takoma the Montgomery County championship with a record of 11 victories in 12 games.

Bethesda offered stiff opposition in the first half, and Takoma was hard pressed to lead by a 13-8 margin at the intermission. With the advent of the second half, however, the Takoma quintet began clicking on all cylinders and steadily pulled ahead of its opponents. Leizear played a clever floor game for the victors, while Mossburg's work was outstanding for the losers.

Bethesda-C. C. Girls Win Montgomery Co. Crown

Rallying in the second half, the Bethesda-Chevy Chase High School Girls Basket Ball Team defeated Takoma-Silver Spring, 22-17, to win the Montgomery County championship at Bethesda yesterday. The teams battled point for point in the first half, which ended with Takoma leading by a 10-9 score.

The keen eye of Naomi Cochran, who tallied 11 points in the fray, enabled the Takoma sextet to lead. Annabelle Lee and Margaret Roche led the second-half drive, which culminated in Bethesda's victory.

STOCK PRICES DROP IN CHANGING TRENDS

U.S. Steel and American Can Show Narrow Net Gains; Rails Are Quiet.

New York, Feb. 25 (A.P.).—The stock market changed its mind frequently today, never coming to much of a conclusion. Final prices on the average were lower, but only fractionally so, and some pivotal issues closed firm. Volume reached the small total of 1,034,459 shares.

Auburn's weakness in the morning—it broke 13 points to a new low after opening 1½ higher—proved moderately upsetting during the first hour or so when many pivotal shares gave up 1 to 2. Full recovery ensued, but soon after the noon list sagged. This movement was checked just under the early lows and prices were advancing at the close.

U. S. Steel and American Can showed narrow net advances, although these and other gains were more than offset by losses in Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Allied Chemical, General Electric, Standard Brands and Westinghouse.

Carbide Loses Point.

Union Carbide, confronted with a dividend reduction, lost a point, but General Railway Signal, whose payment was also reduced, rallied. Rails were quiet. Auburn reduced its loss to 7 points net.

By cutting the rediscount rate the Central Bank indicated that further withdrawals of foreign gold would leave no marks on this country's banking system. Coincident with the "gold run" of last autumn, the rate was raised in October, but the Glass-Steagall machinery is designed to take care of such contingencies by increasing the amount of free gold.

Another reason behind the rate increase four months ago was the hoarding problem, the theory being that higher interest would tend to aid bank deposits. Bankers were said to feel that the drive against hoarding was now making sufficient progress to justify some relaxation. Money in circulation fell $17,000,000 during the week ended Wednesday. The decline for the past three weeks amounts to $39,000,000, according to the Federal Reserve figures.

Federal Reserve Statement.

The Federal Reserve statements were of rather negative interest, since they gave no evidence of an expansion in open market operations. Holding of United States Government securities for the system showed a small decrease, demonstrating that the central banks were marking time in the development of the easier credit program. Possibly the lower discount rate will be tried before more aggressive steps are taken.

The position of the Bank of England and the Reichsbank improved moderately, for both reported slightly more favorable reserve ratios. Britain's situation has been considerably clarified. With a treasury surplus indicated for the fiscal year-end she is now building up dollar and franc balances against repayment of the large credit extended last summer by a banking consortium.

Brokers pointed out that the failure of industrial statistics to support the Rosier sentiment which prevailed a week or two ago was in large measure responsible for the current sluggishness of stocks. The cautiousness of shorts has not escaped notice, nor has the market's resistance after a technical reaction. In many quarters the opinion is expressed that a quiet market is highly desirable.

U. S. BONDS ADVANCE AS TRADING LEADERS

Average List Closes Higher, Despite Dull Market; Turnover Light.

New York, Feb. 25 (A.P.).—Virtually the only interest in today's bond market centered in United States Government issues, most of which moved to moderately higher levels.

Corporate mortgages continued their lethargic trend and, for the greater part, prices changed but fractionally. There were a few instances of substantial advances, however, and the averages were slightly above those of yesterday. Sales totaled only $8,629,000.

There was a considerable demand for Liberty loans early in the session, but these, although registering gains, closed under their top prices. Three of the Treasuries even sagged slightly below their closing quotations of yesterday.

Cut in Bank Rate.

Strength was given to the Government section by reports that the Federal Reserve Bank rediscount rate would be lowered. The actual cutting of the rate, however, did not take place until after the market closed and before the end of the session, much doubt was expressed regarding the bank's probable action.

Railroad liens ebbed and flowed, but there was a small flurry of buying near the close and the average for the list recorded a small gain.

On the sale of three bonds, Atlanta & Danville second 4s advanced 8½ points, and Wheeling & Lake Erie 4s, with only two bonds changing hands, gained 10¼ points. These, however, were exceptions. The remainder of the carriers were only moderately up on the mildest of trading.

Utilities Hold Position.

Many utilities maintained their position of yesterday while the industrials barely managed a small gain. Some of the American Telephone loans firmed and Bethlehem Steel refunding 5s were up 4 points.

Consolidated Gas 5½s were in demand. International Telephone loans sagged and International Match mortgages continued their downward movement.

Foreign bonds had a mixed trend. Dutch East Indies moved higher, as did some obligations of Argentine, Chile, Buenos Aires, New South Wales, Uruguay, France, Italy and Canada. British 5½s eased and Japanese government issues were weak. The 6½s reached a new low. Oriental Development 5½s recovered 2¾ points.

MAN SHOOTS 2 BOYS AND KILLS HIMSELF

Fires on Youths at Home of His Estranged Wife in Fairfax Station.

James M. Franklin, a 52-year-old well driller, of Fairfax Station, Va., committed suicide early yesterday after, it was alleged, he had shot and seriously wounded Robert Turley, 15, of Wellington, and Eugene Edwards, 13 of Falls Church, some time earlier.

According to Deputy Sheriff Henry Magarity, of Fairfax County, who had charge of the investigation of both shootings, the two youths were at the home of Franklin's estranged wife, Mrs. Franklin, accompanied by friends, had gone to Manassas for the evening. The boys heard a noise outside the house and, taking a lantern, went to investigate. As soon as they stepped outside they were greeted with shots fired from a shotgun. Staggering to a neighbor's home, they summoned police, who took them to the Alexandria Hospital. They were treated by Dr. M. D. Delaney, who said the condition of the Edwards youth is grave; his entire left side was pierced with shot. The Turley youth had slight wounds in his right side. The boys told police the shots were fired by Franklin.

Police searched the woods between Fairfax Station and the home of Franklin's youngest son, near Clifton, where Franklin had been staying since separation from his wife. They failed to find him. About 3 o'clock yesterday morning they received word that Franklin had shot himself at his son's house. Going there, they found that Franklin had returned a short time before, had gone into the kitchen, laid his pocket book on the table, and indorsed several checks received in the previous day's mail. He then went on the back porch and killed himself with a shotgun.

The explosion awoke his son, who was asleep upstairs. The son ran downstairs where he found the body and immediately summoned the police who had just returned from scouring the woods.

Besides his estranged wife, Franklin is survived by three sons and a daughter, all of Fairfax County. The body was removed to an undertaking establishment in Manassas. Fairfax County Coroner C. A. Ransom conducted an inquest yesterday and gave a verdict of suicide.

Bethesda Zoning Report Reveals Different Stand

Differing with the recommendations of the board of directors, the zoning committee of the Bethesda Chamber of Commerce has formulated a report recommending that part of the Winfield property, located near Bradley boulevard and the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad tracks be zoned industrial. The board adopted a resolution protesting any zoning for industrial purposes.

The application to have this property and property of the Stone Tile Corporation adjoining changed from residential to industrial now is pending before the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission. The zoning commitee states that a portion of the property is so situated and surrounded that the only logical use is commercial and therefore urges such rezoning.

$1,000 Loss in Blaze In Masonic Building

Damage of about $1,000 was caused by a fire believed to have been caused by defective wiring yesterday in the Masonic Building at Bethesda, located in the rear of the Bank of Bethesda. The fire filled the Bethesda Pharmacy and the Patty-Kitch-Inn with smoke, but did little damage in the stores themselves.

The fire started in the basement of the drug store operated by Dr. J. A. Fink. The heavy smoke led firemen to believe that the fire was in the restaurant, which, incidentally, is operated by the wife of the fire chief, and they donned gas masks and entered the kitchen. Later they moved their activities to the Wisconsin avenue side, and after a two-hour battle the fire was extinguished

Franconia Group Plans To Present Play Tonight

A three-act play, "A Fortunate Calamity," will be presented this evening at 8 o'clock in the auditorium of the schoolhouse at Franconia, Va., by the Franconia Community League.

Members of the cast, under the direction of Mrs. Cassie Smith, include Mrs. Paul Shurtz, Miss Elizabeth Martin, Miss Mary Odgen, Miss Blanche Kitson, Miss Virginia Simms, John Smith, John Martin, Shelton Terry and Raymond Talbert. The proceeds of the play will be used to purchase equipment for the auditorium of the school, which was completed only last month.

O. E. S. to Honor Harry K. Green.

Mary Washington Chapter, No. 50, Order of the Eastern Star, will hold a "Green Night" tonight in the Masonic Temple at Clarendon. Harry K. Green, grand master of Masons in Virginia, will be the honored guest.

2 Boys Fire Hay of Man Who Refuses Them Lift

Two small colored wards of the Board of Public Welfare of Washington tomorrow will be arraigned in Montgomery County Juvenile Court on charges of arson. They admitted setting fire to the hay barrack of W. A. Jones, near Darnestown, Md., because he wouldn't give them a lift in his car.

The boys, one 12 and the other 13, are cared for by Sarah Plummer, colored, of near Darnestown, as wards of the board. They were arrested by Sergt. Roy Bodmer and Corpl. Harry Merson, of Montgomery County police headquarters at Rockville. The boys said they set fire to the hay in order to get even with Mr. Jones and so he would pick up trudging boys on the road.

Man Freed in Death Is Guilty of Theft

Woolfenden Convicted of Stealing Chickens After Murder Acquittal.

Special to The Washington Post.

Manassas, Va., Feb. 25—Walter Woolfenden, who was acquitted in the December court term of a charge of murdering Goodwin Miller at Kopp, Prince William County, on the night of September 25, 1931, when the charred remains of Miller, his wife and infant son were discovered in the ruins of the burned home of Miller, and has been in jail since then awaiting trial on a chicken stealing charge, today was found guilty of the stealing charge and sentenced to one year in the penitentiary.

Woolfenden was arrested last October when it was found that J. M. Spelton, of near Woodbridge, had shot a man on the night of October 15, who was making away with a bag of chickens from his hen house, and it developed that Woolfenden had been treated by a physician in an adjoining county for gunshot founds. Woolfenden was being held on this charge when the Commonwealth charged him with the Goodwin Miller murder, upon learning that Woolfenden had cashed in on an insurance policy on the life of Miller in which he was the beneficiary.

400 N. E. A. Guests Visit Kiwanis

More than 400 school superintendents, many of them Kiwanians, were guests of the Washington Kiwanis Club at a luncheon meeting yesterday at the Raleigh Hotel.

A welcome to the visiting superintendents was extended by Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of Metropolitan police. Displaying a map which purports to show the location of speakeasies in the Capital Gen. Glassford told the school officials that "there are no bootleg joints in Washington."

Joseph A. Ewart, superintendent of schools of Stamford, Conn., was elected president of the Kiwanis Superintendents Club; John Lund, superintendent of schools at Norwalk, Conn., was elected secretary-treasurer. Monroe Graves, past president of the Wellesley Hills Kiwanis Club, is the retiring president of the Kiwanis Superintendents Club. Edwin F. Hill, first vice president of the local club, presided. The invocation was given by the Rev. Simpson Daugherty.

11,000 Women Voters Registered in County

Nearly half of Montgomery County's 23,430 registered voters are women, according to figures compiled by the board of election supervisors for the county. There are 12,430 men and 11,000 women registered, according to John Jones, clerk to the board. The county now has 29 polling places.

The election books show that there are 14,763 voters registered as Democrats, 8,187 as Republicans, 10 Socialists and 470 unaffiliated. The Thirteenth or Wheaton District has the largest number of registered voters, 6,433, while Bethesda District is second with 5,439.

N. E. A. Speaker's Plaudits For Soviet Home Life Hit

Stating that "it is not likely that the American people shall ever submit to a profanation of the institution of the home upon which their Nation has been built," the Very Rev. Ignatius Smith, professor of philosophy at Catholic University, in his Lenten sermon at the Shrine of the Sacred Heart, scored as utterly materialistic a statement made at a National Education Association banquet by the principal of a Philadelphia high school for girls in which she spoke in laudatory terms of the socialization of the home in Russia, saying that the system of family life in Russia under the Soviet government is one that might well be introduced into the United States.

Speaking on the subject "Home Wreckers," he said, "the home is also an unescapable factor in the development of the church and religion. Crush our homes, wipe out the opportunity for the development of the moral qualities which the home alone can produce and the churches can close their doors in 50 years.

"It is suggested that the Soviet Russian government is aware of this and that its efforts to socialize the home is really an attempt to suppress religion and all contact with the supernatural. But the state, in its turn, is dependent on the home for the nurturing of the virtues of citizenship. It is a significant fact that the great governments and empires of the past began their dissolution by permitting the disintegration of the home.

"Civilization itself leans heavily on the home for the erection among peoples of those uplifting habits of mind and heart that have made for the progressive advancement of the race. I ask you to accept, therefore, the home as a necessary and sacred fact in society because of the teachings of Christ, the teachings of the Catholic Church, the demands of religion, the needs of government and the postulates of civilization itself. The forces that are tending to wreck the home can be understood only against this background.

"The theoretical enemies of the home," according to Father Smith, "are movements of thought rather than of action. The philosophy of Soviet Russia looks upon the old-fashioned home as obsolete and seeks to change it into a mere meeting place of the members of the domestic group, while the state displaces its sacred relationship with the purposes of the national group."

ALEXANDRIA TO SEEK JERSEY SCHOLARSHIP

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Announcement was made yesterday that a member of the 1932 graduating class of the Alexandria High School will be nominated as a candidate for a $500 scholarship at Lafayette College.

The scholarship recently established by the Larry Foster Foundation of Ridgewood N. J. will be awarded on the basis of Nation-wide competition to be conducted between March 15 and April 15. The purpose is to select from the senior class of the public high schools a young man who will best represent during his college career the character and ideals of Larimore Foster who was a member of the class of 1927 at Lafayette and who was killed in an accident in Arizona during the summer vacation following his sophomore year.

The letters and diary have been published under the title of "Larry, Thoughts of Youth."

All of the candidates nominated by high schools throughout the country will be asked to write a brief essay on a topic to be selected by March 15. These essays will be judged in New York by a body consisting of Dr. William Mather Lewis, president of Lafayette College; Thomas J. Foster, president of the Larry Foster Foundation; the third to be selected. They will make their decision on the combined basis of the essay and the information received from school principals.

The committee in charge of the Birthnight Ball held last Monday night in Gadsby's Tavern has been keeping the furnishings loaned for the event intact for the view of visitors for the past few days, and will continue this the remainder of the week, also from 2 to 6 o'clock on Sunday afternoon. Members of the Daughters of the Revolution and the Colonial Dames Society act as hostesses, and the money derived from the admission fee is applied toward the restoration fund of the tavern.

Alexandria Post No. 24, American Legion, has opened an employment agency at 1202 King street, in charge of the adjutant of the post, George F. Birrell. No charge for registration is made and the cooperation of the Richmond, Fredericksburg & Potomac Railroad has been promised, also the Southern Railway and the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company.

The George Washington Birthday Association at a meeting held on Wednesday night, received the reports of the various chairmen, and the announcement was made yesterday that the sum of $3,116.46 will be needed to meet all of the obligations of the mammoth celebration staged in Alexandria on Monday last. The largest item in connection with the celebration was the feeding of all of the outfits that came to the city for the affair, this amounting to $1,128.35.

The association will give a subscription banquet in the near future, and J. William May has been appointed chairman of a committee on arrangements.

Center Will Give Program Tonight

Macfarland Group Plans Bicentennial Ball With Colonial Theme.

A Bicentennial program will be given tonight at 8 o'clock at Macfarland Community Center under the direction of Mrs. A. L. Irving and the dance directors of the center.

Music, songs and dances of the colonial period will be featured with all the participants in costume. Among those taking part in the program will be Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Lefever, Jack Jerman, Miss Laura Roberts Duncan, Lawrence Lewis, Ralph J. Bartley and members of the dance groups led by Miss Marjorie Schuster, Miss Margaret Becker, Miss Alice Louise Hunter, Miss Ruth Hartung and Miss Jane Wilson.

Ye Olde Tyme Dancing Club of the center will be seen in the lancers' quadrille and the Virginia reel. Characters impersonating George and Martha Washington will lead the grand march around the hall, quoting the identical words of Washington, "You are all invited to join in the innocent pastime of dancing."

District Firearms Bill Is Up Today

House and Senate Groups Also to View Other Local Measures.

Regulation of firearms sale or possession within District limits, with stiff penalties for any violation of drastic rules laid down, will be taken up by the Senate District committee and the House judiciary subcommittee, at separate meetings today.

The House judiciary subcommittee, which meets at 10:30 o'clock this morning, will also consider the bill to incorporate credit unions in the District. A bill to incorporate the unions, cooperative organizations that would loan money to members, already has been approved by the Senate District committee.

After the firearms bill is disposed of, Senator Arthur Capper's committee, meeting at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon, will again consider the bill for Sunday closing of barber shops. Local barbers favor the legislation as a health measure, while Seventh Day Adventists and local antiblue-law groups allege the bill is "religious" in principle.

Gathering at Fairfax To Hear Horticulturist

A. H. Teska, horticulturist from the Virginia Polytechnic Intitute at Blacksburg, Va., will be the principal speaker this evening at a meeting of the beekeepers and orchardists of Fairfax County. The meeting will be held in the farmers clubrooms in the old Clerks Office Building at Fairfax. The meeting has been arranged by County Agriculture Agent H. B. Derr, who has extended an invitation to the public.

A meeting of the dairymen of the county was held last night in the schoolhouse at Floris. G. W. Connelly, of the Blacksburg Institute, and J. S. Parker, of the United States Department of Agriculture, were the principal speakers.

TARIFF BILL PASSED IN BRITISH COMMONS

Free Trade Policy Defeated by Vote of 442 to 62; Lords Get Measure.

London, Feb. 25 (A.P.).—The swan song of British free trade was sung in the House of Commons tonight when it passed, by a vote of 442 to 62, the bill imposing a 10 per cent duty on all imports into Great Britain with certain notable exceptions.

Isaac Foot, Liberal minister of mines, and Sir Stafford Cripps, one of the Labor party's leaders, made final bitter speeches against the tariffs before the bill was given third and final reading.

With royal assent, the measure becomes effective as of next Tuesday. Cries of "Resign! Resign!" were shouted at Foot when, 45 minutes before the "guillotine" hour, when the bill had to be out of the way, he arose and arraigned the imposition of tariffs. He declared it had been the history of nations that once a country adopted tariffs it had "sweat blood" before it could get rid of them.

In a sense it was a family victory, since it was his father, Joseph Chamberlain, who a generation ago fought so long but vainly to make Britain a protectionist country. The bill passed on tonight to the House of Lords, which will give it first reading tomorrow and pass it through the remaining stages Monday.

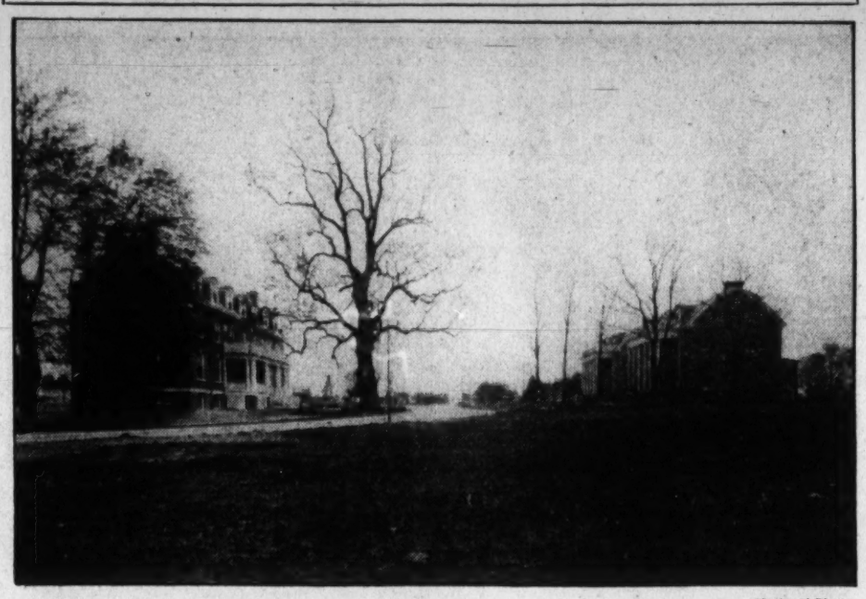
When Washington Was Younger—No. 204



National Photo.

ON May 1, 1909, Walter Reed General Hospital was opened with the buildings shown above having a capacity of 120 beds. Four years before it was opened, in 1905, Congress appropriated $100,000 to secure the tract of land where the hospital now stands.

The hospital was named after the late Maj. Walter Reed, a noted sanitarian and bacteriologist, whose investigation and research in determining the method of transmission of yellow fever, is among the outstanding achievments of preventive medicine accomplished during the nineteenth century.

The large tree shown in the middle of the picture, recently destroyed by lightning, was used as a signal tower during the Civil War, and it is said that a Confederate sharpshooter attempted to shoot President Lincoln from this tree as he stood at Fort Lincoln watching the attack on Washington.

There was no expansion in the hospital from the buildings shown above until 1917, when this country entered the World War. Then many temporary wards began to spread over the reservation, and before the first year of the war was over the hospital could accommodate 2,500 persons. It was a long time after the armistice was signed before the hospital was again enlarged, but many permanent buildings have risen and the capacity is now 3,600 beds. This is the clinical unit of the Army Medical Center. The Army Medical School, the Army School of Nursing, the Army Veterinary School and the Army Dental School are all located at this reservation.

A. F. OF L. BACKERS FILE FOR OFFICES IN U.S. WORKERS' UNION

Factional Fight Develops in Employes' Local No. 2 as Rivals Enter Race.

FEDERAL WITHDRAWAL IS OPPOSED IN KEYNOTE

Green Confers With Leaders for Posts; Balloting to End on March 5.

Submitting what they termed "a large and very ambitious program," the American Federation of Labor candidates for offices in Local Union No. 2, largest of the locals of the National Federation of Federal Employes, yesterday appealed to the membership of the union for support.

Launching of their campaign is a result of the Nation-wide decision of the National Federation of Federal Employes to withdraw affiliation with the American Federation of Labor after the latter body, in its annual convention in Vancouver, had gone on record as opposed to reclassification legislation sought by the Government workers.

The keynote of the A. F. of L. ticket was set forth in blunt language, as follows:

"In view of the recent referendum, wherein the membership of Local No. 2 voted overwhelmingly to remain affiliated to the A. F. of L., we pledge our further effort and influence, to the end that Federal Employes Unions, in Washington and throughout the United States, shall take their rightful and long-accustomed places as affiliates to the American Federation of Labor, as we are sure that the best interests of all Federal employes will be served by so doing."

Conferences Are Held.

Announcement of the A. F. of L. candidates came after a considerable number of conferences between candidates and their supporters and the representatives of William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, who announced that his organization would start a rump Federal employes' union after the National Federation of Federal Employes had voted to withdraw affiliations.

The first announcement by Mr. Green that he intended to launch a new union of Government workers, however, has been softened, and a new program adopted which seeks, through various A. F. of L. agents in all cities, to induce dissatisfied members of the National Federation of Federal Employes to rebel against the decision of their organization and remain with the A. F. of L., despite the clauses in the A. F. of L. laws prohibiting recognition of units of organizations not formally affiliated.

John Arthur Shaw, director, United States Employment Service, Department of Labor, is the A. F. of L. candidate for president. Other candidates on the A. F. of L. ticket include: Vice president, William S. Douglas, chief clerk of the Bureau of Medicine and Surgery of the Navy Department; secretary-treasurer, Gale Feaster, solicitor's office of the Veterans' Administration; recorder, Clarke J. McLane, copyright office, Library of Congress.

Letter Seeks Support.

A letter bespeaking support of these candidates was signed by Ira D. Scott, David R. Glass, A. B. Mustain, Bessie N. Kenyon and C. G. McDonald, of the Veterans' Administration; Helen C. McCarthy, M. W. Buell, C. W. Browning, William J. Blackwood, E. W. Whitehorne, Patrick H. O'Dea and Mary E. Mitchell, of the Navy Department; Mary Anderson and Agnes Peterson, of the Woman's Bureau; Edward Kearney, of the Department of Justice; C. C. Townsend and Sophie J. Bergner, of the Tariff Commission; Willis E. Hurd, of the Weather Bureau; B. H. Lamore, of the State Department; H. J. MacGowan, of the Government Printing Office, and W. J. Pitner, of the Library of Congress.

Mr. Browning was announced as the campaign manager of the American Federation of Labor slate, and members of the union were invited to communicate with Mr. Browning at the Navy Building during office hours or at his home in the evening.

The balloting for officers of local No. 2 will end March 5.

Filling Station Worker Is Attacked and Robbed

Arlington County police are searching for the two colored men who attacked and robbed C. P. Fitzgerald, an employe of the Lord Baltimore Filling Stations at one of the plants located near the Arlington Experimental Farm off of the Government road early yesterday morning. Fitzgerald, according to police, was in the act of unlocking the door when the two men leaped upon him and proceeded to beat him up.

3 Pedestrians Hurt In Auto Accidents

Two Women and Boy, 6, Are Struck by Cars; Driver Is Held.

Two women and a boy, 6 years old, were injured yesterday when they were knocked down by automobiles. The boy, William Sherman, of 1014 Eighth street northwest, is in Emergency Hospital with possible fractures of the skull, pelvis and back.

He was injured, police say, when he ran from between two parked cars into the path of an automobile operated by William L. Peterson, colored, 22 years old, of 1216 Eighth street northwest, in front of 1014 Eighth street northwest.

A man is under $250 bond on a charge of driving with bad brakes in connection with an accident in which Mrs. Ida Blackman, 64 years old, of 2107 O street northwest, was knocked down at Dupont Circle. She received deep lacerations on her scalp and was taken to Emergency Hospital. The man being held is Peter A. Hicks, 25, a taxi driver, of 1831 Vernon street northwest. Mrs. L. T. Garn, 50 years old, of 3711 Benton street northwest, suffered a possible fracture of the hip when she was knocked down at Eleventh and K streets northwest.

WOMAN AIDS 2 MEN STAGE $130 HOLDUP

3 Force Haberdasher Into Rear Room After He Begs Not to Be Bound.

An attractive woman and her two male companions were being sought last night by police for the armed holdup of a haberdashery store a few doors from Eighteenth street and Columbia road which netted the trio $130.

According to Jacob Legun, proprietor of the store, the woman, about 25 years old, and one of the men entered the store first and asked to see some shirts. Legun recognized the man as being one who had looked at shirts Wednesday morning and had said he would return with his wife.

The woman bought one of the shirts and asked to see others on a higher shelf. As Legun reached for them, the second man walked into the store and produced a gun. He prodded Legun in the ribs and took the money from his pockets. Then both men forced Legun to the back of the store, while the woman remained near the door. She did not speak during the robbery, he said.

Legun said the men started to tie him with a piece of rope one of them produced from his pocket, but relented when he pleaded with them. They forced him into a rear room as one of the men told the other to "get a taxicab." No one saw them leave the store, however, so it is not known whether they went away in a cab. Legun waited in the back room about five minutes, he said, and then came out when he found the three gone.

The woman was blond and pretty, he said, and wore a green dress and tan shoes. She was about five feet, seven inches tall, according to the police lookout, and weighed about 120 pounds. Each of the men was about 25 years old, Legun said, and had a dark complexion. Legun, whose store is at 2452 Eighteenth street, lives at 1300 Harvard street northwest. The robbery took place just a few minutes after 4 o'clock.

Cause of Explosion Is Held Unknown

Coroner's Jury Declares Man's Death Was Due to Inexplicable Blast.

A coroner's jury yesterday failed to determine the cause of the explosion which early Tuesday wrecked the building occupied by the Penn Auto Wreckers at 1300 Eleventh street southeast. The jury held that Frank Price, colored, whose body was found in the ruins, met his death through burns suffered in the inexplicable explosion.

A report that a woman had been seen to enter the building with Price Monday night was not substantiated in testimony before the coroner's panel. However, firemen were still searching the ruins yesterday.

Fire Marshal Calvin Lauper testified that no evidence as to the cause of the explosion had been uncovered. Nothing to indicate that coal oil or gasoline had been poured on the coal stove fire in the building was uncovered, he said. A gasoline tank and a compressed air container were intact, he said. Jake Levin, owner of the company, testified Price had been in the habit of going to the establishment after business hours.

Dry Law Case Is First For Attorney; He Wins

After having been dragged in and out of jail twice, several weeks ago, on liquor charges, William Cherry, colored, 28 years old, of 1006 V street northwest, was finally acquitted Tuesday in Police Court through the efforts of a 24-year-old lawyer, Ray McGarvey, who was fighting his first case in court.

Cherry was arrested on February 2 on a charge of illegal possession, but McGarvey succeeded in having the case nolle prossed seven days later.

Grant Lauds Washington As Engineer

Containing facts after careful investigation, making decisions and carrying out these decisions, and taking care of every emergency, were the engineer characteristics of George Washington that qualified him as a leader in war and peace, Lieut. Col. Ulysses S. Grant 3d told the American Society of Mechanical Engineers at their meeting at the Cosmos Club last night.

Speaking of "Washington as an Engineer," Col. Grant pointed out that Washington demonstrated all of the fundamental characteristics of an engineer. He said:

"Inventions of all types interested Washington. His invention of a new plow, the interest he displayed in the first attempts at steamboats and submarine experiments, and his work in the many expeditions prior to and during the Revolutionary War were all indicative of an engineering mind.

"Washington's most outstanding work as an engineer was the construction of the Potomac Canal, and as such, we should purchase the locks and the canal and preserve them as monuments of his work. The Washington Monument should not be the only monument to Washington. The Capital City should be built up according to the plans which he was active in making, and the city in its entirety would be his monument."

GUNMAN IDENTIFIED BY CRIPPLED VICTIM

Man Shot in Back in Taxicab Holdup Is Brought to Court Hearing.

Crippled for life by a bullet from the gun of a colored man who robbed him of his cab and a small amount of money, Vernon Renshaw, now a patient at the Emergency Hospital, yesterday was brought into the District Supreme Court in a wheel chair to point out Thurston Hunt, colored, as the man who shot him.

Hunt is being tried on a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon and robbery. He is alleged to have hired Renshaw last October 24 and to have ordered him to drive to an alley near Ninth and N streets northwest.

At that point the passenger pointed a gun at Renshaw, took all the driver's money and then started to drive off in the cab. Renshaw was told to walk down the alley and when he had taken three steps the man shot him in the back, the bullet smashing his backbone. He has since been in the hospital, where physicians say he is hopelessly crippled.

Hunt denied that he either robbed Renshaw or shot him. Assistant United States Attorney John J. Sirica attempted to show that Hunt robbed Renshaw in order to get money for a liquor fine. The case will be finished today.

Y.W.C.A. Will Present Bicentennial Program

The Young Women's Christian Association will give a colonial program tonight at 8 o'clock at the Seventeenth and K streets headquarters, under the auspices of the Education Council.

Games and readings of the Bicentennial days will be offered by Miss Viola Randolph. An interpretation of "music that George Washington knew" will be given by Miss Leona Bixler, soprano, and Victor H. Neal, pianist.

Miss Bixler, in colonial costume, will be heard in the first American song ever written, Frances Hopkinson's "My Days Have Been So Wondrous Free," and an Old English ballad, "The Lass With the Delicate Air;" also George Washington's favorite song, "The Wayworn Traveler," and "Lullaby," from "The Pirates." An old country dance tune, arranged by Percy Grainger, and called "Country Gardens," and one of the famous "Washington Marches" will be played by Mr. Neal.

'Mayor of Washington' Gets Plea to Help Man Find Mate

To the worries of the District Commissioners over threatened tax increases, a reduced Federal appropriation, and a shortage of funds for the District Committee on Employment yesterday was added the problem of disposing of a matrimonial problem.

One George E. Strand (not Stranded), of Muskogee, Okla., wrote to the "Mayor of Washington" on a postal card, as follows:

"Being this is leap year and that I am in the field for a life mate of some means and ability, I am seeking your aid to let my wants be known to the lonesome women of your city. You may give this news to newspaper reporters and radio announcers to aid if you will.

"I am unable to make a fair living with two trades, so must seek some one of some means and ability to aid me make a living. I am willing to marry on a short notice. My age is 44. I have no children and am lonesome.

"Thanks in advance for any and all favor shown."

Daniel E. Garges, secretary of the board, was still deliberating late yesterday as to whether to send the card to the Oklahoma State Society or to the Oklahoma congressional delegation.

CHANGE IN HOSPITAL SYSTEM PROPOSED

Columbia Institution Named as Potential Unit of Municipal Chain.

Reorganization of the system of municipal hospital service, in line with suggestions of Senator Royal S. Copeland (Democrat), of New York, was proposed yesterday by George S. Wilson, director of the Board of Public Welfare.

Director Wilson suggested the possibility of using Columbia Hospital, in addition to Emergency, Casualty and Gallinger Hospitals, to improve the city's emergency facilities.

The proposal was embodied in a letter to Dr. Copeland, who expressed the need for better coordination of local hospital services following inquiry into the death of Joseph Sisk, Baltimore newspaperman.

Interne Is Cleared.

Sisk died at Gallinger, February 4, of injuries suffered in an automobile accident, after he had been removed from Emergency in a police patrol. Dr. Saul Schwartzback, Emergency Hospital interne, was absolved by Senator Copeland of negligence charges.

Director Wilson next week will call a meeting of the board's medical service committee in an effort "to work out a better system," he wrote the New York senator.

He will propose that the Board of Public Welfare and the heads of the various hospitals confer with Dr. Copeland, with a view to the improved coordination Senator Copeland desires, Mr. Wilson wrote.

Previously Considered.

"The possibility of utilizing the Columbia Hospital plant as a part of the municipal service has, on several occasions, been given consideration by our board, and reports relative thereto have been made by the Bureau of Efficiency," he wrote.

"The appropriations committee also have several times had the matter before them, but no plan has ever been worked out that could secure sufficient support for its enactment."

Emergency Hospital physicians contended they had no beds available for Sisk when he was first taken there after his accident. They pronounced him drunk with "possible fractured vertebrae" and sent him to Gallinger, where his injuries were diagnosed as fatal.

FORMER POLICEMAN AND TWO OTHER MEN SEIZED IN HOLDUPS

ANONYMOUS PHONE CALL IS CAUSE OF ONE ARREST

Fegan Is Identified as Being One of Trio in Plaza Hotel Robbery.

Police yesterday and last night made three arrests in connection with the wave of armed robberies and holdups which have plagued Capital merchants during the last few days.

Two of the men arrested, Henry C. P. Fegan, 34, a former policeman, and Edward Matthews, 42, have been definitely charged with the holdup at pistol point of Silvio Daneri, 18, in his father's grocery store at 114 Quincy street northeast. The youth surrendered $27. The third man arrested on a "tip" late last night and held for investigation is Bernard Downey, of 924 Sixth street northwest. Jewelry valued at $600 taken during the holdup Wednesday night of the Plaza Hotel was found on Downey, according to police.

Victims in five other recent holdups positively identified Fegan as participating in the robberies, while one definitely named Matthews. Others partially identified Matthews. All of the victims will view Downey today.

Frank W. Clark, clerk, and F. T. Weeden, bellboy, of the Plaza Hotel, identified Fegan as one of the men who robbed the hostelry Wednesday night of $150 in cash and the jewelry found on Downey. Mrs. James Kearns, a guest from Paterson, N. J., is the owner of the gems. The two hotel employes partially identified Matthews.

Laundry Manager Identifies.

Miss Margaret Connors, manager of the Tolman Laundry Branch at 491 C street northwest, a block from police headquarters, who was held up and robbed of about $20 Saturday afternoon, identified both Fegan and Matthews.

Other victims who named Fegan and partially identified Matthews were:

Samuel Lieberman, 1301 South Capitol street, grocer, robbed Wednesday night of $7.

Louis Deckelbaum, delicatessen proprietor, of 1315 Fifth street northwest, victimized Wednesday night of $50. Deckelbaum's wife corroborated his identification of Fegan and partial naming of Matthews.

Benjamin F. Parker, manager of a drug store at 755 Eighth street southeast. No loot was obtained here, the men being frightened away by the arrival of a customer.

Anonymous Phone Call.

Downey was arrested after an anonymous telephone call to police headquarters last night said he was in a store at Third and M street southeast. Detectives F. O. Brass and Van D. Hughes hurried there but the suspect had left in a taxicab. The numbers of the cab were obtained and the machine was traced to a house on I street northwest between Sixth and Seventh.

The detectives arrested Downey in the house and recovered the jewelry of Mrs. Kearns. After being booked at headquarters for investigation, Downey was transferred for the night to the Tenth Precinct Station.

Fegan was arrested a few minutes after the holdup early yesterday of the Plaza Hotel by Private J. J. McCarthy, of the First Precinct. Matthews was later arrested after Fegan had been questioned. None of the stolen money, jewels or any firearms were found on Fegan or Matthews.

LONG SERVICE IS REWARDED

Fellow workers in the Department of Agriculture presented Clarence Bean, of 728 Taylor street northwest, with a billfold, well filled with cash, as he retired after 38 years of service. The presentation was made by C. B. Smith, assistant director of extension service, assisted by W. H. Evans, chief of the Division of Insular Experiment Stations. Left to right—Dr. Evans, Mrs. Bean, Mr. Bean and Dr. Smith.

POLICE WILL ASSIST IN RELIEVING NEEDY

Glassford Announces Plan to Care for Night Cases and Prevent Suffering.

The blue of a policeman's uniform henceforth is to be the symbol of relief for the hungry, the cold, the weary and the shelterless.

A plan by which the Police Department and agencies of the Community Chest would work in close cooperation was discussed yesterday by Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, other police officials and representatives of charitable and veterans organizations.

The proposed plan, which is expected to be adopted for experimental purposes until April 1, would make little change during daylight. However, a much more expansive plan toward the needy at night is envisaged in the agenda discussed yesterday.

Will Aid Needy Families.

Needy families, lacking fuel or food, would be supplied with $2 to carry through until morning by the officers of precincts. The social agencies agreed to reimburse the officers. Next day the case would be taken over by the social agency.

The proposed plan envisages the following action in various types of cases after 5 p. m. and on Sundays and holidays:

Homeless men to be sent to the Salvation Army's emergency quarters at 479 C street northwest; homeless women to be sent to the same agency's emergency home at 622 Fifth street northwest, and homeless families to the Traveler's Aid Society at Union Station.

Those Attending Conference.

Among those attending the conference yesterday, besides Gen. Glassford, were Elwood Street, director of the Community Chest; Mrs. W. A. Roberts, executive secretary of the Council of Social Agencies; E. C. Babcock, national commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars; C. B. Jennings, department commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Along with his other duties as chief of the liquor and vice squads, Inspector James F. Beckett will have the job of recording all the panhandlers arrested and their disposition, it was revealed yesterday. A report of the circumstances of arrest and disposition of the case will be turned over to the inspector's office.

Deliberate repeaters, unless there are valid extenuating circumstances, will be held and tried for vagrancy, Gen. Glassford said.

3 Suspects Freed In Ruppert Killing

One Man Still Is Detained; Early Solution of Case Is Predicted.

Three of four suspects arrested in the slaying of Anton Ruppert, 58-year-old grocery store proprietor, who was shot down in cold blood Saturday night by bandits who entered his establishment at 1900 Eleventh street northwest, were released last night following several hours grilling by headquarters detectives.

The men freed were Melvin Jackson, 21 years old, of 1430 Chapin street northwest; Oliver Morgan, 22 years old, of 1209 U street northwest, and James R. Southall, 23 years old, also of the U street address. All are colored. Marvin Pearson, colored, 21 years old, of the same address, still is being held at the Second Police Precinct Station, although no charge has been placed against him.

Detective Sergt. H. K. Wilson, head of the homicide squad, said last night that he anticipated the case would be solved within a short time. At an early hour this morning he was investigating a number of conflicting phases, which, when straightened out, he said would clear up the whole affair.

Unemployment Speech Pending.

Representative Kent E. Keller (Democrat), Illinois, will seek recognition to discuss "Unemployment, Its Cause and Cure," at 12:30 o'clock today in the House, he announced last night.

POLICE NEGLIGENCE REPORTED IN ATTACK

Preliminary Survey Is Given by Lieut. Letterman on Girl's Charges.

Indications of negligence in the handling by three First Precinct policemen of the report of a criminal assault on an 18-year-old Uniontown, Pa., girl were reported to Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of police, yesterday by Lieut. Oscar Letterman in a preliminary survey of the case.

The policemen involved are Privates Wallace M. Suthard, Ralph D. Edwards and John L. Mason. The girl, Margaret E. Soblotney, with her brother, James, complained on July 16 to Privates Suthard and Edwards of a purported assault on the girl by a man they described at length.

The brother and sister were directed by Edwards, according to Letterman's report, to go to the First Precinct Station and report the incident, while the two policemen sought the accused man. On the way, said the report, the girl and her brother claimed they saw Edwards in conversation with the accused.

When Private Edwards came to the station, said Letterman, the girl is said to have inquired why they did not bring in the man in question, and the policeman is said to have replied, "If that is the man, I know him. His name is Bob Robinson." However, continued the report, Edwards never figured in the final apprehension of the man who was convicted on the criminal assault charge.

The girl is said to have exhibited a $2 bill to Mason and Edwards at the station house which, she said, was hurled at her by the man who was later convicted of the offense, Harry Clay Robertson.

Letterman obtained most of his information from Assistant District Attorneys William H. Collins and Julian I. Richards. Gen. Glassford said the whole matter would be gone into thoroughly before charges, if any, are preferred.

The incident was brought to the attention of Gen. Glassford with the allegation that the handling of the case by the three privates named in Letterman's report had impeded prosecution of the case.

Another 'Shooting' Is Laid to Sniper

Piercing of Car Window Is Reported by Northwest Motorist.

Fear that the "sniper" had renewed his activities was felt last night when C. H. Lyons, jr., of 1369 Meridian place northwest, a clerk in the Department of Agriculture, exhibited to Second Precinct police a small hole in a window of his automobile, which was believed to have been made by a bullet.

Lyons said he was driving along S street between Fourteenth and Fifteenth streets northwest, shortly after 10 o'clock, when suddenly an object whirred past his head and struck a window on the opposite side of his machine. He declared he heard no report, but that the heavy traffic and noises in the vicinity could easily have drowned out the sound of a shot.

The object, Lyons said, entered the window next to the driver's seat, whizzed by his head and shattered a section of the rear window on the opposite side. He explained to police that he immediately stopped his car and searched for signs of a slug. It was not found, however, and police expressed the opinion that the glass was broken by a stone.

Driver Exonerated in Boy's Death.

A coroner's jury yesterday held accidental the death of Joseph Turner, 10 years old, colored, as the result of injuries sustained Monday when struck by a taxicab. The driver of the taxicab, John W. Fraber, 24, was relieved of blame for the accident by the verdict.

Aid of Science Is Invoked In Fight for Gorilla's Life

The aid of science has been invoked in the fight to save the life of N'Gi, the baby gorilla, which is desperately ill of pneumonia in his cage at the Zoo. An oxygen tank is expected to arrive today to aid the ape in his fight against the ravages of his illness.

N'Gi had swung gally in his cage in the monkey house for the last three years, to the delight of thousands of admirers. A few days ago he lost interest in life and lay listlessly in a bundle of burlap bags in his cage.

Veterinarians were called. They just shook their heads indicating that there is just a bit of hope for the baby gorilla. Many different kinds of medicine have been administered without results. If N'Gi passes on, it will be difficult to replace him, Dr. William M. Mann, director of the Zoo, said. It is difficult to capture a gorilla alive and it is more difficult to bring one across the ocean.

Dr. Mann, who had hoped to be the first to raise a gorilla from babyhood to adult size in captivity, said last night: "There are few living creatures that have given more pleasure to the world than N'Gi. He is tired of life today and his condition is just so-so. But the doctors say there is some hope."

TRACTION CONCERNS FAIL TO WIN CHANGE IN PAVING COST PLAN

Commissioners Refuse to Modify Assessment Stand in Merger Bill.

FIRMS ALSO GET REBUFF IN FIGHT FOR TAXICABS

Utilities Body Declines to Alter Amendment on 'Mass' Transportation.

The District Commissioners yesterday informed the Washington Railway & Electric Co. and the Capital Traction Co. that they could not modify their stand with regard to paving assessments provided in the pending street car merger bill. An additional paving cost had been proposed by the railways in exchange for their acceptance of the measure.

The street car companies late yesterday met another rebuff from the Public Utilities Commission, which refused to alter its proposed amendments submitted Wednesday to the Senate District committee. The amendment which the railways oppose most is that providing for inclusion of the word "mass" when referring to modes of transportation the new company shall be authorized to operate.

Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chairman of the commission, said yesterday following a conference with William F. Ham, president, and S. R. Bowen, general counsel, of the Washington Railway & Electric Co., that the company proposes to suggest substitution of a clause requiring approval by the commission of any other form of transportation.

Sought Cab Rights.

The street car companies previously have insisted that the bill give the new company authority to operate taxicabs in the future if they so desired. The first draft of the merger bill would have permitted such operation.

The Commissioners stated in their letters to the railway heads they can not approve any assumption of paving obligations in addition to those embraced in a recent report to the Senate and House District committees. These were that the District government will assume the cost of all bridge paving and three-fourths of the cost of track paving on new streets, together with the payment of approximately $115,000 in salaries to the street crossing policemen. The Commissioners insisted, however, that the cost of all repaving between and 2 feet on either side of the tracks be borne entirely by the new company.

In exchange for an agreement to accept the bill, the railway officials agreed to do all paving patchwork and repairs incidental to track rehabilitation, but asked the Commissioners to agree to paying three-fourths the cost of all complete repaving jobs.

Concessions Are Cited.

Pointing out that according to statistics of the companies "less than $100,000 a year" would be saved the railways under this plan, the Commissioners added: "If your companies have full confidence in the accuracy of these figures, it is difficult to see how such an amount could stand in the way of acceptance of the admittedly large benefits which would result to you from merged operation."

The Commissioners take the position "that the concessions already made by them and approved by the Bureau of the Budget as being in accord with the financial policy of the President, are very substantial, over $150,000 a year, and are the maximum that can be expected of the District of Columbia."

In conclusion, they state that the "additional contribution" requested is "considerably less than that heretofore approved by us" and that, therefore, the Commissioners "have gone more than half way. Furthermore, no source of revenue is in sight from which the District could hope to recoup any such additional contribution."

Opposes Testimony.

People's Counsel Richmond B. Keech, in a long letter to the Senate District committee yesterday denied that the clause in the pending bill relating to the sale of power to the new company meets the recommendations and findings of Dr. Milo R. Maltbie, formerly employed by the committee to study the Wilson merger plan.

The letter took issue with testimony offered by Gen. Patrick at a recent hearing that the power clause in the present measure was in accord with Dr. Maltbie's recommendations. On the contrary, Mr. Keech states, quoting from the report, Dr. Maltbie found the arrangement "bad in principle."

The controversial paragraph provides that the Potomac Electric Power Co. shall sell to the new company 63 per cent of the power needed for fifteen years after the merger at the same rates now charged the Washington Railway & Electric Co., parent of the power concern. The balance of the rates would be fixed by the utilities commission.

Child and Woman Hurt In Auto-Truck Collision

Helen Davis, 6 years old, daughter of Milton Davis, owner of Milton's Grill, on E street near Thirteenth street northwest, was cut about the head and lips yesterday afternoon when an automobile driven by her mother, Mrs. Emily K. Davis, of 1418 Varnum street northwest, was in collision with a truck at Thirteenth and R streets northwest.

The child was treated at Children's Hospital. Mrs. Fannie Bordow, 39 years old, of 701 Seventh street southeast, a passenger on the truck, suffered a laceration over her left eye and a bruise on the left side of her face, but refused hospital treatment. Police said Major P. Holmes, colored, 18 years old, of 909 Sixth street southeast, was driver of the truck.

Five Face Gaming Charge.

Five men were booked on charges of permitting gaming yesterday after Sergt. R. S. Bryant, of the Second Inspection District special squad, is said to have walked in on them as they were playing on a "bingo table" in a cigar store at 2503 Champlain street northwest.
